AMUSEMENTS. Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The dress-circle was well filled with ladies and children at the matinee yesterday, and all were delighted with "The Red Pocket-Book." This very attractive play, which has had such a remarkably successful run, will be played to-night for positively the last time. To-morrow evening E. T. Jackson, the comedian and character actor, will make his appearance as Byles, in Craven's capital drama of "Miriam's Crime," and Miss Josey Langley will make her debut before a San Francisco audience in the fairy extravaganza of "Gossamer."

California Theatre.

All who can appreciate a good play and good acting, should see "John Garth" at the California Theatre. We would suggest to Miss Ellie Wilton, who looks charming as Minnie Garth, and plays some portions of the character with much feeling, that there is not quite enough light and shade in her characterization; Minnie is too subdued, throughout, and a more frequent outburst of the "Garth spirit" would do much to relieve its monotony.

Alhambra Theatre.

The first part, by Billy Emerson, Harry Norman, George Reynolds, S. Holdsworth, and others, concluding with the ever-popular "Carry the News to Mary," is very pleasing. In the interlude a number of amusing acts are given; the Reynolds Brothers appear in "Golden Showers," Billy Emerson gives his capital Dutch impersonations, the Kohler Brothers perform a beautiful cornet duet, and the comic piece entitled "Dr. Cureall" winds up the feast of fun.

Bella Union.

Ella La Rue, as the Female Lecturer, and in banjo solos, Lon McCarty in his great "George Francis Train Stump Speech," Maggie Knight in character songs, Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin in one of their clever double Dutch acts, and other popular favorites, appear in a varied programme, concluding with the musical extravaganza of "The Corsair."

The Oxford.

Of course there was a rush to see the burlesque entitled "Our Own Red Colored Pocket-Book," produced at this establishment last night. The characters and scenery in the original play were amusingly burlesqued, and the menageries of animals caused much fun. This burlesque is up for a run, and will draw crowds for many nights to come.

Theatre Comique.

Johnny Kelly in songs, dances, and acts; Mike Quinn in banjo solos and farces, Rose Vincent in fancy dances, Cherry Bells in feats of magic, and a number of tableaux vivants are among the attractions at this house.

Platt's Hall.

Grace Greenwood, the popular author, will deliver her last lecture in San Francisco this evening at Platt's Hall. The subject will be "In-doors." Grace Greenwood is always sure of a large and fashionable audience.

The Ernst and Roussey Benefit.

The entertainment for the relief of the Ernst and Roussey Families at Platt's Hall last night was a most gratifying success in every respect. The hall was positively thronged with our best citizens, and our best artists volunteered their services to give an entertainment worthy of the occasion. In the comedy of "A Pretty Piece of Business," Owen Marlowe did a capital bit of acting as Dr. Shee; Charles Vivian acted the part of Merryweather with much spirit; Miss Imogene Van Dyke and Mrs. Sophie Edwin were good in their respective parts of Charlotte Shee and Fanny Grantley and Mrs. Owen Marlowe, who made her first appearance before the San Francisco public on this occasion played Dobson, the chambermaid, in a piquante manner, which proved she was no novice on the stage. This was followed by a ballad by Edwin Leathes; then came the third act of "Othello," in which Joseph Rayner read the part of the Moor well, but acted rather tamely; Miss Nellie Cummins played Desdemona with much feeling, and James Neill, an amateur we presume, was perfect in his lines as Iago. Miss Helen Diageon was hoarse and could not appear. Edgar Stanley sang "The Memories of the Past" very well, though the ball was rather larger than any he has been accustomed to of late. Jas. Williamson recited "Shamus O'Brien" in a very fresh and natural style and gained immense applause; Miss Lulu Wilson did a song and dance capitally; the Quarrel Scene from "Julius Cæsar" was admirably rendered by Henry Edwards and John McCullough. The sisters May and La Petite Darling did a medley dance in a style which excited much applause and laughter; Charles Vivian sang several songs in capital style—"Ten Thousand Miles Away" had to come as matter of course. He afterwards made a little speech thanking the public for having helped the actors in their charitable work, John McCullough for his hearty co-operation, and the press for their gratuitous aid. He said that the receipts as far as known amounted to $241 and there were still tickets unaccounted for which would swell the sum considerably. Miss Josephine Abecco, sang the new ballad "Birdie's Lament," very sweetly. J. Davis sang several comic songs in good style, gaining enthusiastic encores. A volunteer, whose name was not on the bill, sang a stirring ballad with good effect and the performance terminated with an imitation of a Chinaman by J. S. Swan, which would have been better had he sacrificed his whiskers. The whole entertainment was under the management of R. G. Marsh, and was capitally carried out. Professor Nichols presided at the piano, and accompanied the singers with good taste and much skill. The benefit was a credit to the profession, and to the public of San Francisco.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Tasteless and Effective.

Dr. Leon Brockman's Lezenges, while they have not the slightest medicated taste but are much like bon bons, are an effective cure for nervous and sick headache, dyspepsia, and all diseases caused by impure blood. Philosophy of Tippling.

It's an old piece of advice, but it's worth repetition: Don't drink freely of spirits. Don't drink because you are despondent, because you are dull, because you want excitement, or because you feel gay, and would feel gayer. Drink for despondency? for every blue devil so driven away ten will return to reinforce him. Drink against dullness? For the few days of fleeting, baleful light so brought to you, there shall afterward come clouds as thick and black as those which once darkened the Heavens over Herculaneum and Pompeii. Three times out of four, the blues means a torpid liver. Bad blood sent to the brain generates gloomy thoughts. The life current is not circulating through your body with sufficient power to keep the many and varied departments in proper action; alcohol give it a spasmodic impulse. The wheels of life for a few moments are sent whizzing and spinning around, then comes reaction; and they turn more sluggishly than ever. The only good spirits in the world are resident in good blood. The worst ones lives in bad. 'Tis that which sends false imaginations, suspicions, and despondencies to the brain. Moderate tippling is the father of dyspepsia. Intoxication in any degree will cause you to overrate your power and distort your judgement. The reaction causes you to underrate and sinks you in your self-esteem. So the drinking man lives on a see-saw. Now up in the false sunshine of vanity, now down in the gulfs of self-depredation. So the devilish spirit of wine plays with humanity, and well it earns the title of "Mocker."

Excitement in Los Angeles.

The people of Los Angeles have their little pleasures and excitements. It is not every day that they hang a lot of Chinamen and sack their houses, or tar and feather a doctor, but th re is always something going on. We find the following in Thursday's Evening Expres:

A rumor of a Chinaman's head having been found in a zanja, is causing some activity and digging by sheriffs and police as we go to press.

Now that's a better item than has been in the Call for some time past. There's something exciting about that—"a Chinaman's head found in a zanja."

We Shall See.

Joseph P. Lyman, agricultural editor of the New York Tribune, died on the 29th. Now we shall see whether Horace Greeley publishes any more information about what he knows about farming. We'll bet he won't until he gets a new agricultural editor to cram him.

The question is asked whether Theodore Charles Busch, who kissed Nilsson, contrary to law, really was mad. He wasn't half so mad as she was.

A Western editor reports money "close, but not close enough to be reached."

THE DAYS THAT ARE NO MORE.

BY ALFRED TENNYSON.

Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean,
Tears from the depth of some divine despair
Rise to the heart, and gather in the eyes,
On looking on the happy Autumn-fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more.

Fresh as the first beam glittering on a sail,
That brings our friend up from the under world,
Sad as the last which reddens over one
That sinks with all we love below the verge;
So sad, so fresh, the days that are no more,

Ah, sad and strange as in dark Summer dawns
The earliest pipe of half-awaken'd birds
To dying ears, when unto dying eyes
The casement slowly grows a glimmering square
So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.

Dear as remember'd kisses after death,
And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feign'd
On lips that are for others; deep as love,
Deep as first love, and wild with all regret;
O Death in Life, the days that are more.

Breach of Contract.

An exchange says: "A physician had been called to visit a small-pox patient in Fond du Lac. On seeing him, the physician declared the man beyond human aid, and as he turned away, said to some of the mourning attendants: "Dig the grave the corpse will be ready!" The grave was dug but the man got well, and as he refused to pay for the digging, the men who did the ditching have come back on the M. D. and threaten suit if he doesn't foot the bill."

They should certainly recover the money. The doctor having promised that the corpse should be ready, should have seen to it that it was. Nothing but his negligence in leaving the patient prevented the grave finding a tenant.

Golden Hair.

We often hear of "golden hair," in fact that is the fashionable color now, but all are not aware that human hair is worth its weight in gold. Yet it appears that Felix Pyatt, 424 Kearny street, has such an immense stock of this costly commodity on hand, that he throws it away. The following, which appeared in the Morning Call a short time ago goes to prove this:

Felix Pyatt, for throwing human hair into the street in front of his store, will appear for [illegible]

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE!

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their aid, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

A Forgiving Wife Deserted.

Here's a true tale of woe, all about a beautiful and abandoned wife in New York. She married a wretch who loved her money not wisely, but too well. When he got the money he loved somebody else, and departed for the rolling prairies of the West. His earthly possessions were burnt up in the Chicago fire, and then he came back to New York, and put up at the Astor House, without a cent in his pocket. Remorse seized him—it must have been remorse—and ascertaining the address of his lawful partner, he thus wrote her:

"I am here, and penniless. Forgive the past, and come to my arms again."

This is what she wrote back.

"I'll come as soon as I can. Excuse delay. I've gone to have a loaded head put on the cane you left."

He didn't wait. Remorse seized him again and carried him off.

We Should Think So.

The Sacramento Bee, speaking of a proposition to pay the proceeds of the poll tax into the school fund, says:

Property and not men should pay taxes. The poll tax is an abomination, and should be abolished. Let the schools be supported by a direct tax on property. Next to the income tax, this poll tax is the most obnoxious one we have.

The poll tax is a relic of barbarism unworthy of a country like this. It was abolished hundred of years ago in England.

A Splendid Plan.

It is reported that the Postmaster General, with a view of signalizing his career in office, intends flavoring the adhesive matter of postage stamps with the various popular extracts, raspberry, vanilla, wintergreen, etc. It would be so pleasant on going to your desk for a postage stamp to find that "dear little Johnny" had licked them all so that they wouldn't stick. Of course the only way you could get even would be to lick Johnny.

Boys will be Boys.

Dr. Brock is very hard on the sportive youths of San Francisco. Just because a lot of them amused themselves by lassooing him on Wednesday night he had them arrested. The doctor ought to remember he was a boy once himself. Some men can't take a joke.

Sir Charles Bilk has married a wife and will, we hope, cease making a fool of himself in public.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of ep ee.

A Model Obituary.

A disconsolate editor thus bemoans his departed spous:

"Thus my wife died: No more will those loving hands pull off my boots, and part my back hair, as only a true wife can: nor will ever those willing feet replenish the coal-hod and water-pail. No more will she arise amid the tempestuous storms of Winter, and hie herself away to build the fire, without disturbing the slumbers of the man who doted on her so artlessly. Her memory is embalmed in my heart of hearts. I wanted to embalm her body, but I found that I could embalm her memory cheaper. I procured of Eli Mudgett—a neighbor of mine—a very pretty grave-stone. His wife was consumptive, and he kept it on hand several years, in anticipation of her death; but she rallied last Spring, and his hopes were blasted. Never shall I forget the poor man's grief when I asked him to part with it: "Take it, Skinner, and may you never know what it is to have your soul racked with disappointment as mine has been!" and he burst into a flood of tears. His spirit was, indeed, utterly broken. I had the following epistle engraved upon her tombstone: "To the memory of Tabitha, wife of Moses Skinner Esq., gentlemanly editor of the Trombone. Terms $8 a-year invariably in advance. A kind mother and exemplary wife. Office over Coleman's grocery, up two flights of stairs, knock hard. We shall miss thee, mother, we shall miss thee. Job printing solicited." Thus did my lacerated spirit cry out in agony—even as Rachel weeping for her children. But one ray of light penetrated my soul; the undertaker took his pay in job printing, and the sexton owed me a little account I should not have gotten in any other way. Why should we pine at the mysterious ways of Providence and vicinity?—(not a conundrum.) I here pause to drop a silent tear to the memory of Tabitha Ripley, that was an eminently pious woman, and could fry the best piece of tripe I ever flung under my vest. Her pick-up dinners were a perfect success, and she always doted on foreign missions."

A Much-abused Animal.

Howes & Richard's horse that stands in front of their grocery store, 535 and 537 Clay street, is the best abused animal in town, just because he has playfully nipped a passer-by occasionally—not at all in a horsehoodlumish spirit, but just in fun. We hope the papers are satisfied now they have got the poor beast muzzled. That intelligent horse never bit customers going in to buy groceries, but only ill-mannered passers-by who made faces at him.

Sublime Rascality.

At Grass Valley an old Chinese fish-peddler presented the following "check" at a bank:

To whom it may concern: This old bilk wants a head put on him. Whoever will do so will oblige Charles Crocker.

When John heard the interpretation he observed: "That paper dam lascal; he ne say two dollar six bittee!" That merchant evidently has hoodlums among his customers.

A Pretty Story.

A little girl in Indiana, on Decoration Day, strewed flowers on the grave of a confederate soldier. A little friend reminded her it was a rebel's grave. She replied, "yes; I know it, but papa was a soldier, and died in Libby prison, and was buried down South; I so much hope some little girl there will strew flowers over his grave, for maybe some of them have little girls at home."

Perhaps.

An exchange says: Care to our coffin adds a nail, no doubt, and every grin, so merry, draws one out." We wonder if it would be worth a man's while to try to grin the nails out of his wife's coffin.

A Scotch Minister on Drinking.

A Scotch minister was urged by his congregation to preach a sermon on intemperance, as it was a vice very prevalent in his parish, and much good might result from its denunciation by the holy man. Accordingly the Reverend Sawney complied. He said:

Whatever ye do brethren, do it in moderation, and, aboon a' be moderate i' your dram drinkin'. When ye get up, indeed ye may take a dram, and anither just afore breakfast, and perhaps anither after, but dinna be always dram drinkin'. If ye are out i' the morning, ye may just brace yoursel' we anither dram, and tak' anither i' the forenoon, but dinna be always dram—dramming. Nae body can scruple for ane just before dinna; and when the dessert is brought in, and after it's ta'en awa, and perhaps ane, or, it may be twa, or in the course o' the afternoon, just to keep ye fra drowsying and snoozling: but dinna be always drinkin'. Afore tea and after tea, and between tea and supper, and before and efter supper, is no more nor right and gude; but let me caution ye, brethren, not to be always dram, dramming. Just when ye're goin' to bed, and when ye're ready to pop into't, and perhaps when ye wake i' the night, to tak' a dram or twa is no more nor a Christian may lawfully do; but brethren, let me caution ye not to drink more than I've mentioned, or, maybe ye may pass the bounds o' moderation.

How's This, John!

The Portland Oregonian of the 22d has the following:

A few days ago at Canyon City, Grant county, as we learn from a letter to the Bulletin, the house of John McCullough was carried by a land slide a distance of 240 yards and landed in Canyon creek. The house was uninjured. Many persons were in the house at the time, but no one was injured. Such an occurrence is indeed a phenemenon. The area of land moved was about ten acres.

Has the worthy manager of the California Theatre been building a house at Canyon City, Oregon? If he has, this news must startle him; accustomed though he be to "moving the house," this having one moved for him as above related is a novelty.

A Clergyman's Diary.

The Scotsman prints the following as a transcript from the diary of a clergyman in the north of England: Monday—Breakfast in bed. Read newspaper most of the forenoon. Called on Miss Jones. Conversed an hour with her on the conversion of the Jews. Had wine with her. Dined with old Grippy. Grouse overdone, but claret fair. Home. Studied hard an hour with scissors in Spurgeon, Newman and Theodore Parker. Elder called to speak about glebe. Gave him toddy. Hallelujah.

Pretty Plain Talk.

A lady living in Lyndon, Vermont, who lost her husband in the late war, had an offer of marriage from a man who lost his wife by divorce. She answered: "The Lord parted me and my husband, but your own devilish actions parted you and your wife, and if you want another one you must go the devil for her, for I won't have you."

A Sad Pity.

A bereaved widower, while receiving with due acknowledgement the condolence of of friends—that it was indeed a great loss—a sad bereavement that he had suffered, added: "And just think! Only a few days ago I bought her a whole box of pills, and she hadn't time to take half of them before she died."

Panama Steamer Quarantined.

The steamer Conititution arrived from Panama this morning and anchored off Meiggs' wharf, having the small-pox on borrd. The Health Officer has placed the steamer in quarantine.

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures.

An Animal Charmer.

The Territorial Enterprise has the following:

There appears to be a something—magnetic or otherwise—radiating from the system of certain men which gives them much influence over the inferior animals; which makes them as it were, animal charmers. Officer Hayton, of the police force, of this city, is one of these peculiarly gifted individuals. Dogs, cats, pigs, sheep, and all kinds of animals feel, and acknowledge his influence. When he makes his appearance dogs, cats, and all kinds of dumb beasts appear to experience a certain degree of pleasure in his presence and making the best demonstrations of friendship in their power—"go for him." Of nights when he is going his rounds about the streets, it is no uncommon thing to see from six, to eight dogs, of all breeds, sizes, and conditions constantly following behind him, stopping when he stops, and again moving on when he proceeds on his beat. Not only do vagrant and dissipated-looking curs leave their half-gnawed bones, and follow at his heels, but also well-fed and sleek watch dogs, that have slipped away from their own door-stones to enjoy for a time the pleasure of being near their great friend. What is strange about the business, is, that there appears to be no jealousy among Mr. Hayton's followers. They jog along together without a growl or snarl—all as one family. Although cats do not follow him about the streets, yet they all manifest great pleasure at his approach. They rear aloft, and gently wag their tails, rub their backs against door-steps, and purring melodiously all the time, keep one eye cocked upon him as he approaches. The other night a sheep, which had followed him all about town, would not give him up even when he went into a saloon, but marched in after him unmindful of the crowd that filled the room. The secret of the officer's influence among animals, probably lies in his love for them, and his kind treatment of dumb brutes of every kind. At his residence he has a regular menagerie of white rats, squirrels, cats, dogs, rabbits, wolves, skunks, and almost every other kind of animal to be had on the Pacific Coast. Could he get hold of a wild African lion, he would soon have him following him about the streets the same as the dogs do now.

Practical Darwinism.

Monkeys are scarce in Michigan, A saddler in Detroit kept a big one for a pet, who usually sat on the counter.

A countryman came in one day, the proprietor being in the back room. The customer seeing a saddle that suited him, he asked the price.

Monkey said nothing.

Customer said: "I'll give you twenty dollars for it," laying down the money, which monkey shoved into the drawer.

The man then took the saddle, but monkey mounted him, tore his hair, and scratched his face, and the frightened customer screamed for his life.

The proprietor rushed in and wanted to know: "What's the fuss?"

"Fuss," said the customer, "fuss!" I bought a saddle from your son sitting there, and when I went to take it, he wouldn't let me have it.

The saddler apologized for the monkey, but assured him he was no relation.

At the Skating Carnival.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night T. E. Jackson, low comedian and character actor, and Miss Josie Langley, soubrette actress and vocalist, from the Boston Theatre will make their first appearance at the Metropolitan Theatre. The performance will commence with Craven's three-act drama of "Miriam's Crime," in which T. E. Jackson will appear as Clarkson Biles, and Miss Henrietta Osborne as Miriam West. After this J. T. Dorhman's new and original fairy extravaganza entitled "Gesamar" will be produced, with new scenery by Wilkins, and full corps de ballet and chorus. There will be a matinee to-morrow, when "The Red Pocketbook" will be presented for the last time.

Alhambra Theatre.

The shouts of laughter which nightly follow Billy Emerson's character impersonations prove how thoroughly his style of fun suits the San Francisco public. "Don't Give that Name a Bad Place" is the most popular song of the day, but no one can sing it but Billy Emerson. The ballads in the first part; the performances by the Reynolds Brothers and numerous amusing acts, make up a capital entertainment.

California Theatre.

All who have witnessed the performance of Brougham's play of "Joan Garth" have been much pleased with it, and those who miss seeing it will lose a treat. It will be played to-night, to-morrow, at the matinee, and to-morrow night for the last time. "Horizon," will be produced on Monday.

Bella Union.

Brough's clever extravaganza of "The Corsair," which is well played by Carrie Chapman, H. D. Thompson, Minnie Fillmore, Marie Zoel, Lon McCarty, and other members of the company, must be withdrawn after to-night, to make way for another equally excellent piece; therefore those who have not seen it should go to the Bella Union this evening.

Theatre Comique.

The versatile Cherry Belle, who is actress, vocalist, dancsuse, magicianne, and performer on the banjo, and on the guitar, amuses the patrons of this house. Johnny Kelly, Mike Quinn, Jake Wallace, and a host of others also appear in a varied programme.

The Oxford.

The amusing burlesque of "The Red Pocket-Book," with its extravagant travesties of the scenes of the sinking ship, the desert, etc., causes much fun at this establishment. Charles Vincent, Miss Amelia Dean, Miss Lizzie Harmon, R. McDaniels, Hughey Morton, George Lowden, and many others are in the cast and perform their respective parts well.

Platt's Hall.

In spite of the unpleasant weather which might have been expected to cause people generally to find amusement "in-doors." Miss Grace Greenwood's lecture, with that title, was listened to by a very large and fashionable audience.

A Quiet Game of Chess.

The Yreka Union of the 27th, has the following:

The Yreka Chess Club are getting to be decidedly "hobstropolous." They convene at the Saloon of Maurice Benner, one of the most orderly and well-behaved publicans in America, and offset his demure behavior by loud ejaculations and riotous laughter. Morphy is the champion chess-player of the world, and we are in favor of administering morphine to the Club, in a body, just as Mr. Squeers gave treacle and brimstone to the students of Dotheboy's Hall. Chess cannot be played without rooks, but it can be played without kicking up such a rookery. The defeated contestant always emerges into the street with anger in his eyes and blasphemy on his lips, so that the "bishop's" teachings are not of much avail. And finally, we are in favor of pawning the whole set of chessmen and donating the proceeds to some asylum for orphans whose parents have lost their reason and lives at the chessboard. Last week, one man said "Play your rook to the queen's fourth square," when the opposing player instantly buried a ten-inch Bowie Knife in his heart. Scarcely had the Coroner's jury rendered a verdict of "justifiable homicide," ere a fair-haired youth suggested a "mate" in three moves, to one of the players. Poor boy, a derringer flashed in the air and the leaden messenger went crashing through his brain. We had some notion of writing to Luttrell to have the game of chess included in the statute against noisy and barbarous amusements, but if they will premise to do so no more, we will forgive them.

We suppose the above is a "joke"—we hope so—but as it will be copied as a true account all over the Union, it will not improve the reputation Yreka has at present.

Venerable.

The Oakland News says: "A venerable goose supposed to be over seventy years old still lives at Dover, Mo. She is 46 years older than the Alta."

Delightful Women.

The women of the Fiji Islands must be charming helpmates, as they are docile, dirty small, and can live on anything from a snake to a roasted missionary, or cold-boiled sailor. A party of male and female inhabitants of these Islands, are now making a tour through the United States, and exhibiting their obese abdomens and hideous faces. A newspaper reporter has interviewed the fair Princess Obavah, but unfortunately, she has shocked our pride by scoffing at our civilization and our women. She regards our weaker sex as being the laziest mortals on earth, and sadly in need of a sound thrashing. This latter remark shows that she has been brought up to love her lord, and bow to his commands. Should her idea become popular what a pleasant time husbands will have. Whenever their dinners are not ready or a shirt button is neglected, how delightful it will be to amuse themselves for half an hour in laying the "cat" on the negligent spouse to make her smart, and give color to the cheek. Should this become tiresome, a little gentle exercise with the boot might aid digestion and add variety to the amusement.

The Princess was also disgusted at the large number of old people found in the country. They do these things better in the Southern clime, where they knock out the brains of the aged, and then quietly place them under ground. This could be introduced here to advantage in the case of meddling mothers-in-law. One could then keep all things quiet in the family, and perhaps save the cost of boarding a useless piece of humanity.—Portland Dramatic Chronicle.

Russian Fables.

Two dogs swore devoted friendship to each other, and loved until a bone was thrown out to them; then they fought. The world is full of such friendship.

The fox complained to the marmot that he had been deposed from being judge of the poultry yard, being charged with appropriating the stock, and bemoaned such calumny and disaster, asking his opinion. The marmot said he had often remarked down on his muzzle. Some officials have down on their muzzles.

In the realms below, Beelzebub decreed that the slanderer did more mischief than the snake. The slanderer stung from afar and unprovoked—the snake from near contact.

A young horse complained of a man sowing oats instead of giving them to him. In the Autumn he ate of the crop. Men are equally audacious in criticizing Providence, though they see not the means and ends.

A Useful Formula.

Defaulters intending suicide will find the following form tolerably well adapted to their needs: I can no longer endure the deep disgrace and the thought of the shame my rascality has brought on my darling wife and little ones. May God have mercy upon my thieving soul, and forgive me for being detected."

BY JO KING JACINTO.

He'll make no more tracks,
Where the coyotes rule,
Where grass grows the shortest.
The butcher's old mule!

The grizzly may pass
By his bones on the hill;
'Twas better he did, for
He's strychnined to kill;

The skunk with his fragrance
On his nostrils may sit;
May stink and may stink—
He can't smell a bit.

Long ears, Roman nose, gentle—
His limbs were all sound;
And fall as a hole—
As a hole in the ground!

His plug knocked out,
What is to be done?
The Policy expired
With the year '71.

Sweet epitaph! What of it?"

Enoch Arden Outdone.

the following which we find in an exchange be , Enoch Arden is nowhere in comparison with the unselfish husband here spoken of: "A German doctor in New York who is now having more patients than he can attend to, obtained his wife a few years ago in a curious way. A mechanic called on him to obtain treatment for his wife, a feeble lady who accompanied him. Her case was pronounced consumption. The man in dismay, inquired if she could be cured. "I can cure her," says the doctor, "but not for you. I want her myself. I will give you $1,000 for her, if you will leave her to be my wife." The dumbfounded husband hesitated. It was death to his wife on one hand and life to her, and her loss to him on the other. Then he said: "But I have two children," "Very well," replied the doctor, "I will take them too." The lady consented the requisite arrangements were made, and she has since been the happy wife of a devoted but eccentric husband."

Golden Hair.

We often hear of "golden hair," in fact that is the fashionable color now, but all are not aware that human hair is worth its weight in gold. Yet it appears that Felix Pyatt, 424 Kearny street, has such an immense stock of this costly commodity on hand, that he throws it away. The following, which appeared in the Morning Call a short time ago goes to prove this:

Felix Pyatt, for throwing human hair into the street in front of his store, will appear for sentence.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in that celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 19 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few doors below What Cheer House.

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches form a most appropriate present. The egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff, and is presided over by A. Bona, his worthy successor. U

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

The New Road to Success.

Times have changed in California, and those business men who do not realize this fact are fast being left behind by minds of more advanced ideas.

Chenery, Souther & Co., wholesale liquor merchants, are among the most prominent of the new school merchants—those who realize the fact that people in California expect to get the value of their money, and that dealers must be content with smaller profits. They started out on this principle not a very long time ago, and their success has been remarkable. In fact, the increase of their business has forced them to remove to the large and commodious stores Nos. 215 and 217 California street. Here they offer to the trade the finest brands of foreign wines and brandies, as also domestic liquors from Saffel, Cook & Moore, all of which they are selling at the lowest possible rates.

A specialty of this house is the Cedar Run Bourbon Whisky, for which they have the sole agency for this coast, and one of the most popular brands known among the drug trade. They are also agents for Dr. Abernethy's Green Ginger Brandy, an English preparation, recommended by the medical faculty, an excellent substitute for the essence, and much more palatable.

Their new store is being finely fitted up, and its varied contents, to the connoisseur in rich old wines and brandies, will prove as interesting as the interior of a library to the bookworm.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Golden Hair.

We often hear of "golden hair," in fact that is the fashionable color now, but all are not aware that human hair is worth its weight in gold. Yet it appears that Felix Pyatt, 424 Kearny street, has such an immense stock of this costly commodity on hand, that he throws i away. The following, which appeared in the Morning Call a short time ago goes to prove this:

Felix Pyatt, for throwing human hair into the street in front of his store, will appear for sentence.

Pyatt's should be a good place to buy chignons and tresses cheap, and it is.

DR. PLACE'S CUNDURANGO BITTERS

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CANCER, SCROFULA, SYPHILITIC DISEASE in all its forms. It is an Infallible Blood Purifier, possessing rare Tonic and Nervine properties for CHILLS and FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, etc. Composed of the active principle of CUNDURANGO BARK (Equatoria Garciana), indigenous to South America, growing abundantly in nearly all the Province of Loja, Ecuador. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, imparting tone to the stomach and strength to the system. As a morning appetizer they exceed all others. None genuine without fac simile of our signature upon the label and the word "CUNDURANGO" blown in the bottle. Depot, Sacramento, Cal. GEO. W. CHESLEY & CO., Proprietors. DR. J. H. JOSSELYN

CAN BE FOUND ONLY AT NO. 24 GEARY street, near the junction of Market and Kearny streets, where he will be happy to meet his Patrons and such of the public as may need valuable services. The Doctor is the most experienced physician now on the Pacific coast in treatment of Long Standing and Chronic Complaints. The remedies he uses are entirely vegetable, and of his own discovery; they are unknown to any other physician.

To Females the Doctor would say that the last three years have added greatly to his knowledge of diseases and irregularities incident to the sex.

In all consultations the utmost privacy will be observed.

Dr. Josselyn is prepared to make special contracts to cure for a stated price, the cure to be warranted or no charges to be made for services. Prices moderate. Office hours from 9 A.M. to 3 P.M. Persons residing at a distance or those who may have objections to a personal interview can consult the Doctor by letter. Always describe the symptoms thoroughly and be careful to direct

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

ALHAMBRA.—"Carry the News to Mary" seems to have lost none of its popularity, judging from the shouts of applause it has drawn every night this week. Billy Emerson is ever fresh and original and nothing can be funnier than his serio-comic ballads of "Seven Out," and "Don't Give that Name a bad Place;" the Reynolds Brothers are nightly encored in their "Golden Showers;" the fun is bright; the music under the leadership of George Evans, delightful, and an evening spent at the Alhambra Theatre passes pleasantly away. The full programme will be performed at the matinee to-day.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE. — A week is too short a run for a play of the merit of "John Garth," with the title role so admirably acted as it is by Charles Wheatleigh and the other parts so well filled by Miss May Howard, Miss Ellie Wilton, Henry Edwards, E. J. Buckley, W. A. Mestayer, Fred Franks, and Mrs. C. R. Saunders, It must, however, be withdrawn after to-night and all should avail themselves of the two last opportunities—at the matinee to-day, and this evening—to witness one of the most successful plays of the day. On Monday, Augustin Daly's stirring drama of "Horizon" will be produced.

BELLA UNION—The very popular extravaganza of "The Corsair" will be played to-night and to-morrow night, after which it will be withdrawn. There will be an entirely new first part and interlude this evening. In the course of the latter, Miss Ella La Rue will appear in the new act of "Which Gets the Best of It," and in new and original banjo solos; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin in another new Dutch act; Maggie Knight in new character songs, and the other members of the company in attractive performances.

THE OXFORD.—There is any amount of fun in the burlesque of "Our Own Red-colored Pocket Book." The incidents of the play are amusingly distorted, popular songs are introduced the scenery is presented in burlesque style, and the characters are well played. Previous to the burlesque Charles Vincent appears in the sketch of "Twice Married."

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Those who have ever been to the Theatre Comique need not be told that there is always plenty of fun there on Saturday night. Among other amusing acts Johnny Kelly and Jake Wallace will this evening present that entitled "Look out for your Heads." Cherry Bell's will appear in various performances and the large company will present an attractive programme.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—To go to bed on beautiful moonlight nights such as people can, if they choose, enjoy at present, shows a want of appreciation of "the finest climate in the world." Don't go to bed, but hire a fine team, wrap yourself up in a buffalo robe, and spin along the road to Capt. Foster's famous hostelry, gaze on the ocean by moonlight, and then enjoy a cozy little supper prepared by the Captain's famous chef de cuisine. This is the way to enjoy life. Go to the Cliff House by moonlight.

ITALIAN OPERA—Our spirited impressario, Signor Bianchi, is determined that it shall not be his fault if the music-loving public of San Francisco do not enjoy a season of Italian Opera. The Opera of "Il Trovatore," which was so successfully presented on the occasion of Signor Bianchi's benefit, will be repeated on Wednesday evening at Maguire's Opera House. It is the intention to give two nights of opera a week, and, should Signor Bianchi meet with the encouragement which he has a right to expect, he will send to New York for Signor Filippi, the tenor, late of the Kellogg Opera Company, at the Academy of Music, and for Signor Reina, the baritone. With Signorina Speranza as prima donna, these two well known artists and our home talent, there is every prospect of Italian Opera being presented in a most satisfactory style. Now, if the public of San Francisco desire a season of Italian Opera, it rests with them to secure it. There are surely a sufficient number of people of musical taste, and wealth, to subscribe enough to take the risk off Signor Bianchi, and they should do so.

MISS HELEN C. DINGEON.—This very popular vocalist, whose performances at concerts of late have given so much pleasure, is studying the part of the Page in "Un Ballo en Maschera," at short notice, to oblige Signor Bianchi, and will shortly make her debut in Italian Opera in that role. Miss Dingeon has received a thorough musical education under the first masters and her friends prophesy for her a brilliant success on the lyric stage.

ARRIVAL OF A PRIMA DONNA.—On the steamer Constitution, now in quarantine, are Sig. Speranza, wife and daughter, who have arrived from South America under engagement to Signor Bianchi. Signor Speranza is a leader of orchestra; Signorina Speranza is a soprano assoluto. She will make her first appearance as soon as the necessary forms of the Health Office are complied with.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

"LA TRAVIATA."—Miss McKenzie, who made a brilliantly successful debut in Italian opera on the occasion of Signor Bianchi's benefit, is at present studying the role of Violetta in "La Traviata," in which she will appear during the promised season of Italian opera.

"THE ADRIATIC CLUB."—The Adriatic Minstrel and Social Club" has been reorganized and the following officers elected: President Thomas Middletons; Vice-President, John Tomsky; Secretary, Caris. Fagan; Treasurer, John P. Ivers.

MISS ROSE EVANS.—This favorite young actress and M. Blumenthal, her agent, arrived here last night from Salt Lake City, where Miss Evans played a most successful engagement and Mr. Blumenthal appeared on the stage in several plays.

"PACIFIC PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY."—A society under the above title has been organized with T. D. Robertson, a gentleman of musical education, as director, and will shortly give a series of concerts.

IN TOWN.—Manager Proctor, of the Metropolitan Theatre, Sacramento, was in town yesterday for a brief holiday and with an eye to securing new attractions for his theatre.

BIJOU MINSTRELS.—The Bijou Minstrel Troupe, an association of amateurs will give an entertainment on the 28th.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—T. E. Jackson, comedian and character actor, made his first appearance last night as Clarkson Biles in Craven's three-act drama of "Miriam's Crime," and at once established himself as a favorite with the audience, being called out at the termination of the second and third acts. Mr. Jackson is a good low comedian, and is a valuable addition to the company. His impersonation of the pettifogging lawyer was a clever and well sustained piece of acting, and the laughter it drew showed that it was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. The story of "Miriam's Crime" may be briefly told. Mrs. Reynolds had a son, Bernard Reynolds, whom she wishes to marry Miriam West a protege of hers, and with this object makes a will leaving all her property to Miriam. She discovering that Bernard does not love her, his affections being fixed on Ellen Raby, destroys the will thinking that the property will then come to Bernard. This is not the case. There being no will, the property must go to one Richard Scumler, brother of Mrs. Reynolds (who has been transported to Australia) if he be yet alive. He turns up after the fashion of Sir Roger Tichborne, and like him produces overwhelming proof of his identity. Miriam confesses her "crime" to Bernard, who is in despair. The girl he loves, on finding he has no money, jilts him. Clarkson Biles has in his possession a former will leaving his property to Bernard, which he was directed to destroy but did not. This will Miriam discovers in his box; the scampish Richard Scumley is sent off; Bernardo marries Miriam, and the "tag" is that her "crimes," destroying one will and stealing another, were "innocent ones." James M. Hardie does a good bit of character acting as Scumley; Miss Henrietta Osborne plays the part of Miriam with much power; Harry Colton does not show quite enough feeling in the character of Bernard Reynolds, is a little too nonchalant; Geo. Hinckley causes much fun as the Irish servant; John Woodard is all that can be desired as the old lawyer, Huffin, and Mrs. Frank Rea makes a capital landlady, playing the part very well indeed. "Miriam's Crime" passed off pleasantly enough, but the event of the evening was the production of the fairy extravaganza by Mr. Dorhman entitled "Gossamer." This with good music by Mr. Dohrman, beautiful scenery by Wilkins, and fine singing by the chorus went off splendidly. Miss Josie Langley made her first appearance in the character of Gossamer, the Fairy Queen, and at once impressed the audience by her pretty face and pleasing manners. She has a sweet, but not powerful voice, which she used to good advantage in a very pretty duet with Miss Maggie Moore. Her speaking voice is good, and she read her lines well. Miss Langley will be a favorite with the Metropolitan Theatre audience. E. T. Jackson was wonderfully funny as John Hornswoggle, keeping the audience laughing all the time he was on the stage. Miss Maggie Moore created an absolute furore by the manner in which she executed a New song and dance. "Don't you wish you were me?" The applause was deafening on its conclusion, and Maggie, panting with the exertion of dancing, was forced to sing again, which she did with laughing good nature, the audience fully appreciating the difficulty of the feat. Miss Lulu Wilson, though a little hoarse, performed a song and dance excellently, and received a tremendous encore; Fanny Hanks was very amusing as a comic Irish fairy, and Willie Simms was all that could be desired as the King of the Fays. The charming little midgets, May and La Petite Darling, executed a medley dance in a style perfectly wonderful for such mere infants, and were rapturously applauded. The scene of the play is laid in on Mount Diablo; two mortals, Gasland Graceful and John Hornswoggle, get lost while hunting, and fall among the fairy inhabitants of the mountain. Gasland Graceful marries Queen Gossamer, and John Hornswoggle, the Irish fairy. This is plot enough for one of the most popular extravaganzas ever produced on the California stage, if the applause last night is a proof of its success. The management of the Metropolitan Theatre are determined to leave no means untried to please the public, and we think they have hit the popular taste in "Gossamer." The same bill will be played this evening and to-morrow evening. This afternoon by invitation of the management, the children of the primary schools of the city will attend the matinee, when "The Red Pocket-book," with its great sensation scene of the sinking ship, will be played once more to please the little ones. There will be room for ladies and children who have not yet seen this play, or who wish to see it once more.

GRAND CALICO BALL AT PLATT'S HALL.—It is a great thing to make charity fashionable. The managers of the Calico Ball for the benefit of The Ladies United Aid Society, to be given at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening will certainly succeed in doing this. The Hon. Newton Booth, Hon. William Alvord, Hon. Thomas H. Selby, A. Seligman, W. C. Ralston, Gen. J. M. Schofield, and many other leading gentlemen of the city, and their wives, the leaders of the fashion, are taking an active interest in the affair. The Hall will be beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the floor will be laid with canvas. A leap-year fashion will be introduced at this ball: during one hour in the evening the ladies will select their partners for dances, and escorts to supper. Calico will be the order of the evening; but, Calico done up with the milliner's greatest skill. The Ballet in makes the following suggestion, which should be carried out:

The day following Calico Balls in the Eastern cities, the lady managers collect the calico dresses worn, and use them to further the interests of charity. In order that the Ladies United Aid Society Ball be successful, the fair patrons should contribute their dresses to the movement, sending them to the hall the day after the ball. A large number of ladies have already signified their intention of adopting this course.

Ballenberg's grand orchestra will furnish music for the occasion. The list of committees to dispose of tickets, appears in another column. All who wish to be in the fashion must go to the Calico Ball.

"HORIZON."—On Monday Augustin Daly' drama of the present day entitled "Horizon" will be produced at the California Theatre. Mr. Porter has painted beautiful scenery for it, and it will be presented with careful attention to detail. Charles Wheatleigh will appear in the character of Winnemucca, the great Indian Chief. The scenes on the plains are said to be of the most thrilling description. As there is more gunpowder in it, it will probably suit the taste of our public better than "John Garth."

KELLY AND LEON.—These admirable artistes and worthy members of the minstrel profession, who have just concluded such a successful season at the Alhambra Theatre, will leave to-day on the steamer Colorado for New York, bearing with them the hearty good wishes of all with whom they have come in contact, and the assurance that should they pay us another visit at some future period they will receive a warm welcome from the San Francisco public, indebted to them for so many pleasant evenings.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The snow-blockade having prevented any mails coming through from New York since the 11th ul., we can give no news of Eastern theatricals. We can safely guess that "John Garth" still runs at Wallack's, the "Black Crook" at Niblo's, "Divorce" at the Fifth Avenue, "Humpty Dumpty" at the Olympic, and that the companies organized to travel, already mentioned in our columns, are going their rounds on the circuits marked out for them. The telegraph informs us that Frank Lawlor is about to sue the New York Sun for libel. For a full account of what the Eastern theatres are doing our readers must wait till next week.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

OAKLAND.—Our chronicle of amusements in Oakland is always very brief; an occasional lecture, and once and again a concert, is all the amusement the Oaklanders have. The News of Tuesday had an editorial, headed "Oakland wants a Theatre," from which we make the following extracts, hoping that Oakland's wants may be supplied:

Nearly a year ago, the NEWS called attention to the urgent necessity of a theatre in Oakland, and for a while some moneyed men talked about the enterprise, but it ultimately fell through. It continues to be one of the most noticeable and inconvenient wants of this rapidly advancing community, and is a very great injury to the place. We have several fine halls, adapted for lectures and the like, but we have no place arranged for scenic representations, and in consequence a great deal of money goes to San Francisco which a little reasonable enterprise would retain at home. Every town in California of a thousand inhabitants has its commodious theatre, except Oakland, and it is full time that this indispensable adjunct of civilization were supplied.

We think that a suitable theatre on Broadway could be arranged so as to pay as good interest as any other property, with stores below and in front as in other cities: and if such a structure was available, it would be in requisition a great part of the time. We should have some sort of an assessment two or three times a week, and should have somewhere to go without crossing the bay and exposing young people to the chilly night air after sitting several hours in a heated theatre. In short we must have a theatre, and the only question is, that when the citizens, or what association of citizens, will have the public spirit to undertake its construction? If property on Broadway be considered too valuable for that purpose, it might be located on Franklin or Washington, or anywhere near the obvious centre of life and business. We have to address ourselves only to the public spirit or individual interests of citizens who have the money to spare and the sagacity to invest it advantageously, and such persons know that an elegant theatre, corresponding with the structure of our City Hall, would be a benefit to the place, and that it is absolutely necessary for public accommodation.

SACRAMENTO.—Manager Proctor's excellent dramatic company played "Pure Gold" on Monday and Tuesday evenings. On Wednesday, when the Japanese Embassy visited the theatre at the invitation of the management, "The Bronze Horse" and "The Married Rake" formed the evening's entertainment. On Thursday the capital drama of "Camilla's Husband" was produced and has held the stage ever since. One of the Sacramento papers says that a young gentleman in the employ of the Central Pacific Company intends making his debut shortly at the Metropolitan in "Hamlet." The Varieties is still open but business is not lively.

MARYSVILLE.—The Marysville Minstrels had a benefit on Tuesday evening at Turners Hall, previous to starting on a professional tour. The Appeal says:

The second part opened with a challenge clog dance by T. Carroll and T. Farley, followed by the character song of "The Grenadier Drum Major," by Allen Strong. Then followed the comic drama, "The Upper Ten Thousand." A song and dance by T. Farley followed, and then Allen Strong gave his original song of "Crossing on the Levee." J. Morris then made his local stump speech, full of good local hits. T. Carroll followed with a song and dance, when the entertainment concluded with "The Arrival of Dickens." The whole performance did credit to the boys and gave entire satisfaction. They will do (if they keep up their practice) to travel, and do well—better than many troupes now traveling.

....Mr. Coppless, who is in a destitute condition, was the recipient of a benefit at the Theatre last night. Miss Mary E. Wadsworth, a fine soprano singer, and other vocalists, assisted; the Turn Liedeskranz Society appeared in songs and gymnastic exercises, and the Amateur Theatrical Company performed a comedietta....The Appeal says: "Carroll & Kay's dancing club have assumed the name of the 'Vivian Club.'" We wonder if they will learn Charley's "bloomin' step."

VALLEJO.—The Lancashire Bell Ringers are now in Vallejo in sad straits. Their bells are seized for debt and they are unable to get away. The tongues of those silver-voiced bells should plead with the Vallejoites for them, and gain for them the assistance of which they stand in need. The Recorder of Thursday last says:

The case of the Bell Ringers is now a sad one. It will be brought up to-night in the Masonic meeting, with which society they all claim membership.

SUCKER FLAT.—A correspondent of the Grass Valley Union says:

The skating rink and theatre at Sucker Flat is a very nice edifice, built by Mr Crary. It is neatly finished, and will be a very expensive affair, there being 20,000 feet of lumber in the foundation alone, and all lumber is very expensive, for none can be had from places closer than Grass Valley or Bear Town. It is nicely papered, and the stage is provided with very good scenery.

WOODLAND.—The latest issue of the Yolo Mail has the following:

It is so long since our people have had the pleasure of witnessing anything in the line of dramatic entertainment that we imagine the performance announced to be given by the Turn Verein Association on Monday evening next, the 29th inst., will be welcomed by all lovers of the drama. "The German Student's Life" will be presented by the amateur troupe, who are all residents of Woodland. From the creditable manner in which they acquitted themselves upon a former occasion, we anticipate a rich treat.

STOCKTON.—A company from San Francisco comprising Charles Vivian, Miss Minnie Loder, Pierpont Thayer, Henry Sinclair, A. Graham, E. Belmore, Orville Wilson, I. Oates, Welsh, Courton, Mrs. H. Sinclair, Miss Nellie Cummings, Esther Williams and Miss Wilson, were announced to appear at the theatre last night for the benefit of Weber Hose Company. The performance was to consist of "Vivian's Sketches," "Mose; or, the Volunteer Fireman," an olio, and the farce of "The Married Rake." They were to perform there to-night also. Whether or not the performance took place we have not learned. Vivian did not go up yesterday, but may go to-day to take part in the second entertainment.

SAN JOSE.—No amusements in San Jose but there is to be a "carnival" at Varney's Skating Pavilion next Thursday.

LOS ANGELES.—The Orizabs, having on board the Cogill and Cooper Minstrels, Geo. H. Foster, Harry Howard, T. Ross, Forestelle, D. Burgers and Hank Dobeor, was due on the 28th, and they were to open at La Merced Theatre on the 29th.

BAKERSFIELD.—Bakersfield, Kern Co., California, is proud of a movement to organize a brass band.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Purdy, Scott & Fostelle's Minstrels, comprising the above named well-known members of the profession, Frank Jones, Arthur Stanley, and others, opened at Piper's Opera House on the 25th to an immense audience, the receipts being over $600. Owing to the illness of Sam Purdy, and other causes the attendance fell off on the succeeding nights. On Monday night, Sam Purdy took a benefit, and the minstrels gave their last performance. The Gold Hill News says:

To see Fostelle in his gay Ethiopian female character acts, "Girl of the Period," etc., is worth the price of admission. Scott is a fine vocalist, of extraordinary natural talent; also an excellent interlocutor and minstrel comedian. Sam Purdy, the prince of Ethiopian comics, and a whole show by himself, can keep even the most sober sided audience laughing at his witty remarks, queer jokes, funny stories, pathetic ballads, and general eccentricities. He is a popular favorite, although he has been unwell all the time he has been here, but has now recovered, and this evening he takes a benefit on which occasion he will indulge his humorous vein of whimsicalities to its uttermost extent, showing folks what he can do. Frank Jones, the song and dance man, and all the other members of the company, appear to their best advantage. A fine bill is offered.

On Tuesday the troupe left for Carson, where they gave two entertainments at the theatre, thence they went to Reno, for one night, and then on to Salt Lake. Mat Leland is agent for the company, and will, we doubt not, engineer them successfully through to the Eastern States, weather permitting. The sectional floor has been replaced in Piper's Opera House, and a number of balls are to be given.

CARSON CITY, NEV.—Purdy, Scott, and Fostelle's Minstrels performed at the theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

SALT LAKE.—Miss Rose Evans appeared for the last time on the 7th in the drama of "Mary Price, or Adventures of a Servant Girl." Miss Evans played Tommy the Idiot, and Miss Couldock Mary Price. The stock company played for three nights "A Hand of Cards," "No Thoroughfare," and "As Like as Two Peas." E. T. Stetson was to commence an engagement on the 1st, opening in "Neck and Neck." As though murders have been by no means rare in Salt Lake, the people have, we believe, never seen a hanging, they will doubtless be curious to witness the very real execution which takes place in this play.

PORTLAND, OR.—Since our last advices from Oregon, G. B. Waldron's dramatic company have played "The Octoroon," "Knoch Arden," "Richelieu," and "The Romance of a Poor Young Man" which was played at the matinee and again in the evening on Saturday last. Full files of the Dramatic Chronicle published by Coburn and McCabe have come to hand. It is a bright little sheet and publishes fresh, original matter daily. We take from its columns the following concerning the drama in Portland in early times:

Mr. Waldron, the present lessee of the Oro Fino Theatre, arrived in this city overland from San Francisco, the first time, in July, 1854. At that time there was not a telegraph pole, not even a stage road, connecting the two States. On arriving here he opened in Cooley's Hall, on the corner of Front and Morrison streets. The hall was situated up stairs, and the lower portion of the building was occupied by Vaughn. He played there a few nights and then moved into a hall on First street, which he opened under the name of "The Varieties." Here the heaviest dramas were produced to gaping audiences, and here did the actors tear a passion to tatters, that being the fashion then. A brief but successful season was played there, and the company moved to the Dalles. Mr. Waldron returned to this city in September, and opened in Stewart's Theatre, which had been built during his absence, and managed it for C. H. Saio, Madame Luret, and others. He left the next Spring and did not return until 1862, when he opened the Williamette Theatre, under the management of S. K. Dennison. He played there two weeks and then leased the theatre for one year. During that time he brought Julia Dean, Hayne, Mitchell and others here, whose engagements were successful financially. He left for Boise City after closing here, and played one winter there. He returned here the following year and introduced Charles Kean to a Portland audience, and also Julia Dean Hayne for a second time. Since that year he has been making a tour of the Pacific and Eastern States, until his recent arrival. He has met with decided success so so far, and no doubt will continue to meet it so long as he remains.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Boutcn, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N. E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Loch Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he has determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet life and meditation; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new modes of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice was a SPECIALTY, and in the few days he has been brought under his care The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Useful Sanitary Rules.

Never eat a hearty supper before going to bed. Do not sleep on feathers or hair mattresses. Straw, or shavings are preferable. Never sleep naked, but wear a woolen or gauze under-garment, and cover with a sheet. Don't sit on a hot stove; and be careful at all times to avoid standing on your head. There is, moreover, nothing to be gained by sleeping with the left leg over the nape of the neck. It is a great deal better to sleep double than single—as a permanent arrangement. It improves the morals and saves blankets, giving you instead, a life long "comforter." It is not conducive to health, and certainly injurious to the temper to travel over the Union Pacific Railroad in midwinter. Don't do it. Never get up too early: men have been known die before breakfast. Drink often in cold weather the system requires it; beware of too much cold water, hot punches are best. Cut out these rules for preservation.

Got His Mad up.

The Calaveras Chronicle says: "Day's bill, exempting editors and reporters from jury duty was defeated. During the discussion of the bill, several "grave and potent" legislators attempted to be facetious at the expense of country editors. Humph! If it had not been for the efforts of country editors, one half the members of the Assembly would be where they now belong—behind a plow, or, hold of a pick-handle. Some of the component parts of that interesting body havn't got brains enough to run a threshing machine, let alone a newspaper.'

Why did the "country editors" elect men who were only fit to be behind a plow, or hold a pick-handle?

Mrs. Fair.

The following item, which we clip from the Eufaula, (Ala.) News, of the 11th inst., will propably be a matter of news to the people of this State, and particularly to Mrs. Fair, who will undouptedly be surprised to learn that she has been dead over four weeks,

DEAD.—Mrs. Laura Fair, the California murderess, died in prison on the 8th inst. Thus closed a career full of tragic incident, and which by the interposition of a higher power has been saved the disgrace of a violent death on the scaffold. However much we may censure her life's history, all feel that it is better that she left the world quietly, in a lone cell, than to have been put to death by law.—Justice is satisfied.

A Good Word for Pigs.

Pigs have some excellent traits of character. If one chances to wallow a little deeper in some mire-hole than his fellows, and so carries off, and comes in possession of more of the earth than his brethren, he never assumes an extra importance on that account. Neither are his brethren stupid enough to worship him for it. Their only question seems to be, Is he still a hog? If he is, they treat him as such. And, when a hog has no merits of his own, he never puts on aristocratic airs, nor claims any particular respect on account of his family connections.

A Remarkable Discovery.

The Vallejo Recorder has discovered that the Publican, mentioned in the Bible, as going up to the Temple to pray, was a "hoodlum." Addressing "substantial citizens," who sneer at "hoodlums," it says:

Perhaps they remember in the course of their reading, of one very Substantial Citizen in the olden time who thrust aside a hoodlum, with the expression: "I, am holier than thou!" or, perhaps they have a vague recollection of a certain Substantial Citizen, who lifted up his hands in all the fervor of his piety and exclaimed: "Lord, I thank thee that I am not as other men," while the poor Hoodlum gave utterance to the more modest expression, "Lord have mercy on me, a sinner!"

We really do not think the Recorder has any authority for this statement. If that Publican had been a "hoodlum," he would not have gone into the Temple, but would have stayed outside to stare at the pretty girls as they came out. If the Recorder must find a "hoodlum" in the Bible, and show that even a "hoodlum" may be converted, let it take Peter. Peter, certainly, was a "hoodlum," before he was converted and even after "he experienced a change,' his old habits stuck to him. He still would be first in a "muss," witness when he struck off the right ear of Malchus, the servant of the High Priest, and told him to walk off on h's other ear, also the hoodlumish language' he used to the maid in the porch of the court house. That Publican was no "hoodlum;" but a "Substantial Citizen," with a fat contract to collect taxes. The Recorder's idea of the meaning of the word "Publican," is very incorrect.

A Statesman at Fault.

A correspondent furnishes the Denver Tribune with the following anecdote of Henry Clay:

Formerly a very large, well-known, and somewhat noted billy-goat roamed at large in the streets of Washington, and the newspaper boys, bootblacks, and street imps generally made common cause against him. Clay never liked to see dumb animals abused or worried, and on one occasion, while passing down the avenue, a large crowd of these mischievous urchins were at their usual sport. Mr. Clay with his walking stick, drove them away, giving them a a sound lecture in the meanwhile. As they scampered off and scattered in every direction, Billy, seeing no one but Mr. Clay within reach, made a charge on him. Clay dropped his cane and caught his goatship by the horns. The goat reared up, being nearly as high as the Kentuckian himself, and the latter would pull him down again. This sort of sport soon became tiresome, and he could conceive of no way by which he could free himself from the two horned dilemma, so in his desperation he called on the boys to know what to do. One of the smallest in the crowd shouted out: "Let go and run, you d—d fool!" Clay always maintained that though he signed the treaty of peace at Ghent, yet that ragged boy knew more than he did.

A Colored Night Meeting

A friend of ours, who attended a sable "night meeting," reports: Mr. Johnson then arose and exhorted substantially as follows: "Bredden; I'm gwine to gib you a sample ob de pious man an' de onpious man: Now, you are de onpious, and whar do ye s'pose ye'll go when ye die? I know, ye'll go down into de pit! (Tremendous sensation.) Yar, and dar ye'll burn, and burn foeber! No use a-hollerin' dar, cause ye can't git out. (shuddering throughout the meeting.) But Breddren, whar shall I go?" resumed the speaker, rolling up his eyes. "I shall go up up, up, and de good Lord'll see me cummin, and he'll say, 'angels, make way dar.' And de angels'll say, 'what fur, Lord, what fur?' And den de Lord'll speak up sharp, and say, 'I tell ye, angels, make way dar; don't ye see Johnson's cummin?"

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

The old favorites, Billy Emerson, the Reynolds Brothers, Harry Norman, S. Holdsworth, and others continue to give their varied and amusing entertainment until the new faces arrive from the plains, where they are snowed in. To-night, after a capital first part, the Kohler Brothers will perform a Cornet Duet. Billy Emerson will sing new Dutch character songs, and appear in the ever popular act of "The Old Clothes Dealer." Miss Gibson will sing a favorite ballad. The Reynolds Brothers will appear in the last sensation: "The Golden Showers," and the screaming act of 'scene at the What Cheer House,' will terminate the evening's amusement.

California Theatre.

To-night Augustin Daly's sensational drama of "Horison" illustrative of life on the borders of civilization at the present day" will be presented for the first time at the California Theatre. Chas. Wheatleigh will appear as Wa-na-mu-kah, (which is we suppose the right way to spell the name of the "big chief" generally called Winnemucca) a civilized Indian; John McCullough will play the character of John Loder, alias Panther Loder, alias White Panther, a little ahead of any Red Skin in deviltry; J. O. Williamson will take the part of Sundown Rowse, Esq., a land grabber; Owen Marlowe, Mr. Smythe, an unattached Britisher; W. A. Mestayer, Judge Scott, head of a Vigilance Committee; Henry Edwards, Wolf Van Derp, an emigrant from civilization; Miss May Howard, Miss Columbia Rowse, a belle of the period; Miss Ellie Wilton, Meddie, "The White Flower of the Plains;" Mrs. Judah, the abandoned wife, and the other members of the company are in parts suited to their various capabilities. "Horizon" will draw for many a night, we expect.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Miriam's Crime" and the fairy extravaganza of "Gossamer" were performed on Saturday night and last night to large and fashionable audiences. E. T. Jackson is already quite at home with his audience, and "What's Your Name?" "Biles" is often heard on the streets. Miss Josie Langley has not much to do in the part of Gossamer, and does it very well. The new song and dance, "Don't You wish You were Me" is one of the most brilliant compositions of its class ever written, and as performed by Miss Maggie Moore brings down the house in thunders of applause. The same bill will be played to night.

Maguire's Opera House—Italian Opera

As we announced on Saturday, the opera of "Il Trovatore," will be presented on Wednesday evening, with the same cast as on the occasion of Signor Bianchi's benefit; and Miss Annie McKenzie will make her second appearance on the operatic stage, in the role of Leonora. The regular opera season will shortly commence, and Signorina Speranza, soprano assoluto, will make her first appearance.

Bella Union.

The new first part, and interlude, presented on Saturday night, went off splendidly. Samwells and Montague gained immense applause for their wonderful feats on the trapeze. Miss Ella La Rue caused much amusement in the act "Which gets the best of it?" with Lon McCarty; and also in her banjo solos. Maggie Knight sang two new songs which were much applauded. Fanny Garretson and Maggie Brewer performed a double mazourka in excellent style; and, the new song and dance "Dot Deutsche Baker," by Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin, was a great success. To-night, Planche's musical extravaganza of the "Invisible Prince," will be presented for the first time.

The Oxford.

The new burlesque of "Our Own Red Pocket Book" is a decided hit. R. H. McDaniels, the Australian actor, is very good in the part of Foul Bear. Charles Vincent as Moregrease, Miss Amelia Dean as Helene, Miss Lizzie Harmon as M'lle de Laundryman and others engaged in the representation, all do well. To-night, Miss Eva Clayton, who has just arrived from Oregon, will make her first appearance.

Theatre Comique.

To-night the popular Henri Stuart will make his reappearance at this house and will present new dances with J. Kelly. Jake Wallace, Ida Fisk Rose Vincent, Mike Quinn, and a host of others will appear in a varied programme.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Not the First.

A little girl, three years and a half old, passing along the streets of Goshen, a few days ago with her ma, and observing a goose with a yoke on, exclaimed, "Why, ma, there's a goose with corsets on." Not the first one discovered, however.

Foolish Ambition.

It is no disgrace not to be able to do everything, but to undertake, or pretend to do, what you are not made for, is not only shameful, but extremely troublesome and vexatious.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

Weight of Women.

In romance, even of this modern day, we read constantly of heroes magnanimously rushing off with fainting maidens from blazing houses, or, feloniously "carting them" on their shoulders, for purposes of revengeful abduction. Let anyone out of training or, under six feet high, and with proportionate strength, attempt to run away with a fairly well-compesed girl of eighteen or twenty, give us his opinion of the prowess of these vaunted knights. A woman weighing one hundred and forty pounds' weight of kicking womanhood is not to be carried at all. Even a slight girl will weigh a hundred pounds, and Rudolph or Horatio will stagger under the lovely but cumbersome figure if he break out of a staccato walk. There are a plenty of buxom girls who weigh up to a hundred and seventy pounds, and it is not given to every man to hurry off with such a baggage. When the victimized Squallina faints on the stage, the robust baritone takes care that the evanouissement shall be accomplished as near the wing as possible He knows what La Squallina weighs by the sad experience of rehearsal, Let any of our readers carry his sister(he will probably prefer his cousin) up three flights of stairs, without stopping, and forward to us his sentiments on the occasion. Women weigh a good many pounds nowadays, and, their air mess of fabrication is a fallacy.

The Turkle.

At the last school exhibition in a town in Maine, the following essay received the prize:

On the Turkle.—This animal is found most always in the water, but sometimes he leaves the water and then he comes on the land The Turkle cannot fly. If the turkle was the right kind of a bird he could fly; but if he was a goose-bird or an ostrich he could not fly. The turkle has four paws and mouth like the American eagle, which makes the British Lion and the uniform tremble. The turkle has a shell, and sometimes folks put fire on his shell and then the turkle crawls out. But he never crawls back again. When the turkle crawls out of his shell he is very wet and sticky. There are two kinds of turkles, the mud-turkles and the other kind. We don't have any other kind in our pond. French and Irish people eat turkles and frogs, but I should not like to. I caught a turkle once, but it didn't do me any good, for I swopped it off for a jack-knife and cut my fingers. Father said it was a judgment, but I thought it was a knife. I don't know much about turkles, but I blow for old Grant. Yours respectfully,

LUCIUS TEWESBURY FAY.

A Stingy President.

A French paper makes an insinuation against the hospitality of M. Thiers, in the following covert manner: "Scene a cafe at Versailles, upon the stroke of midnight. Customer.—Garcon, two (glasses of beer.) Garcon—Gentlemen we are shutting up. Customer—For pitys sake. Garcon! We are dying of thirst. We have just come from the President's."

First Premium Millinery.

The Ladies' Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs. Cowle's stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Golden Hair.

We often hear of "golden hair," in fact that is the fashionable color now, but all are not aware that human hair is worth its weight in gold. Yet it appears that Felix Pyatt, 424 Kearny street, has such an immense stock of this costly commodity on hand, that he throws it away. The following, which appeared in the Morning Call a short time ago goes to prove this:

Felix Pyatt, for throwing human hair into the street in front of his store, will appear for sentence.

Pyatt's should be a good place to buy chignons and tresses cheap, and it is.

THE BACHELOR'S SOLILOQUY.

Sitting to-night in my chamber,
A bachelor, frigid and lonely—
I kiss the end of my pipe-stem.
That, and that only.

Reverses rise with the smoke-wreaths;
Memories tender surround me;
Girls that are married and burried
Gather around me.

School girls, in pantalets, romping;
Girls that have grown to be misses,
Girls that have lived to be kissed,
Liked to give kisses

Kisses—well I remember them!
Those in the corner were fleetest;
Sweet were "those on the sly." In the Dark were the sweetest.

Annie was tender and gentle;
To woo was almost to win her;
Her lips were as good as ripe peaches
And milk for dinner.

Nell was a flirt, and coquettish.
'Twas catch me, kiss me if you can, sir!
Could I catch both—ah! wasn't I
A happy man, sir?

Annie has gone on a mission
Off to the South-Sea sinners;
Nell is a widow, keeps boarders, and
Cooks her own dinners.

Charlotte, and Susan, and Mattie,
Mary Jane, Lucy, and Maggie;
Four are married and plump, two
Married and scraggy.

Carrie is dead! Bloom sweetly
Ye mignonettes over her rest!
Her I loved dearly and truly,
Last and the best.

Thus I sit, smoking and thinking.
A bachelor frigid and lonely—
I kiss the end of my pipe-stem,
That, and that only.

Curious Antipathies.

[From London Society.]

The subject of sympathies and antipathies is extremely curious. Boyle fainted when he heard the splashing of water; Scaliger turned pale at the sight of watercresses; Erasmus became feverish when he saw a fish. A curious story is told of a clergyman, that he always fainted when he heard a certain verse in Jeremiah read. Zimmerman tells us of a lady who could not endure the feeling of silk or satin, and shuddered when touching the velvety skin of a peach. Mr. Julian Young tells the story of an officer who could not bear the sound of a drum, and ultimately fell dead when compelled to hear it. There are whole families who entertain a horror of cheese; on the other hand there was a physician, Dr. Starke, of Edinburgh, who lost his life by subsisting almost entirely upon it. Some people have been unable to take mutton, even when administered in the microscopic form of pills. There is the case of a man falling down at the smell of mutton, as if bereaved of life, and in strong convulsions. Sir James Eyre, in his well-known little book, mentions three curious instances of idiosyncrasy: The case of a gentleman who could not eat a single strawberry with impunity; the case of another, whose head would become frightfully swollen if he touched the smallest particle of mare; the case of a third, who would inevitably have an attack of gout a few hours after eating fish.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from sufferers everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST reached in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

LETTER FROM HONOLULU.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 21, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:

Never, in the history of this small mid-ocean city, has there been such a variety of entertainments, as we have found here within the last few months; there being no less than four different sources of amusement in town at the same time; but, you may be sure, such a rush did not last very long. We had been without an entertainment—except amateur—for nearly a year, when the Lancashire Bell Ringers arrived, en route for your city, and remained a month, but their performances did not consist of sufficient variety to make their visit a remunerative one.

THE CALIFORNIA MINSTRELS,

arrived while they were here, and for a short time had everything their own way, with the prospect of an excellent season before them. Brooks made a judicious selection when he included Frank Jones and Jake Wallace in his company; both of them were immense favorites with the public, native and foreign, and had it not been for the serious disaster to the whaling fleet, which, to a great extent, affected nearly all classes of business here, there is but little doubt that he would have returned to San Francisco under different circumstances. Brooks made many friends here, who heartily sympathized with him on account of the illiberal manner in which Derby, the proprietor of the Hawaiian Theatre, took advantage of his position, the particulars of which I suppose you have been informed of 'ere this. Brooks is not the only one in the profession who has been similarly imposed upon by this individual, and were it not for occupying too much of your valuable space, I might relate other incidents equally as contemptible as the case alluded to.

Derby has of late been forced to arrive at the disagreeable conclusion that he cannot treat those upon whom he is dependent for a living with his former supercilliousness. His dilapidated establishment is not the only place in the city where entertainments can be given.

BUFFMAN'S HALL,

Erected about three years since, and capable of holding an audience of nearly four hundred persons, is far more popular with the public; a small but neat stage has been recently added with a fair stock of scenery, suitable in every respect for light dramatic entertainments. It has been occupied by the late Walter Montgomery, the Carandinis, Cora de Lamont and others, all of whom were patronized by large audiences from among the best people of the city. The California Minstrels also gave several performances at the Hall while the theatre was occupied by the Opera Troupe.

THE STATES OPERA TROUPE

Remained here a month longer than they originally intended owing to the indisposition of one or two of the members. They did an excellent business for a small place like this, although their entertainment was not in reality as popular those of the Carandini troupe over a year ago. The patronage of the king accompanied by the prominent officials had the effect of giving a fashionable tone to the opera season that it otherwise would not have had. The company appeared to great disadvantage from the fact that they had no suitable place to give their performances in. The wardrobes of the company were good, but the contrast of the scenery of the theatre, which was old and faded, appeared so great that the effect was often ludicrous in the extreme. The last performance of the States Opera Troupe, for the benefit of Signor Giorza, Musical Director, will not soon be forgotten as it gave rise to considerable gossip that was not very flattering to the reputation of the Professor. Giorza had a number of pupils who were of the best families in the place. He insinuated that his instruction was given out of pure regard for the talent which his fair pupils possessed, and that any proficiency which they acquired through his efforts, was to him a sufficient remuneration. A number of the most influential of his pupils, who were aware that the Professsor was to take a benefit before his departure, and were anxious to remunerate him, actively interested themselves and also secured the services of several prominent gentlemen amateurs, and proposed to make the Professor's benefit a grand affair. The ladies having the affair under their patronage it was sure to be a success. The Court House was secured, as a majority of the amateurs objected to appear in conjunction with professionals on the stage of a theatre, (particularly such a theatre) and of course through such influence it was obtained gratis. The concert was a grand success, and the pupils of the Professor received the congratulations of their numerous friends for the success of their efforts. It appears, however, that Giorza was not inclined to reciprocate the good feeling manifested toward him by the ladies, for it is generally understood—although efforts were made at the time to prevent the affair becoming public—that he made charges for services rendered, which was not considered very modest; this with several other incidents that savored strongly of scandal made acquaintance with the members of the company not so desirable toward the close of their visit.

GEORGE PAUNCEFORT

Arrived here several weeks since from Portland, Oregon, and is giving a series of dramatic readings. He ngaged the theatre, and, although liberally noticed by the press, was obliged to [illegible] there being only five dollars in the house. This was rather a cool reception to an individual of such "great expectations" as Pauncefort, who was at a loss to account for such a want of appreciation on the part of the public, who, he had been given to understand were partial to such entertainments. He made his second appearance at Buffam's Hall and was favorably received by an audience composed of the elite of the city; fully equal to that which greeted Walter Montgomery on his first appearance. He is much gratified with his reception, and I do not think he will have cause to complain during the remainder of his visit of the manner in which he is appreciated. First impressions are everything here, and the press having noticed him in enthusiastic terms his success is a certainty unless his egotism prevents it.

HASELMAYER,

Professor of Magic, etc., who arrived here about the same time as the States' Opera Troupe, returned a short time since from a professional tour around the Islands, and was announced to appear in two performances at the theatre before leaving for Australia, which were not successful. His first night's receipts was not sufficient to pay his license, and, the second night there was not even a single ticket taken at the door. His farewell appearance at Buffman's Hall, a few evenings since was a perfect salve to his financial sensitiveness—being greeted by one of the largest audiences that he has had the good fortune to entertain since leaving California. When the Professor first arrived here, he exhibited at Buffman's Hall, during the first week to crowded houses; he took the theatre the second week having been informed by an emissary of the enterprising proprietor that the King would honor him with His Royal patronage if he would perform there. At the end of the week, he found, to his great disgust, in addition to being disappointed, in the expected honor of appearing before royalty, that the total receipts did not amount to what he had taken in one night during his week at the Hall. This was to the Professor, a most unaccountable illusion to his greater chagrin.

CORA DE LAMONT

female illusionist, who was here from Oregon, en route to Australia, performed during that week, and did a large business. On the whole Haselmayer has not been as popular as Cora, nearly all of his tricks have been witnessed here years ago, although he apparently considered the public unsophisticated enough to believe that he was the only one in the profession that ever performed them. Many of Cora's illusions were executed in a far superior manner, to those of the professor; which may be accounted for by the different schools in which both have acquired their business.

FRANK MEDINA,

Late of Brooks' Minstrel Company appears to have become one of the permanent institutions of the country. He speaks Hawaiian, quite fluently, although his orders to the King's Band—of which he is leader—as they parade every afternoon, would be considered by those who are not conversant with the language, as the reverse of good Hawaiian. The mild influence of the climate appears to have the same effect on him that it has upon many others. He has recently became a "shining light" in one of the native churches; the members of which are noted for their affability to strangers, and has accepted the position of leader of the choir.

Should anything transpire that will be of interest to the FIGARO you may be sure that I will not miss the opportunity of keeping you posted in all matters connected with the profession in this part of the world. Yours,

CORIOLANUS.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged last night, when Augustin Daly's sensational play of "Horizon" was presented for the first time. When this play was produced in New York it ran four months, and hundreds were turned away from the doors, the house being filled to overflowing long before the curtain rose. Oliver Doud Byron before he left San Francisco with his play of "Across the Continent," said he thought he should in future add this attractive line to his bills: "The public are assured that this play does not possess a particle of literary merit." We assured the public that "John Garth" possessed much literary merit, and during the last nights of its representation they carefully kept away from the California Theatre. We can as truly assure them that "Horizon" will not overtask their brains in that respect, and you are sure they will crowd the house. There is many a beautiful scenery, many exciting fights with Indians, plenty of sentiment and satire, and not enough plot to bother anyone's brains. As far as it goes it is as follows: Mrs. Van Dorp (Mrs. Judah) has been abandoned by a drunken husband, Wolf Van Dorp, who has taken with him her child Meddie (Miss Ellie Wilton), and entirely disappeared. Mrs. Van Dorp has an adopted son, Alleyn Van Dorp (E. J. Buckley), who is a captain in the army, having obtained his commission through the influence of Sundown Rowse (J. C Williamson), a member of the lobby at Washington, and a possessor of land grants in the territories. He has a daughter, Miss Columbia Rowse (Miss Imogene Vandyke), who has an admirer, Mr. Smythe (Owen Marlowe), a Britisher, who wishes to see Indians and buffaloes. In the first act Mrs. Van Dorp dreams she sees her husband and child in a Western settlement; Captain Van Derp comes in and tells her he has been ordered to the Western frontier to fight Indians; she is convinced he will find her daughter somewhere there. Sundown Rowse, daughter and Smythe happen to be going the same way and the drop falls on the first act. In the second act we are introduced to a settlement in the West where a vigilance committee, headed by Judge Scott (W. A. Mestayer) and connived at by Rocks, of Tennessee, (Fred Franks) the Mayor, have determined to run out four members of the community: John Loder (John McCullough) because he is a gambler and fighter; Wa-na-mu-kah (Charles Wheatleigh) because he is an Indian and a poker-sharp, Wolf Van Dorp (Henry Edwards) because he is a drunkard and wont work, and a Heathen Chinee (J. Torrence, Jr.) because he works cheap. The party from New York come on the scene. Capt. Alleyn Van Dorp is smitten with Meddie, Van Dorp's daughter with whom Wa-na-mu-kah and John Loder are both desperately in love. Wa-na-mu-kah has a quarrel with Van Dorp, who strikes him; he vows vengeance; Van Dorp gives John Loder letters and tells him to take Meddie to her mother in New York. Wa-na-mu-kah shoots Van Dorp and another act is finished. In the third act there is love-making between Captain Alleyn Van Dorp and Meddie; love-making between John and Meddie; love-making between Columbia Rowie and Smythe. They all go in a boat up the Missouri, the Indians following; attack by Indians, repulse by soldiers, third act finished. Fourth act, stockade in the far West; attack by Indians expected; John Loder, who is a noble fellow at heart, knows he is not good enough for Meddie; she tells him he is, he says he isn't; he is content to see her the wife of an honest man. The men leave the women the Indians attack the stockade, Meddie keeps all Wa-na-mu-kah's tribe at bay with a double barrelled gun with one charge in it. Wa-na-mu-kah plays strategy on her, seized the gun and takes the whole party prisoners. Act fifth and last, encampment of Indians, women and Sundown Rowse prisoners, beautiful scenery, waterfall and rocks; Wa-na mu-kah makes love to Meddie, Meddei goes crazy and nearly dies. Troops come, don't see anyone; Smythe gets taken prisoner by Indians; John Loder appears on the scene, soldiers reappear, John Loder kills Wa-na-mu-kah, soldiers kill everyone of the other Indians, Meddie rushes into John Loder's arms and the curtain descends, leaving the audience in doubt as to whether she ever gets back to her mother, whether she marries John Loder, who might reform and join the church, or Captain Alleyn Van Dorp, whether Columbia marries Smythe—oh pshaw! there's no finish to the play at all. But it will draw, draw like a blister or a house on fire. John McCullough's make-up for the Southern gambler was simply perfect and his acting excellent. Charles Wheatleigh is a model Indian; every grunt was artistic and his make-up was perfect. J. C. Williamson made a capital character of Sundown Rowse and caused great laughter; his "gags" were so good that not even the author could object to them; he fairly brought down the house when he offered to "sell his savage short," and his "new railway train on snow-shoes" was greeted as a most happy idea. Harry Edwards made a very good old drunken bummer, though we are sure everyone was disappointed that he did not reform and become a nice old man; he ought to have done so. Owen Marlows was excellent as the Britisher, carefully avoiding over-acting, and gaining every laugh by sheer art. Miss Vandyke Hubbard undertook the part of Miss Columbia Rowse at short notice for Miss May Howard, who is indisposed, and did her very best to portray it naturally. Miss Ellie Wilton was very natural as Meddie, and made love in the most artless manner imaginable. Mrs. Judah was of course excellent as Mrs. Van Dorp; E. J. Buckley played the gallant young captain very well; W. A. Mestayer did a neat little bit of character acting as Judge Scott, and Fred Franks did as much in the part of Rocks; H. Coad as the ruffianly Uncle Bill Blakely displayed much power and was horribly real; F. Leathes made his Indian Wa-co-tah a good match for Wheatleigh's, and J. R. Torrence, Jr., made a decided hit as the Heathen Chinee. The scene on the Missouri river with a panorama of scenery moving both in the fore ground and back ground was very effective, the boat being caught sight of now and then through the trees. When the boat was out of sight altogether the moving scenery was not so effective. The illusion might have been kept up by having the soldiers on the stage "marking time" with their feet as they seemed to be marching along. As "Horizon" ran four months in New York it will doubtless keep the boards for some time here. The scenery is beautiful; the Indians numerous, and the climaxes thrilling. Go and see "Horizon."

The Oxford.

The very amusing burlesque of "The Red Pocket-Book," attracts many who have sympathised with the troubles of the hero in the original, and now laugh heartily to see them made fun of in the burlesque. The sinking ship, the caravan, the desert and other scenes are all presented in a

Alhambra Theatre.

We think we have observed before, that "Billy Emerson is a whole team himself." He certainly is. A large and fashionable audience enjoyed his capital serio-comic songs, original witticisms and eccentric dances last night, and the Reynolds Brothers ably supported him in keeping the fun alive. The public never weary of Emerson because he is indefatigable in presenting novelties.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The fairy extravaganza of "Gossamer" has proved a decided hit. It abounds in good music, attractive dances and beautiful scenery. It will be played again to-night. The evening's entertainment will commence with the sterling play of "Little Mother," in which Miss Josie Langley will have an opportunity of shewing that she is capable of playing more than fairy parts, and E. T. Jackson will have another of those character parts for which he has shown such a decided capability. The full cast of the play appears on our first page.

Maguire's Opera House.

To-morrow night "Il Trovatore" will be presented with Miss Annie McKenzie as Leonora and the same excellent cast which gave such general satisfaction on the occasion of Signor Bianchi's benefit. The lovers of Italian Opera must rally to the support of our spirited impressario and encourage him to give a series of operas.

Bella Union.

After a capital first part and varied interlude, the very clever extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince," was produced last night and was very well played. Minnie Fillmore made a charming Prince Leander, and performed her part in a very pleasing manner; H. D. Thompson as the Infant Faribond, was immense in make-up and acted capitally; the Catshaw Indians were well represented by J. H. Larkin, H. Elster, Chris Mathews and Lon McCarty. Marie Zoel looked very pretty as the fairy Gentille; Carrie Chapman was amusing as Blousabella, and all performed their parts well. The chromotropic transformation scene was extremely beautiful, and was much applauded.

Theatre Comique.

Henri Stuart received a hearty welcome back on making his re-appearance at this house last night. The copartnership between C. Brooks and Johnny Tuers has been dissolved. Brooks & Smith, the new proprietors, leave nothing undone in order to give a popular entertainment. Mike Quinn is stage manager. The programme for to-night appears on our first page.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haseke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 537 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Golden Hair.

We often hear of "golden hair," in fact that is the fashionable color now, but all are not aware that human hair is worth its weight in gold. Yet it appears that Felix Pyatt, 424 Kearny street, has such an immense stock of this costly commodity on hand, that he throws it away. The following, which appeared in the Morning Call a short time ago goes to prove this:

Felix Pyatt, for throwing human hair into the street in front of his store, will appear for sentence.

Pyatt's should be a good place to buy chignons and tresses cheap, and it is.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, Dec. 20th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—

Since my last communication, there has not been much of importance to chronicle in the theatrical world. At this present writing, this city is profusely glutted with talent of all kind, and from all parts. How they will all succeed, is a mystery to me.

THE THEATRE ROYAL,

under the management of Mr. George Coppin, has been doing tolerably well since the departure up country of the Zavistowski Sisters. Melodrama and farce has succeeded burlesque. The Sisters played a farewell six nights last week, but with no beneficial effect upon the treasury. The house is now closed, to prepare for the pantomime of "Jack and The Bean Stalk." The scenery, which is in Mr. Hennery's best style, is really magnificent and comprises "The Voyage from Melbourne to California;" with authenticated views of all the principal places touched at. The pantomimists will comprise Messrs G. and H. Leopold, Sefton and Schmidt, Mrs. H. Leopold, (Fraulein Fannie) and Madame Theresa.

THE PRINCESS' THEATRE,

under the direction of Mr. L. M. Bayless, closed the dramatic season on the 2d inst. It was one of the most brilliant that has ever taken place in Melbourne. An excellent company, good scenery and stage effects, and Mrs. Gladstane, one of the most accomplished ladies who has ever graced our stage, all rendered failure an impossibility. It is much to be regretted that the season ended amid strife and bad feeling. The artistes feel aggrieved at the sudden finish of the dramatic season, as they were led to expect that their engagements would hold over till February. As it is more than possible that garbled versions may be sent to you by interested parties, I will give you my ideas of the matter. In making engagements Mr. Bayless verbally informed them that he was going to keep the theatre open till February, and inferentially led them to believe entirely for dramatic purposes. Receiving this in good faith, many of the people engaged made their homes in Melbourne at some considerable expense to themselves, and likewise refused engagements for the other colonies for the Xmas season. Literally the manager is in the right, but I really think the performers have just grounds for complaining of a breach of faith. Another matter may also be referred to. The members of the dramatic profession in this city are as respectable, talented and upright as any other circle of society; many of them men of great attainments and of good family in the old country and are fairly entitled to be spoken of with respect and civility, and it is to be regretted that the first American manager we have had in this city should so far outrage the feelings of many members of this community by speaking in public places in a scurrilous manner of the members of the dramatic profession. A word to the wise, etc. The theatre is now opened as a circus with Bird and Taylor's equestrian company, and will be occupied by them during the coming festive Xmas season.

MRS. MARY GLADSTANE

has certainly won golden opinions from all sorts of people. Her dramatic talents are of the highest order, and stamp her as an artist of the highest merit. "From grave to gay, from lively to serene;" heavy tragedy to "touch-and-go farce" is enacted by this clever lady with the greatest ease and finish. In private life she is universally respected for the kind attention she pays to the members of the company, whose rise to certain eminence may be attributed to the valuable advices so willingly by Mrs. Gladstane. In company with her husband and Mr. L. M. Bayless she will shortly pay a holiday visit to Tasmania to recruit herself for another campaign.

THE ZAVISTOWAKI SISTERS

have most undoubtedly been a great and sore disappointment, not only to the manager (McCoppin) but to the theatre-goers of this town. In the first place their programme is a very limited one. As yet they have only appeared in "Irion," "Paris," "Massaniello," "Pocahontas," "Kenilworth," and one or two other extravaganzas, each of which has been much better played in times past by the Madames Dooy and Maggie Stewart and Miss Marian Dunn. The Sisters have just returned from a tour through the provinces, where they met with but indifferent success. While at Sandhurst Miss Christine especially distinguished herself by assuming the role of an Amazon, and Lola Montez-like thrashing with her parasol a person named Murphy, who in a cowardly, unmanly manner had been vilifying Miss Emmeline. Now as a rule I deprecate this kind of action on the part of ladies, but smarting under a studied insult I can readily forgive Miss Christine her course of conduct. The man Murphy sued the lady for assault which was admitted, and Miss Christine was fined the lowest possible penalty, one shilling and no costs. The Sisters will reappear at Sandhurst at Xmas, and will then visit Adelaide and Tasmania, to be followed by a tour through New Zealand on their return to California!

[illegible] ST. GEORGE'S HALL [illegible] is tenanted by Mr. Enderby Jackson's London Comique Combination, including Mr. Harry Rickards, comic singer; Mrs. Rickards, Mr. Ramsdens, and Mrs. Lizzie Watson, a really clever character singer. They are doing an excellent business.

POLYTECHNIC HALL

is running with Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Harding in their entertainment of "Matrimony," a class of amusement after the style of Miss Grace Egerton. The business has not been successful.

The Carandini Company, accompanied by Mr. W. Sherwin, arrived here from Sydney a few days back. They will shortly make a public reappearance.

We have lately received an accession to our musical world by the visit from Natal of Mr. David Merandez and his wife. Miss Christian, an excellent soprano and Madame Schiller, one of the most accomplished pianistes we have had here, have also recently arrived here from London.

Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches forms a most appropriate present. The egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff, and is presided over by A. Bona, his worthy successor. U

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Another large audience last night witnessed the stirring play of "Horizon," with its stormy vigilance committee, fights with Indians, beautiful scenery and exciting situations. "Horizon" will be presented every night until further notice, and at the matinee on Saturday.

Alhambra Theatre.

A more laughter-provoking entertainment than that given nightly at this very popular little theatre cannot be imagined. Emerson's album of song and dance is a feast of fun; the Reynolds Brothers make the audience roar with laughter in their acts of "The Two Philosophers" and "Scenes at the What Cheer House," and Billy Emerson's "Old Clothes Dealer" is a picture so true to life that it is heartily relished.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The play of "Little Mother" was produced last night with Miss Josie Langley as Kitty Clark, and E. T. Jackson as Bobby Grimes, who is so anxious to hit some one "just once." Miss Langley read and acted her part capitally making her points in good style and denouncing the mercenary Doubleprong in a spirited manner which gained the applause of the audience. Miss Fanny Young was very good as the wronged Fanny; Harry Colton all that could be desired as Frank Singleton; Willie Simms well up in the part of Christopher, and E. J. Kelly's make-up for the booby page was very good. This play with "Gossamer" will constitute the entertainment to-night.

Maguire's Opera House.

To-night, "Il Trovatore," which was successfully presented on the occasion of Signor Bianchi's benefit, will be performed again with the same cast. Miss Annie McKenzie as Leonora, Signor Bianchi as Manrico, Signer L. Contici as Conte di Luna, Signora Bianchi as Azucena, Madame Mabel Centini as Inez. Signor Roncovieri as Ferrando, and Mons. Charles as Luiz. Nearly every seat has been already engaged, and the box office will be open to-day for the sale of those remaining. A large and fashionable audience will be present on the second representation of this favorite opera.

Bella Union.

After a good first part, Samwells and Montague appear in wonderful feats on the double trapeze; Miss Ella La Rue and Lon McCarty present an amusing act, and the former performs banjo solos or which she never fails to gain two and three encores; Maggie Knight's new song, "Johnny, the Engine Driver," is very popular, and the fine extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince," in which Miss Fanny Garretson plays the part of the loquacious Abricotina capitally, and Misses Minnie Fillmore, Clara Starr, Eugenie Gerretta and others appear to good advantage, terminates the entertainment.

The Oxford.

The amusing burlesque of "The Red Pocket-Book," has proved such a popular hit that the management will have to defer the production of other novelties in preparation for some time to come. The burlesque is proceeded by a first part, varied interlude, and the amusing sketch of "Twice Married," in which Charles Vincent causes much fun as the old farmer. Miss Amelia Dean, Eva Clayton, Lizzie Harmon and many others appear.

Theatre Comique.

A number of amusing acts will be presented this evening: Mike Quinn will appear in his original version of the "Musical Moke," Miss Blanche in ballads and fancy dances, Ida Fisk in song and dance, and many others in a varied programme. On Friday evening an attractive bill will be presented for the benefit of Miss Claude.

The Italian Opera Season.

The debut of Signorina Speranza will take place next week on or about the 14th, and "Ernani" will probably be the opera presented. On the 21st the opera of "Un Ballo on Maschera" will be produced with Signorina Speranza in the leading role, and Miss Helen C. Dingeon will make her debut in Italian Opera in the character of the Page. La Traviati" will be performed on the 28th with Miss Annie McKenzie in the role of Violetta. Signor Bianchi has written to New York to engage Signor Fillippi, tenor, and Signor Reina, baritone, and they will probably start as soon as the road is open. "Ione" and "Joanna d' Arco" —operas never presented in this city—will be produced during the season.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

To the Theatrical Profession.

Life-size pictures taken at $5 each, by the Patent Solar Prismal process. A quantity will be taken at much reduced prices. Bush & Still, photographers, junction of Geary and Market, entrance on Market streets. G

Oakland Wants a Theatre.

The Alameda Encinal has the following to say on this text:

The Transcript is urging upon the people of Oakland that their city is big enough to own a theatre. Grant all these points, and then the question arises, would she support a theatre six months? We have seen the theatre experiment so often tried, in this and the older States, that our credulity is about "played out." Newark (New Jersey), and Brooklyn (New York), with population and wealth greater than Oakland, have ever failed to maintain a theatre—save spasmodically. Sacramento, at this day, does not support one continuously; the Stockton theatre is far from a paying investment; the Marysville theatre is dead, figuratively speaking, and the new theatre at San Jose, is not yielding a profit to its owners. No company can continuously receive a support at either of the places named. Is Oakland a better field for the drama than either of these? We think not. Situated thirty-five minutes' travel from the great metropolis, its people will go to San Francisco for amusement, recreation and edification, so long as the Railroad Company will bring them back after the eleventh hour. We won't invest our money in your theatre, Mr. Transcript.

Modern Boys.

The boys don't do things now like they did when Noah Webster was making spelling books. An old man near Pleasantville the other day, found a rude boy posting Lydia Thompson leg bills all over his door fence and desired him to desist; but the young sauce box told him plainly he would not and slapped up another picture. "Won't you," said the old man; "then I will fetch you down." So he pulled out a horse pistol and shot several times at him; but this only made the youngster laugh; for the old man was cross-eyed and could not hit a barn door. "Well, well," said the old man, "If neither words nor horse pistol will do, I must try what virtue there is in nitroglycerine;" so that old man pulled out a two-quart can of torpedo mixture and exploded it under the chap, who coolly whistled "If Ever I Cease to Love," while the old man went roaring away into the sky like a kite.

Amiable Woman.

"Your dress," said a husband to his fashionable wife, "will never please the men." "I don't dress to please men," was the reply, "but to werry other women."

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

A something more of heaven.

He deemed her not a saint—
In loving she is human—
And, as he is a man,
The dearer she as woman.
Nor down on her he looks,
Nor up to an ideal,
But straight into her eyes,
And all his love is real.

As bends the sturdy tree
To shade a pool of water,
But standeth like a rock
When wind and torrent slaughter;
So bends he unto her,
When gentlest her controlling,
So stands he as a wall
When dangers round are rolling.

'Tis not by given right
Or privilege he rules her,
For 'tis his grace to yield
That in obeying schools her;
And if the less himself
From troublous cause, or other,
A sharing sister she,
And he a patient brother.

As she may have a fault,
So he may have a greater,
And sorrow for his own,
For both is expiator:
And if upon her sleeve
She snares a passing folly,
He frights it with a smile,
And not with melancholy,

He slaves her truth to him
By no confining portal,
But in himself reflects
Its counterpart immortal.
The freedom that he gives,
Is taken from the donor:
A husband's faith may rest
Upon a husband's honor.

And ever as a child,
When childish she, he chides her,
And ever as a man,
When she is strong he guides her,
Through sunshine and through shade,
Through blessing and disaster,
In more than name her friend,
In less than law, her master.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hasoke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches form a most appropriate present. The egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff, and is presided over by A. Bona, his worthy successor. U

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE!

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Of the Same Opinion.

The Alta says:—

The lovers of freedom and rational government the world over, will regret to learn that M. Thiers is deliberately of the opinion that the establishment of a Republican government in France is an impossibility.

However much "the lovers of freedom and rational government" may regret that the establishment of a Republican government in France is at present an impossibility, we do not think they can regret that M. Thiers is not such an idiot as to be blind to that fact.

Sale of Liquors to Minors.

The bill prohibiting the sale of liquors to minors has been ordered engrossed by the vote of 23 ayes to 3 noes. If it passes, some of our juvenile-looking adults will be under the necessity of carrying about with them a register of their birth before any bar-keeper will be found bold enough to serve them with a drink. Of course the bill won't pass. Just fancy preventing a fellow getting drunk until he is twenty-one years of age! He can't begin sowing his wild oats before he is allowed to experiment with age.

The Cause.

For some days past the weather has been changeable. Mrs. ——, Bridget's mistress, was complaining of this yesterday, when Bridget said penitently: "Sure ma'am, and it's my fault intirely. I did not dare to tell you, but it's my fault." "How?" said her mistress; "your fault!" "Oh, yes ma'am, I broke the barometer and now the weather changes about just as it plazes."

Seat!

Muffington wants to know if Charles Wheatleigh, while he is playing in the piece now running at the California Theatre, may be spoken of as "horizon star." Muffington misplaces his h's and would say "ha risin' star."

More Sorter.

A young Hoosier once said to a Hoosieress: "Sal, is there anybody courtin' you now?" And Sal replied: "Well, Sam, there is one feller sorter courtin' and sorter not; but I reckon he is more sorter than not sorter."

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. c

No Necessity for Lying.

It is painful to see a man—otherwise so respectable—unreliable in the place where man most him most; for it weakens his hold upon the popular regard and cannot fail to depreciate his own self-respect. You must feel ashamed at times to realize that your word is not believed, and to know that you have not a customer in the world who feels at all sure about getting work done by you until it really is done and in his hands. The kind of life you lead must also be an exceedingly uncomfortable one.

Now, my dear friend, there is not the slightest necessity for this, and there is no apology for it. It had a very natural beginning, but you ought to have learned long ago that it was not requisite either to your prosperity or your comfort. You get work in spite of your lying, and not in consequence of it. That is the only thing people have against you. They give you their custom because you are a good workman, and for nothing else; and no man leaves your shop for another except for the reason that he cannot depend upon your word. You never made a dollar or saved a friend by all the lies you have told.

Honesty, reliableness, truthfulness—these are at a premium in all the markets of the world; and you have made yourself miserable and contemptible throughout your life for nothing. Your business is always at loose ends, everybody is crowding you, many of them abuse you, and it all comes of your promising to do work before it is possible for you to do it. Not a decent man, whose custom is worth keeping, enters your shop who would not wait your time patiently, if he could rely upon having his job done upon the day promised.

Can You Spell?

If you think you can, try this sentence:

It is an agreeable business to perceive the unparalleled embarrassment of a harrassed peddler while gauging the symmetry of a peeled pear which a poniard while hurling innuendos at a caterpillar and lilies of a cornelian hue, separately effected with erysipelas. Dilligent and pusillanimous raillery will not construct a parallelogram nor crystalize a belligerent guerrilla into a perennial guillotine with intollerant hemorrhage. This is an irrepressible corollary.

Shocking Bad Taste.

We learn that an estimable young lady in Kentucky committed suicide by cutting her throat from ear to ear. Setting aside the fact that this deed was unchristian-like, it was in bad taste and unlady-like. Will some one publish a "manual for suicides"? There are so many more decent, more pleasant and more certain ways of curing the disease of life than hacking away at one's throat with a razor. It's disgusting. We couldn't bear the thought of marrying any girl that would be guilty of such an act.

High Authority.

The Call publishes an article on Queen Elizabeth with the sub-head "An unfavorable Sketch of her Character." The "unfavorable sketch" is from Reynold's London pot-house paper, published by the same person who wrote the "Mysteries of the Court of London," which the Call no doubt takes as a reliable record of the doings of the English aristocracy.

Well Done.

Miss Fanny Gibson, of the Alhambra Theatre, took the second prize at the Lafayette Guard masquerade for playing the ——.

Extract from Helen Josephine Mansfield's Album.

It is only the first step that costs—the others pay.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Unfortunate.

A short time since, Mr. Stone, a conductor on the Central Railroad, while collecting fares, came to a man sitting muffled up in a cloak, and demanded his fare. "How much to Jackson?" asked the muffled man. Two dollars and twenty-five cents." "Ah! that's more than I've got; don't you sometimes carry folks for less when they are poor, or sick, and unfortunate?" "Yes," "Well, then you had better take half price for me; you see I've lost the use of both my hands!" holding them up encircled by handcuffs! Stone looked round, and observed two police officers sitting behind him, indulging in a quiet smile at his expense.

Silly.

The Chronicle calls "Miriam's Crime," by Craven, author of "The Chimney Corner," "Milky White," and a score of the most charming domestic dramas in the English language, "a piece of rubbish." A very easy style of "criticism," but a very silly ——

A Good Feature.

One of the most pleasing features in Saturday's Bulletin is the hebdomadal editorial by Sarah B. Cooper. That entitled "Be Yourself" in last Saturday's Bulletin was admirable. We think if Sarah B. Cooper were to write oftener the Bulletin would be more original.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night one of the very best of Dion Boucicault's sensational dramas: "Jessie Brown, or the Relief of Lucknow," will be produced with Miss Henrietta Osborne, James M. Hardy, T. E. Jackson, Harry Courtaine, Miss Fanny Young, Willie Simms and others in the cast. All who have seen this thrilling play will be glad to see it again, and those who have never seen it should not miss this opportunity.

Alhambra Theatre.

The sweet ballads of Harry Norman and S. Holdsworth; the beautiful cornet duet by the Kohler Brothers; the singing of Miss Fanny Gibson; the songs, dances, and acts of the Reynolds Brothers, and above all the endless variety of acts presented by the inimitable Billy Emerson, make this house a most popular resort, rain or shine.

California Theatre.

As a matter of course every one intends to go to see "Horizon" and its thrilling pictures of life in the Western settlements. The characters in this play are all of them so well acted by Charles Wheatleigh, John Mc Cullough, J. C. Williamson, Owen Marlowe, Miss Ellie Wilton, and others that the attention of the audience is never allowed to flag.

Maguire's Opera House.

In spite of the pouring rain every seat in the dress circle was filled last night with a fashionable opera audience and a goodly number assembled in the lower part of house. The opera of "Il Trovatore" was presented with the same cast as on the former occasion, and what we said then equally applies to last night's performance. The last act was a triumph for all concerned in its representation and was heartily enjoyed by all present.

Bella Union.

The banjo solos of Miss Ella La Rue are very popular; Maggie Knight, the rising "Lotta," is a favorite, and the sterling extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince," with its clever dialogue, beautiful music, pretty ballet, and fine transformation scene, is generally admired. M'lle Marie Gaugain, the talented and artistic danseuse, formerly of the Grand Opera House, New York, will make her reappearance on Saturday in a pas de deux with Miss Carrie Chapman.

The Oxford.

The burlesque of "The Red Pocket-Book" is so full of fun, that everyone is pleased with it. It is preceded by a variety performance. To-morrow evening Dan Lowry, the Irish vocalist, and a favorite with the patrons of the Oxford, will take a benefit. A burlesque on "Horizon," is in preparation.

Theatre Comique.

Among the novelties presented at this house to-night, will be the act of "The Cloverdale Stage Robbers," in which the entire company will appear. Frank Mortimer comic and character vocalist has been engaged and will appear on Saturday night.

Platt's Hall.

A concert was given yesterday afternoon, by the San Francisco Musical Fund Society, but it was so badly advertised, and managed, that the public generally did not know of it and the attendance was most discouragingly small. Those who attended, enjoyed a rich musical treat. Miss Helen Dingeon sang charmingly, and the instrumental music was very fine. The feature of the concert, was the "Martial Jubilee Overture"—not "Market Jubilee," as the Alta has it, by Lindpainter, for the first time in California. It is a grand composition, worthy of the fame it has achieved. The Alta says "the theme is the British National Hymn interwoven with singular capriocios," which is not very correct information. The theme is the old national air of Prussia, "All Hail to Thee, Crowned with Victory," from which "God Save the King" was adapted, during the reign of one of the Georges. The Chronicle, with more patriotism, but with equal ignorance, says:

Amid the allusive roar of cannon and rattle of musketry, the strains of the hymn "America" could be plainly distinguished.

Just so. "America" and "God Save the Queen" ingrafted in the Prussian Martial Jubilee Overture, composed by Lindpainter, and played on the return of King William and his armies from France! Where was "Rule Brittania" and "Yankee Doodle?"

A Theatre in Oakland.

John Maguire, of the Metropolitan Theatre, has leased the building known as the New City Hall, Oakland, and is now busy in forming a company to open as soon as the necessary stage and scenic arrangements are completed, which will be in about a fortnight hence. The company will give three performances weekly.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

John Tyler.

[From the Galaxy.]

When the death of General Harrison was made known to the Vice President, he was living in a humble way on a small farm belonging to his friend Judge Waller, in the quaint old town of Williamsburg. He had always been in straitened circumstances, supporting his large family on and he was hardly able to comprehend the change wrought in his condition by the salary of Vice-President, his election to that office being a piece of good fortune wholly unexpected. When he succeeded to the Presidency he was bewildered in contemplating the enormous sum of $25,000 which he was to receive annually for the succeeding four years. He spent about $26,000 in the first eleven months after he came to Washington, and on the 4th of March, 1842, found himself considerably in debt. The salary seemed to him an inexhaustible fund, and he had gradually accumulated a large establishment, consisting of a numerous retinue of servants, a fine stable of horses, and a costly equipage, then regarded as luxurious and extravagant, but which would now be thought plain and humble to a degree hardly befitting the dignity of the Executive office. The affairs of the White House were more economically managed afterwards: the establishment was materially reduced, and Mr. Tyler saved enough during three years of his term to pay for a modest estate on James river.

LIMITED MEANS,

HE WAS AN ADMIRABLE HOST,

of amiable deportment and winning manners, always putting visitors at their ease, and dispensing the hospitalities of the Executive mansion without formality or ostentation, in the true spirit of a Virginia gentleman. He was frank, cordial and courteous, credulous and unsuspicious, impressible, of a facile mind, listening to everybody that came near him, and apt to be a convert to the last argument presented in the case. He wrote readily and pleasantly, without great logical force, but his rhetoric was always unexceptionable. In conversation he was fluent and agreeable, and talked well and interestingly, even upon matters about which he was only superficially informed. He was an emotional and sympathetic man, and an appeal to his kindness or benevolence was rarely made in vain.

LIVING IN A FRUGAL MANNER,

among a rural population, he had formed an exaggerated estimate of the power of the Federal patronage, and had no doubt that a post-office worth a thousand dollars a year ought to control a Congressional district. Hence, when he had been persuaded that he might be elected to the Presidency at the expiration of his present term, he determined to retain this source of power within his own control, and would not consent to removals from office when the vacancies might be filled by those who would employ their influence to thwart his designs.

John Chinaman as a Groom.

John Chinaman's latest achievement, says the Los Angeles News, has been as a groom. One of our leading citizens recently purchased a cream-colored horse, with long, flowing mane and tail. He prided himself in being the possessor of the animal, and always spoke of him in the most admiring terms. The horse was groomed by a Chinaman, who delighted in keeping the animal's coat clean and glossy. The other day he thought he would surprise his employer, and improve a little on Nature, by making a trifling change in "Dobbin's" appearance; so, arming himself with a stout shears, John proceeded to work. The long, flowing tail was severed close to the root, and compared favorably in shortness and appearance with any thoroughbred English hunter that ever accompanied the hounds over hedge and ditch. John was in ecstacies at the transformation, and at once clipped the mane close to the neck, leaving the forelock to match with the tuft left at the other end. Having thus effected the desired change, the delighted Chinaman led the horse out of the stable to exhibit him to the owner, and to receive his employer's approbation, of course, for the improved appearance of his charger. To his great astonishment his labors were not appreciated, and instead of the expected praises being bestowed upon him, benedictions of a different character were heaped upon his devoted head. John can't understand it. He says, "me no sabee, you no likee." That cream-colored horse has been the centre of an admiring crowd of good judges of horse-flesh ever since. They say the peculiar change in his appearance shows his points to a better advantage. The Judge, however, thinks the "Heathen Chinee' is a failure as a groom.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. G

MULTUM IN PARVO.

BY CLARENCE E. BUHLER.

Experience is a lesson
That teaches him who heeds
To count the pearls on Memory's thread
As friars tell their beads.

Majestic is the peak that leaves
The chamois far below,
And like the great white throne of God
Soars brilliant with its snow.

But sweet associations
A subtler charm instill—
The dead canary leaves a void
A condor could not fill.

The full significance of things
No lexicon can show;
You cannot make a swan less white
By calling it a crow.

We call a honeysuckle fair
Wherever it may bloom,
And yet it sometimes seems to nod
Too gayly on a tomb.

Ah me! how many buried hopes
The smallest grave enfolds;
Ah me! what volumes of regret
One page of memory holds.

The pebbles cast upon a cairn
A monument creats;
A mustard-seed is large enough
To block the wheels of fate.

The poorest wretch has something left
To watch with hopeful eye—
Some chrysalis that yet will be
A winged butterfly.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

What Comes Next to Man?—A good story is told of a teacher who was talking to her scholars regarding the order of the higher beings. It was a very profitable subject, and one in which the children took an uncommon interest. She told them the angels came first in perfection, and when she asked them who came next, and was readily answered by one boy, "Man," she felt encouraged to ask: "What comes next to man?" And here a little shaver, who was evidently smarting under a defeat in the preceding question, immediately distanced all competitors, by promptly shouting out: "His undershirt, ma'am!"

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Foundation of the Drama.

The Following extract is taken from the letters of a lady, one of the rescued on the 26th September, when Lucknow was relieved by the forces under Sir Colin Campbell.

Death stared us in the face. We were fully persuaded that in twenty-four hours all would be over. Poor Jessie had been in a state of restless excitement. At last, overcome with fatigue, she lay down on the ground, wrapped up in her plaid I sat beside her, promising to awaken her, when, as she said, "her father should return from the ploughing." She at length fell into a profound slumber, motionless and apparently breathless, her head resting on my lap. I myself could no longer resist the inclination to sleep, in spite of the continual roar of cannon. Suddenly I was aroused by a wild, unearthly scream close to my ear my companion stood upright beside me, her arms raised, and her head bent forward in the attitude of listening. A look of intense delight broke over her countenance. She grasped my hand, drew me toward her, and exclaimed — "Diana ye hear it? Diana ye hear it? Ay, I'm no dreamin'! It's the slogan o' the Highlanders! WE'RE SAVED! WE'RE SAVED!"

A Story Spoiled.

A fiend in editorial shape has fallen upon the touching legend of the girl in a Bridgeport hat factory who wrote her name on the inside of a hat she had just finished, was sought out and discovered by a wealthy young man, who married her in the most orthodox fashion. Now, that was a pretty story enough. But the editor cut off the conclusion ruthlessly, and substituted a disgusting denouement, wherein he made the heroine's austere father buy the hat, wherein was the inscription "I am thine; wilt thou be mine?" According to the shameless perverter of romantic history, the hoary sire went and cut a hickory withe and awaited his daughter's return impatiently, at the garden gate, under the humming sycamore. The interview that resulted incapacitated the love lorn-maiden from engaging in sedentary pursuits for three weeks.

Of Course.

An exchange says:

A peculiar feature of the fur trade is that almost every country which produces and exports furs, imports and consumes the fur of some other place, frequently the most distant.

It means to say, we suppose, that the further fur is brought the more folks will give "fur" it. So fur, so good.

Leander Quint.

Mrs. Fair will retain Leander Quint as her counsel for her next trial. Some one saying that Leander's speech last time contained "the very essence of the law," Muffington said, "Yes, the Quint-essence."

Something Like It.

A new soap called "ferraginous emollient" is being manufactured in this city. It is said to be made out of olive oil and iron and to resemble castile soap. We don't suppose this iron soap is better than "cast steel" soap.

Fragrant.

A young lady at Indianola, not long since, killed a skunk with a butcher knife. Her lover came to see her that night, and told her that he could not marry her unless she quit using that kind of hair oil.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. C

Sick Goats.

At the last meeting of the Board of Health Dr. Imbourg submitted a statement that within a few days he had seen five or six goats—sick ones, at that—sold by a butcher for mutton. Live or six sick goats only. We believe there have been five or six hundred sold within the last week. Half the chops sold for mutton are goat chops—sick goat chops. The fare in even the best restaurants is very poor and the cooks are abominable. Those birds sold as spring chickens at a dollar a piece are nothing but young owls caught in the Santa Clara Valley; the veal is young mule meat, and the beef, old horse. There hasn't been a decent bit of beef in the market for months. But we must think of the sufferings of the snow-bound travellers on the plains and in a Christian-like spirit, taking comfort from the misfortunes of others, eat our sick goats and be thankful.

We Knew It.

We were sure that Augustin Daly's worst play, "Horizon," would just suit the critic of the Bulletin. He says:

"Horizon," though for startling incident and thrilling situation ranking as an ultra sensational play, is one of the rare exceptions, in that it is coherent and well sustained in plot.

The fact is that it is incoherent, and that the plot, so far from being sustained, breaks down altogether in the last act. But there are lots of Indians in it and consequently the young man was pleased. He is also struck with the "completeness of detail" of the waterfall. Just so; it is a very completely detailed waterfall. Pretty too, isn't it?

Tremendous Republican Excitement.

A meeting of the Republican supporters of Sir Charles Bilk took place in Trafalgar Square, London, on the 5th. Out of the four million inhabitants of London, ten thousand took part in it. Well may Victoria tremble on her throne. The Internationals of San Francisco have twenty-seven dollars in the treasury to aid their brethren in England if necessary. Liberte, Egalite et Fraternite! Vive la Republique! Those pig-headed Britishers will have a republic when they are educated up to it. When the sky falls we shall catch larks.

A Model Composition.

For a specimen of logical consecution of ideas, we venture to commend this form of a schoolboy's composition: "Tobacco was invented by a man named Walter Saleigh, When the people first saw him smoking. they thought it was a steamboat, and as they never saw a steamboat, they were frightened."

Very Natural.

"This world is all a fleeting show," said a priest to a culprit on the gallows. "Yes," was the prompt reply, "but if you have no objections, I'd like to see the show a little longer!"

Quite Natural.

It is very natural that a new trial should be ordered in the case of Laura D. Fair. The lawyers have not got all her money yet.

"It's a great comfort to be left alone," said an Irish lover, "especially whin yer swateheart is wid ye."

Very Appropriate.

The Alta of Monday has an article headed "Matchless Idiocy." It is.

War With England.

In the event of the Alabama Claims not being settled, and a war with England, the Pioneer Shirt Manufactory 327 Kearny street, adjoining the Weed Sewing Machine Store, is prepared with an immense stock of English linens and shirtings which will last all through the war. H

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Bound to Have a License.

The Auburn Stars and Stripes of the 1st instant relates this:

A few days ago a spry-looking, wide-awake individual from the farming section of our county, clad in agricultural Sunday suit, tipped off and "agonized" with a vivid and voluminous scarlet neck-tie, tripped with springy gait into the County Clerk's office and accosted County Clerk Sewell to know whether he sold bar licenses there. With accustomed suavity, and in habitually dulcet tones Sewell informed his interrogator that bar licenses were issued by the Auditer—next door—to the Collector's, and by them supplied to applicants. "Then have you any merchandise licenses?" glibbly inquired the gorgeously attired. To which, in sweeter accents, if possible, Sewell replied as before. "What!" exclaimed the bucolic Adonis, "is it possible that you don't have any sort of licenses for sale in this shop?" "Well, yes," replied Sewell, a radiant smile of shrewd suspicion dancing among his highly becoming gray whiskers, "we have one, and only one kind. We issue marriage licenses." "Very good," said the other, "I am bound to patronize you, let me have one of them." And within an hour Mary Jane was bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh. She had been waiting down at the American until he could get a license without looking sheepish. Sewell's deposition is on file in evidence that he made the riffle.

A Pleasant Trip.

A French paper tells a story of one who was about to embark in company with some convicts from Marseilles for Algeria. After he had been on board a few minutes he heard a noise lik the falling of hail. "What is that?" he asked. "That," young man said the calm voice of a philosophical old convict, "is the fleas embarking." It is true the fleas had embarked and in an instant he was covered with them.

Sad Mistake.

In New York, recently, a woman attacked a burglar who had entered her room, and threw him down stairs and nearly broke his neck. She said she thought it was her husband coming home drunk again, and she didn't intend he should stop there. She'll probably get another chance at the old man.

Foundation of the Drama.

The Following extract is taken from the letters of a lady, one of the rescued on the 26th September, when Lucknow was relieved by the forces under Sir Colin Campbell.

Death stared us in the face. We were fully persuaded that in twenty-four hours all would be over. Poor Jessie had been in a state of restless excitement. At last, overcome with fatigue, she lay down on the ground, wrapped up in her plaid I sat beside her, promising to awaken her, when as she said, "her father should return from the ploughing." She at length fell into a profound slumber, motionless and apparently breathless. Her head resting on my lap. I myself could no longer resist the inclination to sleep, in spite of the continual roar of cannon. Suddenly I was aroused by a wild, unearthly scream close to my ear my companion stood upright beside me, her arms raised, and her head bent forward in the attitude of listening. A look of intense delight broke over her countenance She grasped my hand, drew me toward her, and exclaimed — "Diana ye hear it? Diana ye hear it? Ay, I'm no dreamin': It's the slogan o' the Highlanders! WE'RE SAVED! WE'RE SAVED!"

Opera Gossip.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Washington Critic, in speaking of the recent Wachtel season there, the most brilliant one ever given in that city, says:

On Tuesday evening the Academy was literally jammed. All the seats in the house were occupied, and the receipts for that single night amounted to upwards of $5,000. The question of prices paid to prominent artistes has created quite a discussion. Wachtel, at his one thousand dollars a night, is said to get more than Nilsson, and Barnum states that he paid Jenny Lind, when she was in the very zenith of her glory, about twenty-nine hundred dollars for a single concert. Nilsson injured herself somewhat by not fulfilling her opera engagement in Philadelphia, and I doubt if the wily Strakosch could crowd the Academy if he now concluded to pay us a visit. I find that the burly Brignoli still has his ardent supporters, and while the majority, in fact all, must admit that Watctel is a great actor and a capital "attudinizer"—that is the new word coined to suit his peculiar style—and while his high C is wonderful, he does not possess power and that silver tone, and cannot give that metalic ring to his notes that Brignoli possessed in an eminent degree when he was in his prime, and which he sometimes exhibits even at this late day, after having for so many seasons reigned supreme as the greatest tenor. What a flutter he created when he first appeared at the opening of the Academy as Manrico, assisted by Madame Gazzaniga as Leonora, and the good-natured Falstaffian Amodio as the Count de Luna? Brignoli was a handsome young fellow in those days. Gazzaniga was not so far advanced in years, and so capitally did she delineate the ill-fated Violetta in "Traviata," and so naturally and effectually simulated the consumptive cough, and the dying scene, that her devoted husband was always compelled to retire when the tragic consummation approached.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. c

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Mrs Siddons' First two Seasons in London.

We make the following extracts from "The Kembles, an account of the Kemble family, including the lives of Mrs. Siddons, and her Brother, John Philip Kemble," By Percy Fitzgerald. M. A. F. S. A, recently published in London by Tinsley. The contrast between Mrs. Siddons' first and second appearances in London may give comfort to many a debutante:

In 1775, when Mrs. Siddons was playing at Cheltenham, Garrick, to whom Lord Bruce had praised her highly, sent King down to see her. He reported favorably; and Garrick, just then nearly worried to death by Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Abington, and Miss Younge, offered her an engagement at five pounds a week. She was delighted, and confident of success, though she did not admit that she felt so until long afterwards. She made her first appearance in a spectacular piece representing Shakspearian characters, called the Jubilee, and Garrick inflamed the wrath of the rival actresses against her by giving her the part of Venus. Thos, Dibdin played Cupid. Garrick paid her marked attention, and shielded her with all his power, from the "histrionic viragoes, her position among whom was enough to chill any heart." It is not possible to impute blame to Garrick in the events which ensued or to hold Mrs. Siddons guiltless of unmerited bitterness and spite towards him. She played Portia, was nervous, awkward inaudible, and ill-dressed, and was not a success. She played Julia, and was a decided failure. Garrick seems to have been ignorant of her tragic powers, and persisted in putting her into comedy parts. She never was a comedian. Garrick was now giving his farewell performances, and he gave her an opening in a tragic part—Lady Anne—a selection which was indeed an honour. On this occasion, the great actor surpassed himself. It was admitted to be a performance almost awful for its savage intensity. The fire of his eyes struck terror into the young actress. She forget his important direction—that she should keep her back to the stage so His face might be presented to the audience—and received such a look of rebuke, that she thought she might have fainted on the spot. She was passed over in silence by all the critics but one, who pronounced her "lamentable." This was her last appearance; and the unfortunate circumstances of the brief engagement filled her with misplaced and unmerited wrath and bitterness towards Garrick, unworthy of her and injurious to her memory.

Garrick retired, having promised to use his interest with the new managers in her behalf, and she worked hard all the summer at Birmingham. She was about returning to town, when she received a cold official letter from Drury Lane, announcing that the managers had no occasion for her services. 'This terrible blow nearly killed her,' says Mr. Fitzgerald 'The grief, disappointment, the thought of her children, the mortification, utterly crushed her, who was little more than a girl in years and disposition.

Mrs. Siddons again went back to the provincial towns, and year by year achieved such triumphs in tragedies, that at last the managers of the Drury Lane ventured to offer her an engagement. Her first appearance was on the 10th of October, 1782, as Isabella. Fitzgerald says:

All the world knows the story of that great triumph, how she took entire possession of her vast audience, how the exquisite sweetness of her tones went to every heart, how men wept, and women went into hysterics, and how the passionate bursts of applause interrupted every speech of hers in the last act. Her seven years' training had had its fruit; and the hard-working woman, with her intense sense of duty, her deeprooted maternal instincts, and her matter-of-fact industry, deserved it well. This is her own account of the home-scene that night: 'I reached my own quiet fireside, on retiring from the scene of reiterated shouts and plaudits. I was half-dead, and my joy and thankfulness were of too solemn and overpowering a nature to admit of words, or even tears. My father, my husband, and myself sat down to a frugal, neat supper, in a silence uninterrupted, except by exclamations of gladness from Mr. Siddons. My father enjoyed his refreshments, but occasionally stopped short, and, laying down his knife and fork, lifting up his venerable face, and throwing back his silver hair, gave way to tears of happiness. We soon parted for the night; and I, worn out with continually broken rest and laborious exertion, after an hour's retrospection (who can conceive the intenseness of that reverie?), fell into a sweet and profound sleep, which lasted to the middle of the next day. I arose, alert in mind and body. It is good to see how her heart turned to her friends at Bath. The letters the great actress wrote at this time do her disposition as much honor as all the world of London was doing to her genius. Fame and money came to her rapidly. Her first short season brought her fifteen hundred pounds. All the great world flocked to call on her. The king and the royal family took a deep interest in her, which never flagged. The queen put her son's name down on her list for the Charter House, and Hamilton painted her picture which all the world flocked to see. After eighty nights' wailing, mourning, and raging in every phase of histrionic affliction, the actress's London season closed.

Lever Buckle Suspenders,

Australian Theatricals.

A letter received by the last steamer from Mr. Geo. Coppin, the Australian Manager, has the following concerning theatricals there:

VICTORIA, Dec. 17, 1871.

The Agatha States' Opera Troupe have arrived. I presume they did not remain in New Zealand in consequence of the Cagli Opera Company being there. I fear they will have some difficulty in making arrangements. Mr. Lyster is killing time in Tasmania with his English Opera Comyany. The only chance I see for Miss States is to arrange with Mr. Lyster to join in Melbourne. The combination would make a one good company, but as Mr. Lyster has a lease of Princess Opera House he would place them at a great disadvantage by playing them at that theatre. No news of Prof. Haselmeyer. Cora Lamond arrived by the last mail, and as business was very bad at the Prince of Wales' Opera House, an engagement was made for her there and the natural result was a most unmistakable failure. No matter what her talent, it was impossible for her to succeed in so large a theatre. I think it a mistake for any person visiting the colonies to appear anywhere except in Melbourne first. Circumstances compelled the Zavistowskis to play in Sydney before Melbourne, but if they could have commenced in Melbourne the result of their season here would have been far more satisfactory. They played a good paying engagement. The illness of Miss Emmeline in Sydney and a fortnight in Melbourne was a very serious drawback to its success, but the mistake was the want of novelty—all their burlesques have been played here frequently. The girls are very amiable and good. Miss Albertine is in the Ballarat Benevolent Asylum, quite blind and grey headed. The Z's went to see her when they were playing there. Her great desire is to get back to America. There is great talk about erecting a new theatre in Melbourne.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE. — Mr. Dion Boucicault's capital drama of "Jessie Brown, or the relief of Lucknow," with its exciting situations and stirring scenes of military display, was performed again last night. After this T. E. Jackson appeared in the burnt cork farce of "Jumbo Jum," and kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter by his wonderfully comic speech on everything in general and nothing in particular. This entertainment which gave the greatest satisfaction to the audience present last night, will be given at the matinee to-day, and this evening. To-morrow evening by special request, "The Corsican Brothers" will be presented.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—With the return of fine weather the good people of San Francisco came out of their houses and a large audience witnessed the performance of the exciting drama of "Horizon" last night. This play will be performed at the matinee to-day and to-night for the last time. J. C. Williamson supplies the fun of the piece by his very clever impersonation of Sundown Rowse, Esq., in which he causes roars of laughter. Those who wish to see a "A Live Indian" should witness Charles Wheatleigh's carefully studied representation of Wah-na-mu-kah.

ALHAMBRA.—The nightly attendance at this theatre proves that the popularity of Billy Emerson and his talented band of minstrels is undiminished. The Reynolds Brothers are great in song and dance, and very amusing in negro acts. Billy Emerson changes his programme of songs every night so that the performance is always fresh and entertaining. A matinee will be given to-day, and a very varied entertainment will please all who visit this house this evening. There is a chance of the snowed-in Minstrels. Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn, Bob Hart, Harry Stanwood and Charles Heywood, getting through to-day. If they do they will appear on Monday. In the event of their non-arrival, such an attractive programme will be presented by the company now at the Alhambra, that the public will be well satisfied.

BELLA UNION—A splendid bill to-night. After a new first part an interlude will be given, in which the charmingly graceful, and artistic dansense M'lle Marie Gaugain will perform a Hungarian Pas de Deux with Miss Carrie Chapman. Miss Ella La Rue will sing a comic song "The days of Hickory Jackson" Samwells and Montague will appear as "The Two Olo wns," Maggie Knight will sing a comic Irish song, and appear in character sketches, Clara Starr will sing a dialect song 'Yankee Notions," J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong will appear in "The Little Fraud," and a variety of others performances will be given. "The Invisible Prince" will terminate the evening's amusement.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—The benefit to Miss Claude at this establishment last night went off capitally and an equally good entertainment will be given to-night. After a good first part, Frank Mortimer, the character vocalist, will appear in his specialties; Miss La Foreet in new songs; Mike Quinn in Irish songs and dances: Kelly and Stuart in their double song and dance business, and the rest of the numerous company in a good programme.

THE OXFORD.—Dan Lowry had a bumper benefit last night and the performance gave general satisfaction. A great Saturday night bill has been prepared, in which the entire company will appear. The new burlesque of "The Red Pocket Book" will terminate the evening's entertainment. A burlesque on "Horizon" is in preparation.

BENEFIT TO MRS. W. H. SEDLEY SMITH.—Next Wednesday a matinee performance will be given at the California Theatre for the benefit of the widow of the late W. H. Sedley Smith, who did not leave too much of this world's goods behind. Everyone in the house has volunteerd for the occasion and every dollar taken in will go to the widow. The bill will shortly be announced

ITALIAN OPERA—Wednesday night will be the next opera night. The favorite opera of "Ernani" will be presented and Signorina Speranza will make her first appearance before the San Francisco public. Miss Helen O. Dungeon is already perfect in the part of the Page, in "Un Ballo en Maschera," and will make her debut on the 21st

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—The road to the Cliff House was never in better condition than it is at present. All who can, should now enjoy a drive to that famous hostelry where the genial host, Captain Foster caters so well to the comfort of his guests.

THE "STAR DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION."—A dramatic association was organized under the above title on the 3d inst., with the following officers: President, Thos. McGinn; Secretary, Geo. Smith; Treasurer, Adolphe Sherman; Business Manager, D. J. Boyle. They will give their first entertainment in the course of a few weeks.

THEATRICAL LAWSUIT.—Sheridan Corbyn has commenced suit in a Justice's Court against Charles Vivian to recover $200 for breach of contract. Vivian volunteered to appear for the benefit of a hose company in Stockton last Saturday under the management of Mr. Corbyn, and did not do so; hence the suit.

MISS ROSE EVANS.—The public will be glad to learn that this favorite young actress, who made such a favorable impression when she appeared in this city over a year ago, has been engaged as a regular member of the California Theatre company, and will make her first appearance on Monday.

"ARRAH-NA-POGUE."—This very popular drama, which was produced in San Francisco by Charles Wheatleigh and ran over sixty nights, will be presented at the California Theatre on Monday evening, with Charles Wheatleigh as Shaun the Post, Miss Rose Evans as Arrah Meelish, J. C. Williamson as Michael Feeny, and a strong cast.

CALICO MASQUERADE BALL.—The Hebrew Ladies' Sewing Circle will give a grand calico masquerade ball early next month, which will be a great affair. The milliners' art will be taxed to the utmost to do up calico in every imaginable shape. Full particulars will shortly be published.

ETTIE HENDERSON.—This young actress will shortly arrive here under engagement to Manager Bert of the Metropolitan Theatre. During her engagement she will produce "Far West," McCloskey's great sensational drama.

FRENCH ZOUAVES' BALL.—The French Zouaves will give a ball at Platt's Hall this evening. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation.

EUREKA MASQUERADE BALL.—The annual masquerade Ball of the Eureka Social Club will

"EARLY CALIFORNIA."—A new and original drama with the above title, by William Bensman, of this city, has been accepted by the management of the Metropolitan Theatre, and will be produced on Wednesday next. The action takes place in San Francisco and on Texas Bar, Shasta county; the time is 1851. James M. Hardie plays Errant, the editor of a San Francisco paper, and Henrietta Osborne Carlotta, the heroine of the play; J. H. McCabe takes the character of Mr. Milton, who is murdered by Coates, played by Harry Courtaine; T. E. Jackson is a comic Irishman, Miss Maggie Moore a barkeeper of the period, J. H. Vinson Uncle Charley, a California Justice of the Peace, and Willie Simms, Tripletopper, an early California lawyer and shyster. Among the new scenes are the interior of a printing office, Sansome street, in early times; a log cabin on Texas Bar, Shasta county; a dock with Eastern steamer coming in, the steamer occupying the full length of the stage, and a mining scene on Texas Bar, with long tom in operation. Great care has been bestowed on the preparations for this piece, and everything will be done to insure its success. The management of the Metropolitan Theatre should be sustained by the public in their efforts to encourage home dramatic talent.

GRAND CALICO BALL AT PLATT'S HALL.—The Calico Ball under the auspices of the Ladies' United Aid Society, which is to come off at Platt's Hall on Monday evening, will be an immense success. Almost all the tickets printed for the occasion have been sold, and there will be a brilliant gathering of the beauty and fashion of the city. It will be a pleasant sight—so many of the votaries of fashion gathered together in the holy name of charity. The committees have all worked with a will and discharged their duties admirably. The hall will be gracefully decorated, the floor canvased, the music by Ballenberg's grand orchestra delightful, and the supper excellent. It must be remembered that no tickets will be sold at the door; therefore those who wish to attend must not put off securing them until too late, or they will find the doors closed against them. The names of those who have this praiseworthy enterprise under their management may be found in full in another column, and are a sufficient guarantee that the arrangements will be perfect in every respect.

TALENT FOR OREGON.—Nick Hochgurtel, manager of the Theatre Comique, Portland, Oregon, has been in this city for the past week engaging talent for his place of amusement. He has secured and will take up with him on Tuesday the following popular artists: The dashing Le Favre, Johnny Manning, gymnast and general performer; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin, who are remarkably clever in double Dutch song and dance; Minnie Fillmore, a pretty and clever soubrette and pleasing vocalist; May Leroy, an attractive dansense and general performer; Jake Wallace, a clever ethiopian comedian and banjo soloist; Ida Fisk, a neat performer in song and dance and character sketches; and the old warhorse of minstrelsy and eccentric ethiopian comedian, Johnny Tuers.

A NEW COMEDY.—The author of the "Red Pocket Book," Mr. J. C. Ford, has written, in conjunction with Mr. P. Robert, a comedy entitled "Bagshot Abroad," which will shortly be produced at the Metropolitan Theatre.

CHARLES VIVIAN.—The week after next, when "After Dark" will be produced at the California Theatre, Charles Vivian will commence an engagement.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

OAKLAND.—The press of Oakland have been crying out "Oakland wants a theatre," and now Oakland is to have one. We only hope the people of Oakland will patronize it. The City Hall is to be fitted up with stage and scenery and will be opened on Saturday next by J. Maguire, who has had some experience in management in Australia. Harry Sinclair will be stage manager. The company will comprise among others, Mrs. Sinclair, Miss Nellie Cummins, Miss Hester Williams and Pierpont Thayer. It is the intention to give three performances a week, and the entertainments will will consist of standard comedies. Hon. Nathan Porter will lecture on "The Drama" at Odd Fellows' Hall, on Thursday evening.

SACRAMENTO.—Madame Veneta appeared at the Metropolitan Theatre, supported by Proctor's company on Sunday, in "Deborah," on Monday as Lady Macbeth, and on Tuesday in "Deborah" again. The Sacramento public liked her in "Deborah" but Lady Macbeth was too much for them. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Buckstone's comedy of "Leap Year," and the farce of "A Loan of a Lover," constituted the entertainment. To-night Madame Veneta will mangle Lady Macbeth again.

MARYSVILLE.—The Marysville Amateur Dramatic Association will appear at the theatre on Tuesday evening, for the benefit of the Marysville Benevolent Society. "The Marble Heart" will be played.

RENO.—The Blind Troupe, Miss Elen Moran and others intend giving an entertainment shortly.

VALLEJO.—Farragut Hall is being enlarged and improved. The Bell Ringers have paid their bills and got back their bells.

WEAVERVILLE.—The Trinity Journal has the following:

The "Weaverville Debating Club" has adjourned sine die, and the "Amateurs" ditto. Talent in this neighborhood is scarce, but sociability is much more so.

GRASS VALLEY—The Marysville Minstrels gave a performance at Hamilton Hall on Saturday evening.

LOS ANGELES—Cogill and Cooper's minstrel Troupe, comprising G. H. Foster, Forestelle, Harry Howard and others opened at Merced Theatre on the 29th to a $460 dollar house and did well on the succeeding nights. They have left for San Bernardino, and will thence work their way to Gilroy, and home to San Francisco.

SUCKER FLAT.—The Marysville Minstrels gave an entertainment at Cram's Hall, on the 2d.

PIOCHE CITY.—Pioche City has "a brass band," but no instruments. The musicians call upon the citizens to provide them with the means of making their talents known.

SALT LAKE, U. T.—E. T. Stetson commenced an engagement at the theatre on the 1st inst., in "Neck and Neck."

RENO.—The Crescent of the 23d has the following:

On Monday evening last our local talent gave their first entertainment at Dyer's Hall, giving quite satisfactions to a large and appreciative audience. The entertainment consisted of local and popular songs and a pantomime, and as a first effort was more than creditable, it was a magnificent success, giving promise of a degree of excellence that would draw a full house in larger towns, against prof-essionals. We understand that a second entertainment will be given a week from next Monday, and bespeak for our boys a house full to overflowing.

PORTLAND, OR.—Geo. B. Waldron's Dramatic Company performed "Bel Demonio" at the Ore Fino Theatre on the 1st and 2d insts., and on the 3d "Lafitte, or the Pirate of the Gulf."....The Cathedral choir, assisted by amateurs, gave a concert at Philharmonic Hall on the 1st inst. A list of Comique may be found in our local column.....

The Dramatic Chronicle says:

We have received a note from James Cooke, the circus clown and actor, in which he states that he secured an engagement from Dan Rice to play South immediately on his arrival in New York, and that he played with him in all the principal Southern cities. He returned to New York on the 10th of January, and there he intends to bring out a new Irish drama, written by a reporter of this city, in which a character was specially cast for him to enable him to display his leaping powers and daring riding. A scene in which Cooke leaps a precipice on horseback is the sensation of the piece. The purpose of the drama is, we believe, to show the effect of landlordism in Ireland, and to give a true portrait of the Irish character, from the noble to the peasant, in contradistinction to the usual stage Irishman. The drama was well spoken of by good critics before being sent East. It affords scope for the finest scenic effects, and therefore should take.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Still no mails. We cannot even guess after so great a lapse of time since our last advices how the people of the Eastern cities are being amused. We may hope to be able next Saturday to give a full summary of theatrical doings in the East, until then we must wait in patience.

Well Dressed Men.

Numbers of fashionably dressed men appear on the streets of San Francisco. These for the most part procure their shirts, underwear and handkerchiefs of P. The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 37 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

A capital house witnessed the performance of "The Corsican Brothers," at this house last night, and it went off in good style. James M. Hardy was effective in his impersonation of the twin brothers, and the duel scene by him and Harry Courtaine fairly brought down the house. The same piece will be played to-night. On Wednesday W. Bauman's original drama entitled "Early California," for which Wilkins is painting many scenes representing localities familiar to the pioneers of the State, and recalling the flush times of '49, will be produced with everything to make it a success.

California Theatre.

To-night, Charles Wheatleigh will once more appear in the character of Shaun the Post, in "Arrah na Pogue," which brought him both fame and money some years ago. Miss Rose Evans, the charming juvenile actress, who played a short but brilliant season at the California Theatre, about a year ago, has joined the company as a permanent member, and will make her reappearance in the character of Arrah Meelish. J. C. Williamson will play Michael Feeny, and will, no doubt, present an original conception of that character. Miss Ellie Wilton will perform the part of Fanny Power. E. J. Buckley will appear "in his great character" of Olney Farrell—he really does make a great character of it—and dance the barr-door jig, with Miss Maggie Chambers, who will play Katy Welsh. The play will be produced with all the original scenery.

Alhambra Theatre.

The capital company at the Alhambra Theatre headed by the inimitable Billy Emerson, are just "throwing themselves;" and succeed admirably in pleasing the public. To-night there will be an entire change of performance. After a bright first part, Billy Emerson will present new charcoal sketches from his inexhaustible album. The Reynolds Brothers, ably supported by Robinson, will appear in new acts, and will give, for the first time their "Pretty Black-eyed Kitty," Miss Fanny Gibson and S. Holdsworth, will sing. Harry Clifton's very amusing serio-comic duet, entitled "Very Suspicious," and the screaming farce of "The Live Ingin,," with Billy Emerson as Old Short Cut, and George Reynolds as the Live Ingin, will conclude the performance.

Bella Union.

M'lle Marie Gaugain, the popular danseuse, was warmly received on making her reappearance on the stage of the Bella Union Theatre last night. She performed a pas de deux Hungarian with Miss Carrie Chapman, in a style which brought down the house. To-night Ella La Rue will sing her spirited comic song, "The days of Hickory Jackson;" Samwells and Montague will appear as "The Two Clowns;" the graceful Eugenia Gerretta will will perform her popular acts on the revolving globe, a variety of other entertainments will be given, and the evening's amusement will conclude with the capital extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince."

The Oxford.

The very popular burlesque of "The Red Pocket Book" has but three nights more to run, as the new burlesque of "Horizon," which has long been in rehearsal, must be produced. Charles Vincent, Miss Amelia Dean, Lizzie Harmon and a host of others will appear to-night.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer, who has just joined the company at this house is a popular favorite, and sings character songs in a very neat style. The programme of comic acts on our first page promises a rich treat of fun. Kelly and Stuart in their songs and dances are very popular.

Platt's Hall—The Calico Ball.

All the tickets for the Calico Ball have been sold and those who put off purchasing till the last moment must remain in outer darkness growling and picking their teeth. Gentlemen must remember that they are expected to wear calico neckties and that these are on sale by Sherman and Hyde, music dealers. The proceeds of the sale will be devoted to the charity. The prettiest fingers in San Francisco have made some of these necktiies and it will be a pleasure to wear them. The Calico Ball is bound to be an immense success.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

A Terrible Penman.

We do not vouch for the the truth of the following, which we clip from an exchange:

There is a banker in Philadelphia by the side of whose handwriting even the penmanship of Horace Greeley seems symmetrical and beautiful. Well, this banker was persecuted by a life insurance agent, who wanted him to take out a policy. The victim stood it for a while, but finally, one day, he kicked the agent out of the office. Then the tormentor began to send notes to the unhappy wretch, explaining the endowment system, and asking if any of his aunts ever suffered from torpidity of the liver. At last the banker wrote to the heartless fiend as follows:

"You diabolical scoundrel, if you send another line to me I will come round to your office and blow out what little brains you have!"

When the life insurance man received this he turned it up and down, and held it sideways, and stood before a mirror with it, and examined it with a microscope, and called in six or seven experts; but after all he couldn't determine with any degree of certainty what it meant. To ascertain, he presented it at the paying teller's desk in the bank, and that worthy, without a moment's hesitation, paid $5,000 on it, believing it to be a check for that amount. There is one agent less in the city than there was a week or two ago, and one more banker who betrays symptoms of insanity when the subject of life insurance is mentioned in his presence.

A Centenarian Lady.

From the Los Angeles News we clip as follows: There is at present living at the San Gabriel Mission an old lady, whose eyes have seen the passing away of several generations. She claims to be one hundred and thirty-two years old. She was a mother at the time the Mission-church was built—102 years ago. Her hair is as white as driven snow; but her eyesight is as keen as that of a child, and her step as firm as that of a woman a century younger. She is an expert as a worker of embroidery, and executes the finest work without the aid of glasses. Every day, weather permitting, she may be seen in the fields or orchards near by her residence, busy at work with her needle. A specimen of her handiwork was exhibited in the Industrial Department of the last Agricultural Fair, and drew forth the admiration of all those who saw it. Her memory is unimpaired, and she converses vivaciously of events of the past appertaining to the San Gabriel valley—her world. She recalls, without hesitation, the reminiscences of her younger days, and recounts them with evident pleasure to those who feel sufficiently interested in such matters as to ply her with questions relating to them. In all appearance, the old lady gives fair promise to outlive many of us who are more than a century her junior.

Very Good for Toombs.

[From the Warrentown, Va., Clipper.]

A few days since, General Toombs was expressing his opinion of a few public men in Georgia, especially that class of "Democrats, so-called," to a few friends at the Kimball House, and he alluded to Joseph E. Brown in such severe terms that an enthusiastic religious friend of Joe's remarked to the General:

"Ah, General, Joseph E. Brown is a Christian, and when the great day shall come, in which the earth shall give up her dead and all mankind shall be summoned before the great white throne to answer for the deeds done in the body, Joseph E. Brown will head a larger column than General Toombs."

"Yes," replied the General, "and when God Almighty sees that column, with Joe Brown at its head, approaching, He will give the command—"Head of column to the left."

WHEN MY SHIP COMES HOME.

"O a golden comb for golden hair,
And milk-white pearls for a neck as fair,
And silver chains are all for me
The day my ship comes home from sea!

"O silken 'broideries, green and blue,
And wrought with crimson thro' and thro',
With coral and amber, all for me,
The day my ship comes home from sea!"

"And where is the good ship sailing from
That brings these brave things safely home?
And by what name do you hail her free,
And who is her captain on the sea?"

"My ship comes sailing from the west,
And her name is called 'The Sailor's Rest;'
And the bravest man of all her crew,
Her captain, is my lover true."

"O never will that ship come home,
Wherever she be sailing from;
I warm'd my hands beneath the stars
By a fire made of her broken spars.

"And three days dead the captain lay,
But how he died no man can say;
I laid him out by the pale moonrise,
And I made a shroud of the 'broideries.

"With coral and gold I weighted him,
And still he was light enough to swim;
With silver chains I bound him down,
There never was a corpse so hard to drown.

"His black hair lines an eagle's nest
On a sea-girt cliff in the lonesome west;
Now, jet for coral there must be,
And instead of amber, ebony."

A Dramatic Romance.

The Bulletin reporter has dug up a "romance in real life," and this is the skeleton which readers can fill up to suit their tastes: Pretty wife—jealous husband—ball—pretty wife went—hubby didn't—desperation—poison—doctor—stomach pump—whisky—disgust—divorce next term of Court.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. O

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest posts in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hasoke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 537 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. A. Reilly, Agents. M

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He has again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

The Devil.

The Grass Valley Union which has a number of good things in every issue, had the following in that of the 9th inst.

A friend of ours resides near to a cabin which is occupied by a Chinese couple, male and female. Night before last there was a great noise at the Celestial residence. The noise was terrific, and was made with gongs and other barbarous instruments. Our American friend could not sleep, and he had a notion of bringing a shot gun to bear upon the noise-making crowd. He concluded, however, that before he fired the gun he would investigate the cause of of the noise. He went to the cabin of the Chinese couple and there he found about ten Mongolians. The man who lives with the woman replied to his enquiries by saying: "Him woman hab heep get devil in her; fiends heep got devil in her; my fiends heep come to helpee lun devil off." Our friend was satisfied. It is strange that as old a people as the Chinese are have not yet learned that it is no uncommon thing for the d—l to be in a woman, and that no mere noise can ever get him out.

A Hoosier Introduction.

The Stark county (Ind.) Ledger welcomes a new-comer to the town of Knox after this fashion:

Miss Betsy Opplebach intends locating in this place soon. She is intelligent and handsome, and doesn't smoke, chew tobacco, drink whisky, paint, "play sweet," wear false 'dumplings' or chignons, is opposed to woman suffrage, free love, and things that squeeze her out of shape. She is not on the marry, and will entertain no applications. Her card announcing her "biz" will appear in our columns when she arrives.

Shamefully Neglected.

A nice young man, whose fine manner and clothes created a decidedly favorable impression on the marriageable women of an Iowa town, was shamefully neglected when it became known that he had received a dispatch to "come home immediately as the baby was very sick."

Cheerful.

The Marysville Standard when it has a paragraph about some unfortunate lunatic being sent to the Insane Asylum, heads it "Ho, for Stockton!"

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. C

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Lully labored like a feeble amateur. He sat down at the piano with his snuff-box and sang and played till, by means of trying here and there, up and down, he fancied he had discovered the most suitable melody. This discovery he then communicated to some subordinate, who wrote down the direction, and that was the end of it. Sarti required a large dark room, even at night but feebly lit up; his musical ideas came to him only in the stillness of night. Of Spontini, too, I somewhere read that he was able to compose only in the dark. Cimarosa wanted noise about him; he liked best to work in merry company. Salierli, to excite his fancy, strolled about in the most frequented streets eating bon bons, with lead-pencil and paper in his hand to be ready when the occasion offered. Paer composed, chatted, scolded, disputed all in one. Sacchini felt himself incapable of getting a melody unless he was with his lady-love and had his little kittens about him. Alex Fesca, if one may lend faith to eyewitnesses, resorted to similar means—the bottle served him instead of a lady-love, and for kittens, he tried to procure a little dog! Paisiello remained in bed when he intended composing—a cheap practical means, as trustworthy contemporaries have assured me; it saves fuel, clothing etc. Zingarelli, before sitting down at the piano to compose, read a few pages of a Latin poet then, however, he worked so easily that he was able to write in four hours—four hours I say—a whole act of "Romeo and Juliet!" When Father Haydn couldn't get along he would take his rosary and say a few aves, and generally inspiration returned. In another place I read—probably of his later years—Haydn sat quietly down in a chair, but he must have upon his finger the ring that Frederick the Great had once given him.

In London, however, this expedient seems to have proved unavailing, for we have a report, that once the master had no inspiration left at all; for two weeks he vainly tortured himself to get an appropriate continuation to the first eight bars of an andante. It is well known that it has been thought some connection existed between Mozart's fondness for billiards and tenpins and his musical disposition. Beethoven went out into the open air, into the magnificence and solitude of nature. Mehel was a lover of flowers, and liked to sojurn in pretty gardens. Mendelssohn, it is said always had bouquets at his desk. Halevy required the sound of boiling water to become 'disposed. Auber, a good rider, mounted his horse, in order to gain the romantic country, where the artist finds everything he needs, formerly, perhaps in latter years, when the celebrated composer was an old, very old gentleman, he probably composed his operas on foot. Francois Huntin felt most inspired for composition in Autumn. He walked up and down his room catching flies—no very difficult task at that season of the year—and thus were produced more than two hundred compositions, the greater part of which might at one time be found on every piano—ong enough ago it is true!"—Musical Recollections.

A Libel.

We are going to sue the Southern Californian, published at Bakersfield, for $100,000 damages for the following libel, when we get time:

FIGARO has evidently been to Church and taken a dose of Elder Knapp's Gospel, highly flavored with brimstone. Returning, he falls into various and solemn conjectures as to the orthodox hell, which not resulting satisfactorily, he consoles himself with the reflection that he will know how it is himself some day. Undoubtedly he will, and it is gratifying to know that he contemplates his future so serenely.

When we are a sweet-voiced angel in the realms of the blessed, we shall of course know all about the other place where the depraved inhabitants of Bakersfield will lie howling. That's what we meant.

Too Bad.

A friend of ours who frequently "presses his taxes" complains that while wages have come down and the price of everything has fallen, the price of a drunk is the same as it was in flush times. He thinks that five dollars in these hard times is an exorbitant fine to inflict on a man for "a simple drunk." Two and a half would he claims be much better suited to the times. He may think himself lucky that he does not live in San Jose where a drunk costs eight dollars, as may be seen from the following which appears in the Guide of the 9th inst.

A peripatetic pie-biter and chronic guzzler of tarantula-juice was up before Judge May, yesterday morning, charged with being drunk and asleep the night before.

Judge—"Are you guilty or not guilty?"

Drunk—"Well, I guess I was a little elevated."

J.—"Where do you live?"

D.—"I came from Santa Cruz, and I took few glasses of beer in the Emmett Saloon and my family is in San Francisco."

J.—"Eight dollars, or four day's labor."

"Well, I have no money about me."

Mich Bellow—"Come on, I'll give you a job."

"All right," and Burdett will oversee the the delinquent for the next four days."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A CARD.

To the Ladies and Gentlemen who were engaged to appear for the benefit of the Weber Hose Company, Stockton.

Having heard that I am blamed for not appearing with you at the Stockton Theatre for the benefit of the Weber Hose Company, on 2d and 3d insts., and that it is said my non-appearance invalidated the contract of Sheridan Corbyn with said hose company, I must make an explanation. I certainly did offer my services to the Weber Hose Company for their benefit. I as certainly did not offer them to Sheridan Corbyn for his benefit, and made no agreement to be one of his company. The misunderstanding has arisen entirely from his trading with the Weber Hose Company for my services which I had offered them as a free gift. I always have been and shall be most willing to assist any brother artist or company of artistes without regard to whether they are great or small, in any way in my power, and I am always ready to volunteer for any charitable purpose, but I do object to my name being used to make money for a person who is already sufficiently indebted to me.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The announcement of the reproduction of "Arrah-na-Pogue," with Charles Wheatleigh in his original role of Shaun the Post, the reappearance of Miss Rose Evans, and the splendid cast of the play, were sufficient inducements to make the public crowd the California Theatre in every part last night. "Arrah-na Pogue" ought to take a new lease of life, and have another run. On no stage in the world would it be better presented than it was last night at the California Theatre. Of Wheatleigh's Shaun it is unnecessary to speak; all know how excellent an impersonation it is of a true-hearted Irishman. Miss Rose Evans, who of course received a tremendous welcome back to the California stage, acted Arrah Meelish beautifully, really moving many of the audience to tears in the pathetic parts by the intense feeling she threw into her impersonation of a heart-broken girl. Her characterization was a true and consistent one: her Arrah was only a peasant girl, dressed as a peasant girl, speaking as a peasant girl, and there was not a bit of clap-trap in her performance. J. C. Williamson's Michael Feeny was a perfect study, not a bit over-done, carefully sustained, and the lights and shades of the character brought out in the most masterly manner. Miss Ellie Wilton, though not as dashing a Fanny Power as we have had, played the part extremely well, and made her points with artistic skill. Henry Edwards was perfect as The O'Grady, E. Leathes' Major Coffin in propria persona, and W. A. Mestayer gave a fine, manly impersonation of Beamish McCoul; E. J. Buckley, as the wild Irishman, Oiney O'Farrell, perfectly revelled in the part, and made an immense character of it, causing shouts of applause and laughter whenever he was afforded an opportunity of doing so by the text, and keeping his by-play carefully within bounds while the important action of the play was in progress. The barn-door jig by him and Miss Maggie Chambers was a great success, and Miss Chambers brought down the house in the Court Martial scene by the forcible manner in which she delivered the words "Oh! Michael Feeny, your mother must have been mighty fond of children when she raised you." Altogether the play was splendidly presented, and "Arrah-na-Pogue," at the California Theatre, is one of the most enjoyable entertainments presented in some time.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The audience last night, fully enjoyed the performance of the play of "The Corsican Brothers," which was even better than that of the proceeding night. It will be presented again this evening. To-morrow night William Bansman's local sensational drama entitled "Early California" will be produced in excellent style. Over half the seats in the dress circle are already engaged for this occasion, and there will certainly be a large and fashionable house. Seats may be secured to-day without extra charge.

Alhambra Theatre.

The entertainment at this theatre is rattled off in the most lively style imaginable and the audience are kept continually amused. They cannot weary of Billy Emerson, for he is ever fresh and original, and always has some new surprise to spring upon the audience. Miss Fanny Gibson and S. Holdsworth sing the very comic duet, "Very Suspicious," in excellent style, and the Reynold's Brothers are immense in songs and dances and negro acts. Their new song and dance, "Pretty Black-eyed Katy," is bound to become popular.

Bella Union.

An immense variety performance is given at this theatre, as may be seen by referring to the programme on our first page. After a richly diversified entertainment, singing, dancing, gymnastic acts, and ethiopian farces, the capital extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince" will be performed.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer, the character vocalist, Mary La Forest, the ever-popular Miss Eva Silva, Mike Quinn, Nellie Leonard and a host of others appear in a great bill to-night.

The Oxford.

"Our own Red Colored Pocket-Book," a most amusing burlesque, can be played only two nights more in conjunction with a great entertainment of songs and dances and acts by Charley Vincent, Amelia Dean and the Oxford band of female minstrels. The burlesque of "Horrid-Zone" will shortly be produced.

Platt's Hall—The Calico Ball.

Never has Platt's Hall presented a more brilliant spectacle than it did last night on the occasion of the grand calico ball under the auspices of "The Ladies' United Aid Society." Close upon two thousand of San Francisco's fairest women and best gentlemen assembled in the sacred cause of charity, and right merrily did they pass the night. The music was excellent, the dresses were beautiful, the arrangements in every way complete, and the supper most admirable and abundant. Nearly all the ladies present had the good taste to comply with the requirements of the occasion, and appeared in calico done up in forms of bewildering beauty; black calico which glistened under the gaslight with the lustre of gros de Naples; calico which presented the appearance of satin; calico light and airy as gauze tulle. The dress makers accomplished miracles and made this material present a thousand varied appearances. We do not believe that so many beautiful women were ever at a ball in San Francisco as were gathered together last night in Platt's Hall. The Calico Ball will long be remembered by all who enjoyed it.

A Worthy Benefit.

A benefit will be given to the widow of the late W. H. Sedley Smith, at the California Theatre, on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 21st, at which nearly all the musical and dramatic talent in the city will appear.

The Oakland Theatre.

We call attention to the advertisement of J. Maguire in another column, inviting professionals out of engagement to address him. Mr. Maguire has as yet permanently engaged none of the artistes mentioned in Saturday's issue as likely to form his company. The full list of the company, time of opening the Oakland Theatre and other particulars will shortly be published.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Earth-Eaters.

[From The Galaxy.]

Dr. Gobel, an account of whose travels in Northern Europe and Asia has recently been published, states that at the village of Ponoi, on the White Sea, he found the inhabitants using a peculiar form of earth as an addition to flour in the preparation of bread. Both chemical and microscopical analysis shows this substance to be purely mineral, and wholly unfit for digestion, its chief ingredient being alumina. In the district of Kirnan, in Persia, the people are addicted to a similar practice, only the earth which they employ may be of some service in correcting certain defects in the bread. It occurs in lumps the size of an apple, and by the action of water is converted into a soft slimy mass, readily soluble in dilute acids. It consists largely of carbonate of lime and carbonate of magnesia, with but a small percentage of alumina, but, like that found in Lapland, contains no organic matter. It is said that the inhabitants of this country habitually make their bread of sour flour, and that the substance in question, added in a finely-pulverized state, operates something like a baking powder, and at the same time neutralizes the acid of the dough.

Ruskin on Drunkenness.

In a letter to the London Telegraph, touching the connection between drunkenness and crime, Mr. Ruskin writes:

"Drunkenness very slightly encourages theft, very largely encourages murder, and universally encourages idleness, which is not a crime apparent in tabular form. Drunkenness is not the cause of crime in any case. It is itself crime in every case. A gentleman will not knock out his wife's brains when he is drunk; but it is, nevertheless, his duty to keep sober. Much more is it his duty to teach his peasantry to remain sober, and to furnish them with sojourn more pleasant than the pot-house, and means of amusement more circumscribed than the pot. And the encouragement of drunkenness, for the sake of the profit on sale of drink, is certainly one of the most criminal methods of assassination for money hitherto adopted by the braves of any age or country."

Proof Positive.

A few nights ago, a citizen of West Point, Virginia, who resides in the city, saw, late at night, a fire in the field in the rear of his residence, and, in company with a friend, went to learn its purpose. He found a full-grown negro cooking a black cat in a kettle which he had stolen from his house. The negro had cut off one leg of his unmentionables, placed the black cat therein alive, tied both ends of the improvised sack, and put it in the sack, and was boiling it over a brisk fire. Upon making inquiry as to the object he had in view, he said that he had been told that if he would cook a black cat alive and eat it, it would not only make him lucky at cards, but would give him nine lives; and having nine lives, he would be proof against "dem dar dreadful Ku-Kluxers."

NEW AND IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.—The Los Angeles News of the 4th inst. says: We have private advices of a new and important discovery of rich and extensive silver-bearing ledges, in the Blue Mountain, in San Bernardino county. The range is situated about twenty-five miles east of Lane's crossing, Mojave Valley. The discovery was made during the latter part of last month by Dan Ingleton, a well-known miner and prospector. One of the ledges has been traced for five miles in length, and varies from ten to sixty feet in width, raising, in many places, fifteen feet above the ground. The casings are slate, lime and trap rock. The same formation extends for a mile to the west of the main ledge and contains a number of smaller ledges. Some old and experienced miners who have seen them, declare them to be the most massive ledges they have ever known. Some of the rock has been forwarded to San Francisco for assay. A piece, assayed at San Bernardino, yielded as high as $57 per ton.

THE SAVAGE STRIKE.—The Territorial Enterprise of the 7th says: Notwithstanding reports about town to the contrary, we are informed that no "outsider" has yet been permitted to visit the new strike in the Savage Mine. A gentleman in this city received a despatch from San Francisco, from the Trustees of the mine, giving authority to inspect the newly-developed ore body, but he did not get into the mine yesterday. The Superintendent, however, has promised to show him what he has found to-day. This being the case, the chances are that the various stories in regard to the size and character of the deposit found are all humbug. Some of the guesses of outsiders may be near the mark, as where guesses of all kinds have been made some must cover the situation. In regard to the width of the vein alone, the guessing ranges from 7 inches all the way up to 40 feet.

THE WEAVER.

BY WM. H. BURLEIGH.

Ceaselessly the weaver, Time,
Sitting at his mystic loom,
Keeps his arrowy shuttle flying—
Every thread anears our dying;
And with melancholy chime,
Very low and sad withal,
Sings his solemn madrigal
As he weaves our thread of doom.

"Mortals!" thus he weaving sings,
"Bright or dark the web shall be
As ye will it; all the tissues
Blending in harmonious issues,
Or discordant colorings.
Time the shuttle drives, but you
Give to every thread its hue,
And elect your destiny.

God bestows the shining warp;
Fill it with as bright a woof,
And the whole shall glow divinely,
As if wrought by angels finely
To the music of the harp;
And the blended colors be
Like perfected harmony,
Keeping evil things aloof.

Envy, Malice, Pride and Hate,
Foulest progeny of Sin,
Let not these the weft entangle
With their blind and furious wrangle,
Marring your diviner fate;
But with love and deeds of good
Be the web throughout embued,
And the Perfect shall ye win."

Thus he singeth very low,
Sitting at his mystic loom,
And his shuttle still is flying—
Thread by thread are our dying,
Grows our shroud with every throw;
And the tones of Hell or Heaven
To each thread by us are given,
As he weaves our web of doom.

A Pious Liar.

The editor of the Lexington (Va.) Gazette is said to be a preacher, else it would be very difficult to believe the following: "strange" story. However, there is corroboration of its truth. Baron Munchausen relates almost the same occurrence: "The Institute brass band on Wednesday evening—a fiercely cold afternoon—commenced playing, while under the protection of the buildings, but on going to the parade-ground, suddenly every instrument was silent—the music froze in every horn! The players returned to their quarters and hung up their voiceless instruments. The warm room soon thawed the chilled notes in the horns, when, to the utter amazement of Mr. Ritternouse, the leader, he heard a fife give a preliminary and premonitory squeak, and then the whole set of flageolets, trombones and French horns struck up their usual martial strains, which continued for some time! A great crowd collected to witness the performance. It was certainly a strange thing.

Well Dressed Men.

Numbers of fashionably dressed men appear on the streets of San Francisco. These for the most part procure their shirts, underwear and handkerchiefs of P. Beamish, formerly of Beamish and Gibson, who has removed to the corner of Market and Third streets, Nucleus Building, well known as Ward's shirt store.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases taught under his care. Don't Mind It.

The Yolo Democrat, the editor of which, by the by, called yesterday when we were out, which we regret, has the following:

A correspondent writing from Cottonwood, Feb. 1st, says "there are numerous citizens there who would like to see the man that drew the prize in the Woodland Gift Concert, or lottery, and if you can find one that was not interested and send him to Cottonwood he will be liberally rewarded."

Paragraphs like this are constantly appearing in the papers. Yet, Messrs Aronson & Dietz, who managed this "lottery," are still selling mousetraps and other "fixins" in Woodland, seeming not to care a bit, what people say or think about them.

A Suggestion.

Among other articles to be placed in the cavity of the corner stone of New City Hall, are a copy of the California Mail Bag for January, 1872, containing portraits of the Mayor, the City Hall Commissioners and the Architect, plans of the building, an hour-glass, and a copy of the San Francisco News Letter and City Index. Better put the "Town Crier" in also; he has become terribly stupid since he got married!

A Nice Christian.

The Rev. Boanerges Brimstone, when he was asked to contribute to the Chicago Relief Fund, said: "Verily, I will not seek to lighten the judgment that has fallen on that wicked city. Nought should be sent unto the inhabitants but sackcloth that they they may repent in sackcloth and ashes; the ashes they have, let the sackcloth be sent unto them.

The Power of Kindness.

The Racine Journal illustrates the power of kindness by citing that Walter Stone captured a flying squirrel a short time since; of course the little captive was frightened, and ong refused even to eat. Stone treated it kindly, and by degrees overcame its fears, so that only one day last week it had grown so tame that it bit his thumb to the bone.

Nicely Dressed Children.

Everybody visiting San Francisco remarks the number of nicely-dressed children to be seen in the streets. The most "nicely-dressed" child we ever saw was in one of the Fiji Islands. We ate some of it.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. C

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Don't You Wish You May Get It!

The San Jose Guide of Saturday last, under the heading of "amusments," has a long article from which we make the following extract:

"I don't attend theatres much myself," said a friend of ours, the other day, "but, when I do go, it's about this time of the year." We should like very much to see the people gratified, and we know the amusement-loving people of San Jose, are in the right trim for a theatrical performance. Nor are we so very particular as to what kind of an entertainment comes along, so long as the brand "first class" is upon it. Heavy tragedy, or to use a better word, which combines also graveyard comedy, is good, in its time, and a short spell of that would not hurt us. The favorable prospects of the coming year have brightened the faces of our citizens, and as good humor almost everywhere prevails, a little comedy would go down extremely well. Then again a large portion of our population love to see the minstrels once in a while. The beautiful ballads, character acts, and harmless witticisms tickle their fancy, and a number one minstrel show would not lose any 'scads' by coming to San Jose this Spring. Billy Emerson loves not this city, but we think he has no reasonable grounds for "getting his back up," on account of his reception here last year. He came down during fair week, and in the heat of the Gubernatorial campaign, when the people cared not whether San Jose Amateurs, or Edwin Booth were performing at the Opera House. Emerson paid expenses, and considering the state of people's minds, we think he has no cause to complain of San Jose.

It is a pity we havn't hot weather at present; the above would be so refreshingly cool. Billy Emerson paid expenses, did he? and therefore ought not to grumble. Confound it, it was not only that the people of San Jose did not crowd the theatre when he took up the best company of minstrels in the United States, but those who did go would not laugh! The beautiful ballads, character acts, and harmless witticisms tickle the fancy of San Jose people, do they? Not much! Those minstrels came back sick, sore, and bruised, with their efforts to "tickle" the San Jose people. They did everything but commit harikari to please those benighted bucolic beers. Oh, yes, we'll send you up a number one minstrel troupe again, in a hurry, on the promise that they shall not lose any "scads!" We'll send you up a monkey and a hand-organ or some other free show! There isn't any kind of show would draw in San Jose, if the Rev. Beelzebub Biles gave a tea-party on the same evening.

A "Difficult" Surgical Operation.

The Petaluma Journal and Argus says: "A difficult surgical operation was performed in this city on the 6th inst." It gives the names of six doctors who assisted at this difficult operation, and winds up by telling us that the "patient died in an hour afterward." It is gratifying to know, however, that the "operation was successfully performed."

A Nice Name to go to Bed With.

A telegraphic dispatch from Los Angeles says:

Bon Homme Silk Cut Tucit, while alighting from a buggy yesterday, struck heavily on the left foot, breaking his leg.

We wonder he didn't break his name in half.

Unpoetical.

When Joaquin Miller was in England, the Britishers, knowing nothing about the pronounciation of Spanish names, used to call him "Jokin Miller," and this naturally became abreviated to "Joe Miller," he being the original "Jokin' Miller."

Due Honor.

The Call and Chronicle publish full descriptions of the dresses worn by ladies at balls and parties. They ought to go a little farther, and publish the names of the dressmakers.

A lady writer in the Des Moines Register makes this cruel thrust at the woman's suffrage movement: "You may look at this matter in whatever light you will, but simmer it down and it is but a quarrel with the Almighty that we are not all men."

Why Flirts don't Marry.

It is remarkable, but nevertheless true that, as a rule flirts, both male and female do not marry quickly. The chances are that a flirt that becomes engaged at eighteen and disingaged as is the custom for a flirt to do, ultimately settles down into an infirm old maid, too. If she does wed, as a general rule she developes into a virulent wasp, makes her husband miserable, and brings up her children badly.

It is not very difficult to find reasons why flirts do not marry. Sensible men admire in a woman something besidés a pretty face, and engaging manners. They love intellect, common sense, and heart, qualifications which the flirt does not possess. The true woman allows her affections full play, and is not ashamed of them. She will not lead a man to believe that she cares for him when she does no such thing; she will not flirt with him for the sake of flirting.

She has a truer conception of what is right and possesses a great deal more common sense. She has derived her education from something else than three-volume novels and the society of the empty pated. She can be thoroughly merry; but she know show to be merry without being idiotic. She may attract less attention in a drawing room than a flirt does, but she is less noisy and obtrusive, for all that she will get married sooner and make her husband a truer and a better wife.

A true woman does not care for the spoony young man. She dislikes his foppishness, the vivid compliments he pays her, and his effeminacy. He quickly finds this out and leaves her in peace. Thus, if he ultimately gets married, it is to a flirt, and the happy pair lead the jolliest cat-and-dog life imaginable.

That's Right.

Vallejo has been troubled with goats running at large, which break into gardens and yards, and destroy shrubbery. Unable to step the nuisance by law, the citizens are beginning to shoot the vagrant animals.

That's right! Shoot 'em and eat 'em. That's what we are doing in San Francisco. At least we kill them when they get sick. We've been living on goat chops ever so long—sick goat chops at that.

How's This?

The Sacramento Bee speaking of N. Green Curtis, says:

This inimical practitioner has been retained by the defense as senior counsel in the celebrated criminal case of the People vs. Laura D. Fair, vice Elisha Cook, deceased.

Who is he "inimical" to? Perhaps the Bee calls him an "inimical" practitioner because he is a criminal practitioner and criminals are inimical to the people.

Petaluma Girls.

The Petaluma Crescent, a bright little paper has the following, illustrative of the manner in which Petaluma girls let young men see them home.

At a meeting of a certain society in this city, not long since, a graceful swain accosted a swainess to see her home. "Oh, yes," said she, "see me as far as you can," but don't dare to walk alongside of me." He took the other street.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. O

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs. Cowle's stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

A Musical Dog.

The Hartford Times is responsible for the following:

There is a dog in this city that can sing. We state the fact unqualified on the testimony of all the members of the family of the gentleman who owns him. The animal in question is a large, mouse colored greyhound—perhaps about six or seven years old. His attempts at singing, though they are certainly not musical, are unmistakable, and they have been observed by the family for the last two or three years. He does not sing alone, but when he hears certain members of the family singing he "joins in." This is more particularly the case with one lady of the house, who, if she begins to sing when the dog is anywhere about the place, is pretty certain to obtain a canine accompaniment. If she is heard singing up stairs, and the dog is shut out below, he will raise a rumpus till he is admitted to the room where she is, when he will "join in," keeping very good time, and actually keeping—so we are assured, on the same key, rising with the singer to the higher notes, in a kind of blended whine and howl, that is yet neither like the voice of a dog nor anything else, but showing something of a musical ear. When he reaches a note too high for him, he will stop and wait for the cadence of the song to reach the lower notes again. In his rising notes, he lifts his head as well as his voice. When his owner enters the room he will suddenly step, and not another note can be got out of him while his master remains. In fact, he dislikes to have anybody present except the one with whom he sings. "His voice is improved and he sings better than he did." He may yet sing with Nilsson. There are a good many puppies following in her wake who have neither the music nor the sense of this one.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night, William Sauseman's new and original play entitled "Early California," will be presented after careful rehearsal and much preparation. Wilkins has painted new scenes of California in early times, and the play will carry many back to the days when they were better off than they are now. Errant, a representitive of the Press, will be played by James M. Hardie; Carlotta the heroine of the piece by Miss Henrietta Osborne; Jeff, clerk at a trading post, by Miss Maggie Moore, and T. E. Jackson will appear as Tim O'Donnell, and sing an original song. For he rest of the cast we refer our readers to our first page. The scenes are laid in San Francisco, and a mining camp, and the manners and customs of the inhabitants in "early times," are illustrated by a number of exciting incidents. Enough seats have already been sold to insure an overflowing house.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson delights a large audience nightly with his original songs, dances, characters ketches, and Ethiopian acts; the Reynold Brothers are immense in their new song and dance, and "Sad Dickey;" Harry Norman, S. Holdsworth and Miss Fanny Gibson sing sweet ballads, the entertainment throughout is full of fun, sparkle and sweet music.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged again last night when "Arrah-na-Pogue" was presented for the second time and the piece from present appearances is going to have another run. It is one of the best dramas of the day and is perfectly refreshing after the "sensation dramas," with silly dialogue, impossible characters and ridiculous situations, which we have had too much of lately. Boucicault is the only sensation dramatist.

Bella Union.

There is variety enough in the entertainment given at this house to please all tastes. The talented dancers, M'lle Mario Gaugain appears with Miss Carrie Chapman in a very pretty pas de deux, Samwells and Montague in gymnastics, Ella La Rue in banjo solos, Miss Maggie Knight in character songs and dances, Miss Fannie Garretson in favorite ballads, Miss Marie Zoel and Miss Josephine in song and dance, and the pleasing extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince," concludes the performance. The management announce that on Saturday a lecture on "Men's Wrongs, and Women's Rights," will be given, illustrated by many characters.

The Oxford.

Those who have not seen the burlesque of "The Red Pocket Book," should do so before it is withdrawn to make way for "Horrid Zone," which is in preparation. Charley Vincent, Amelia Dean, Miss Lizzie Harmon, Miss Fanny Webster, and a number of others appear in a varied first part and interlude.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer's character songs are a popular feature in the attractive programme nightly presented at this house. A great array of amusing acts, in which Mike Quinn, J. Kelly, and others appear, may be found on our first page. Miss Eva Silva, Miss Nellie Leonard, and many others appear in songs and dances.

Pacific Hall.

On Friday evening the Lancashire Bell Ringers who have delighted the people of all parts of the world with the silvery chimes of their bells will give a concert at Pacific Hall. They will play some of the popular music of the day, and will be assisted by Miss Rose Marsten. Miss Fannie Young Charles Vivian, Frank Rea, and, by the kind permission of Mr. Emerson, Harry Norman. After the concert there will be a ball, the music for which will be furnished by a quadrille band and the bells. Dancing to the music of the bells will be a novelty. The programme will shortly be published.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Ill Breeding.

If there is one thing more positively ill-bred and hard-hearted than another, it is the habit which many women and some men have of chattering, not always sotto voce, during public musical performances. It is provoking, when you have made up your mind, at an expense which you cannot exactly afford, to hear a great fiddler or singer, to be swindled out of all the expected pleasure by the gabbling of two or three silly creatures with little ear and less brain. In Boston, the desperate amateurs now pass notes to the offenders, which are polite, but pungent, and like this:

Are you aware how loud you are talking? or this: "Are you aware that you are telling what should be family secrets to those seated near you?" We have it on the authority of the Boston Transcript that in both instances these little prescriptions were found efficacious. We believe that Americans are the only concert-goers in the world who are guilty of this impoliteness which may sometimes be observed even in private circles, when some good-natured person has (reluctantly perhaps) consented to sing or play.

To the Theatrical Profession.

Life-size pictures taken at $5 each, by the Patent Solar Prismal process. A quantity will be taken at much reduced prices. Bush & Still, photographers, junction of Geary and Market, entrance on Market streets. G

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hasake, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

GIVE ME THE HAND.

Give me the hand that is kind, warm and ready;
Give me the clasp that is calm, true and steady;
Give me the hand that will never deceive me;
Give me the grasp that I aye may believe thee.
Soft is the palm of the delicate woman;
Hard is the hand of the rough, sturdy yeo-man;
Soft palm or hard hand, it matters not—never!
Give me the grasp that is friendly forever.

Give me the hand that is true as a brother;
Give me the hand that has harmed not another;
Give me the hand that has never forsworn it;
Give me the grasp that I may adore it.
Lovely the palm of the fair, blue-veined maiden;
Horny the hand of the workman o'er-laiden;
Lovely or ugly, it matters not—never!
Give me the grasp that is friendly forever.

Give me the grasp that is honest and hearty,
Free as the breezes and unshackled by party;
Let Friendship give me the grasp that becomes her,
Close as the twine of the vines of the Summer.
Give me the hand that is true as a brother;
Give me the hand that has wronged not another;
Soft palm or hard hand, it matters not—never!
Give me the grasp that is friendly forever.

Evergreen Seedlings.

The Sacramento Union says: We have received from Robert Williamson the following communication, which will explain itself: I am informed that in one of last week's papers you had an article in which you stated that I had offered at a meeting of the Farmers' Club to furnish sugar pine, spruce, redwood and other evergreen seedlings, one year old, at $2 per thousand. My remarks before the club were to the effect that California trees were best adapted to California climate and soil, and that if sufficient inducements were offered our nurserymen would produce and furnish them as low as Eastern nurserymen would furnish Eastern trees. And as to the redwood, I remarked that it could be grown very easy and very cheap; that I would contract with any good, responsible party to furnish next year 1,000,000 redwood seedlings, one year old, at $2 per thousand. I will still take such a contract. But I do not propose to raise them at the risk of finding a market and then sell them in small lots at that price. Neither do I now, nor did I then, offer to furnish any other evergreens as cheap as the redwood. I mentioned the other trees referred to, and asserted that we could grow them as cheap as Eastern nurserymen could grow their trees, provided we could have a sufficient market to justify us in going into it as a business, and I hereby reiterate the same assertion. Let the State Government and an enterprising people offer us the same market that the Eastern nurserymen have, and see if we do not compete with any of the Eastern nurseries in kind, quality and price. But while they have a guarantee of sales for their plants by millions and we have no guarantee for the sale of a thousand, we cannot be expected to compete with them in prices.

Encouragement to Drunkards.

The Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise is responsible for the following: The day before the recent strike in the Savage mine was made public, a gentleman who owned 300 shares of the stock was warned against holding it longer. It then stood at $69 per share, and he was told that he would do well to sell at once, as the mine was not looking well and it was liable to go down. The holder of the stock was terribly shocked at hearing such bad news, and promised to go at once and sell. But, alas! to cheer his sad heart he turned to the allurements of the "flowing bowl." He felt oppressed by the thinness of the atmosphere, and he began to take things calculated to thicken it. He began looking upon the sour mash when it was red. He sacrificed so liberally to the rosy god that he forgot that such a mine as the Savage had existence, and his friends at last bundled him off to bed. He did not get out again for twenty-four hours. When his wits finally returned he thought of his neglected Savage stock, and, groaning in spirit, arose and made a hasty toilet. With cold and hot streaks chasing each other over all parts of his physical being, he made his way in sorrow and remorse to the nearest bulletin board. A glance showed him Savage quoted at $165 per share, making to him a difference of $28,800. That was what he got by getting on a drunk.

NARY RAG.

The shades of night were falling fast,
As through the city streets there passed
A youth, who trudged through mud and rain,
Crying with all his might and main,
"Any R-a-g-s?"

His looks were sad, his eyes were dull;
His great big bag was nearly full;
And though his strength was failing fast,
He cried with voice like trumpet blast,
"Any R-a-g-s?"

No friend looked out with pitying eye,
And blessed him as he wandered by;
Without a blessing, cold and sore,
He cried aloud at every door,
"Any R-a-g-s?"

"Beware the watch!" an old man said;
"He's on the corner just ahead."
"I'll watchful be," the youth replied,
And lifting high his voice he cried,
"Any R-a-g-s?"

"Beware the watchdog's awful bite!
Beware the dangers of the night!"
And as he hurried out of sight,
The youth replied with all his might,
"Any R-a-g-s?"

A traveler in the early morn.
A being found, ragged and torn;
There in the wet and mud he lay;
His mouth was fixed, but seemed to say,
"Any R-a-g-s?"

Sweet sleep had stolen o'er his frame;
Another "picker" had stolen his game;
His bag, once full, stood open wide—
A voice far in the depths replied,
"Nary R-a-g!"

Hints to Young Men Who go a Sparking.

These words of wisdom are from a paper in the last number of London Society:

After all, in looking out for a wife, a man must consider how she will show at the fireside, rather than at the parties. You can learn as much of literary and æsthetic tastes, the favorite books that are always in hand, the music that is regularly studied and sung, the kind of associations, and the general order of tastes. It is by far the best way of getting up a flirtation, which is not unpleasantly done under parental eyes when such eyes are kindly and benignant. Love-making is an uncommon pleasant employment for the winter nights. You may talk of the perils of young men when they come to town; but there is no better safeguard than giving such young fellows the associations of home and sweet women. Parents make an immense mistake in taking too severely a monetary view of a young fellow's prospects. I never knew a young fellow under even so dun a cloud who, with a purpose and ability, could not work out his way into sunlight. Better even the long engagement, or the early marriage, than many other suppositions that might be put.

Poor Lassen.

The Lassen Sage Brush seems to fear it is all up with that county. It says: Between the Donner, and Crook, or Coyote county projectors they would almost litterally devour poor Lassen, boots and all. If all their demands be granted, our friends from Fall River will take what we have north of Susan river, and the Donner fellows will, we believe, content themselves with Janesville and what few ranches there are south of that, leaving us the old Shaber station and about ten miles square of the Honey Lake desert. So we may as well commence negotiating with our friends at the Shaffer ranch for a site for our county buildings, purchase a lot of double-barreled shotguns for the slaughter of geese and pelicans upon which to subsist, and float ourselves down the river to our country seat by the lake shore. Had the Legislature acted less hastily in disposing of the demands of the State of Nevada, we would have suggested the idea of giving the Shaffer ranch to them, so that all hands would have been satisfied, for these demands "do not seriously affect Lassen"—of course not. The ten miles square of desert would (it being subject to overflow) furnish sufficient polliwogs and sich to support us, and we could derive a large amount of revenue from the collection and sale of guano, which would find a ready market at Fish Springs in Nevada.

Well Dressed Men.

Numbers of fashionably dressed men appear on the streets of San Francisco. These for the most part procure their shirts, underwear and handkerchiefs of P. Beamish, formerly of Beamish and Gibson, who has removed to the corner of Market and Third streets, Nucleus Building, well known as Ward's shirt store.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls: the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bonton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of CHRONIC DISEASE, which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from all suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is now located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Public School Education.

If the following be true, the children in the Public Schools in New York are taught as great bosh, as they are in those of San Francisco. We were informed last night by a gentleman connected with an educational establishment at Benicia, that a boy in one of the New York public schools was asked to give the derivation of the word "consider," and this is what he said:

"Consider," is compounded of the two Greek(!) words "con," with and "sidera," stars, and its derivation is as follows: Two thousand years before Christ, in the time of the Hixos Kings, the Greek shepherds used every now and then to watch the stars, to gather omens from them, therefore they were con with sidera, the stars, and thus their consultations were called considerations." Did that little boy get spanked for guying the teacher? Not a bit of it. We are assured by our informant that he was patted on the head, and praised for his learning! We hope our California public school boys know that "consider" is derived from the Latin word considero, compounded of the two words con with and sedeo, I sit. "Consideo" I sit down with that, and think over it. Who the Hixos Kings were we don't know. We suppose in some schools, the more far-fetched the derivations of words are, the more valuable they seem to the teachers. That little boy in New York certainly went far enough to find the meaning of the word consider.

California Vine-Grower's Association.

The California Vine Growers' and Brandy Manufacturers' Association, will hold a general convention of all parties interested in the wine industries of the State, at Sacramento, on Wednesday the 21st inst. There is no interest in California more important than this, and it is to be hoped the attendance will be very large.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. C

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Theatre Etiquette.

We would like to see a book written upon the above subject, because of its great importance to the many who attend public exhibitions of any sort. The time has come when the lack of this most amiable quality shows itself most clearly on the part of certain and sundry individuals, whose faces have become to us already familiar. And we really wish that some public rebuke might be administered to the mortification of the many, and gratification of the few. Could we behold the faults of ourselves, as plainly and as vividly as we detect the faults of others, perhaps the following "suggestions" which we venture to make, might work out a little benefit to us all.:

First. Never enter a theatre till the middle of the first act, lest your new clothes should fail to be recognized, and those people already seated, should obtain a good hearing of the play.

Second. When you walk down the aisle, be sure and make all the noise you can, for that will add to the excitement, and secure the admiration of your neighbors.

Third. When the play is beginning to grow really interesting, indulge in a loud conversation with your companions on any subject you choose. Dairy products, new bonnets, unchristened infants, and the stock market, are all most excellent themes to talk about.

Fourth. Never take tea before going to the evening's performance. If you do, you will certainly have no appetite for peanuts and the like, when you get there. The breaking of peanuts, lends a most pleasing charm to the ear, and like onions, they never waste their sweetness on the desert air.

Fifth. If you have escorted a lady to the theatre, gentlemen, be sure and leave them sitting alone between acts. Vacant chairs are fine to behold, and your absence offers a splendid chance for flirtation, if not insult.

Sixth. If you "go out a minute," be sure that you are furnished with some small change, lest you return with parched lips, and appear dull-headed. A peppermint or two will prevent detection on the part of any charming belle.

Seventh. It is well to leave the theatre before the play is ended. Thereby you can spite your interested neighbors. They will be sure to lose the best part of it, and will be sure to go home dissatisfied.

Eighth. In the vestibule, criticize the play as hard as you can, blackguard the actors and actresses, vow never to come to the theatre again, and forgetting yourself, be found there the very next evening.

By strictly adhering to the foregoing suggestions, you will always be welcome wherever you choose to go. Perhaps the managers would be pleased to give you a free ticket—of dismissal.

Desperate Determination.

The unsophisticated country lasses visited Niblo's, in New York, during the ballet season. When the short-skirted, gossamer clad nymphs made their appearance on the stage, they became restless and fidgety.

"Oh! Annie." Exclaimed one, soto voce.

"It ain't nice, I don't like it."

"Hush!"

"I don't care; it ain't nice, and I wonder Aunt brought us to such a place!"

"Hush, Mary, the folks will laugh at you!"

After one or two flings and a pirouette, the blushing Mary said:

Oh! Annie let's go—it ain't nice and I don't feel comfortable."

"Do hush Mary," replied the sister, whose own face was scarlet, though it wore an air of determination: "It's the first time I was ever at the theatre, and I suppose it will be the last, so I am going to stay it out, if they dance every rag off their backs!"

The Rising Generation.

The rising generation in California is not a promising one. There is a sadly large proportion of the hoodlum element in it, and it is not on the whole notable for industry, frugality, or any other virtues. There is a reason for this. Almost every youth of fifteen or sixteen, now in California who was born here was in a measure "born with a silver spoon in his mouth." He was dressed like a young prince, he saw his father make a good deal of money by doing precious little work, and grew up in expectation of leading a still more easy life. When a young man born of well-to-do parents in any country loses his money or runs through it, it is astonishing with what rapidity he "goes to the demnition bow wows," as Mantalini expresses it. All our rising generation in California were born with "great expectations." Those expectations, alas, have proved unfounded. Times have changed but the boys remain the same. They have acquired luxurious tastes which they now find it hard to gratify. They feel that they were born to be "gentlemen," that is, to do very easy work if any, and scout the idea of working for "Chinaman's wages," though how they expect this matter-of-fact world to afford them better wages than Chinaman, unless they do better work we cannot see. Of course they are "prettier" than Chinamen, they have been to dancing school (that was when their father's were making five dollars a day; they only make two now) they have a smattering education, but as to being "workmen," that is a title to which they can lay no claim. Their fathers, in order to keep up wages all belong to "Protective Unions," and these unions will not allow them to apprentice their sons to their respective trades. What are the boys to do? Is it any wonder they grow up to be hoodlums and fill the Industrial School to overflowing? Let us pity the rising generation, it is composed of those "who have seen better days."

Awful.

A Michigan newspaper has just unearthed another flagrant exhibition of nepotism on the part of President Grant. The journal in question, indignantly says: "The President has appointed to the office of Postmaster, in Michigan, a man who is second cousin to a woman whose first husband was uncle to the next-door neighbor to the sister-in law of the washer-woman who ironed Lieutenant Grant's society shirt when he was one of the officers stationed in that city. These facts can be proved by indisputable testimony, and anybody who doubts, has our permission to prove them. Can nepotism go further?

Rough Gambling.

Jones and Smith were playing euchre the other day, Jones had the best of the game, so much so that he said to Smith, "Pshaw, you can't beat such a game as I've got, It's impossible." Smith replied, "I've seen that game beat, but it was up in Reno—with a shot gun."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

A very large and highly fashionable audience witnessed the first production of William Bausman's new and original drama entitled "Early California." The plot of the play is not very intricate: Coates (Pierpont Thayer), an adventurer and forger loves Carlotta Milton, murders her father, Mr. Milton (J. H. McCabe), a wealthy miner, and by a forged letter induces her to come to California. He meets her at the boat and inveigles her to a house from which she is rescued by Errant (James M. Hardie), a newspaper editor on whose protection she throws herself. Missouri Bill (John Woodard), keeper of a trading post in Shasta county, is suspected of the murder of Mr. Milton, and tried before Uncle Charley (J. H. Vinson) a Justice of the Peace with Tripletopper (Willie Simms), a shyster lawyer, as prosecuting attorney. Bladen (Harry Colton), a companion of Coates, who assisted in the murder of Mr. Milton, is brought before court by Errant, convicted by the evidence of Jeff (Miss Maggie Moore), clerk in the trading post, and lynched by the mob. Missouri Bill gets into a fight and is killed, having first given to Jeff a bottle containing papers committed to his care by Mr. Milton describing where he has $30,000 in gold dust buried. The man who kills Missouri Bill is probably lynched. In the last scene we find the murderer Coates searching for papers left in Errant's charge by Mr. Milton, which will give him possession of this property of the murdered man and leaves his orphan child, Carlotta, penniless. Errant produces the box of papers but will not give it up, and has Tim O'Donnell (T. E. Jackson), an Irish policeman, ready for Coates. Jeff. Maggie, (Miss Ada Deaves) a girl with whom he is in love, and Uncle Charley enter; Jeff recognizes Coates and denounces him; Coates, desperate, rushes on Errant and is shot by Tim O'Donnell. Errant and Carlotta are made rich by the papers in the box and bottle, are married of course and live happily ever afterwards. Jeff falls heir to Missouri Bill's property, so he marries and is happy. E. T. Jackson as Tim O'Donnell furnishes the fun of the piece; he is a really capital Irish comedian and made the audience fairly rear with laughter by his comic sarings and doings. The first two acts of the play are slow and talky with rather tedious dialougue and prosy soliloquies which might be advantageously cut. The scenes of early San Francisco in these acts provoked loud applause. The third act is the shortest and best written act of the piece. The actors all did their very best for the piece and deserve great credit for their impersonation of the various dramatis personæ. James M. Hardie delivered the somewhat long-winded speeches of Errant very skillfully; Miss Henrietta Osborne played Carlotta with much feeling and evinced considerable power in the third act; Maggie Moore made a natty Jeff and acted the part capitally; J. H. Vinson made quite a character of Uncle Charley and caused much fun in the Court scene; Willie Simms as Tripletopper gave a good representation of the shyster lawyer; John Woodard was very good as Missouri Bill, a part for which he is well suited; J. H. McCabe all that could be desired as Mr. Milton; Pierpont Thayer good as the heavy villian, Coates, and Harry Colton supported him well as the second villain, Bladen; Miss Sue Foster a neat printer's devil in the printing office scene in the first act, but did not speak loud enough. The scene representing the landing of the passengers from the Eastern Steamer—which came on the full length of the stage—was very well worked up. The scenery throughout was very good; that representing the mining camp, with a flume, long tom, water falls and rocks being especially beautiful and bringing forth loud applause. At the conclusion of the play, there were loud calls for the author, and Mr. Bausman who was among the audience, in the dress-circle arose and made a speech in which he thanked the audience for their attendance, the management for the liberal manner in which they had mounted his play, J. H. Vinson for arranging it for the stage; [both Mr. Vincent and Mr. Woodard have been hard at work at the piece so as to place it in a presentable manner on the stage for some time back] and hoped the audience would look over any faults in the production as he only commenced writing it on the 28th of December last. The real fault of the play is that there is too much straining after "fine writing" in it; it is not quite free and easy enough, nor quite natural. It will be presented to-night and until further notice, and will doubtless attract numbers anxious to revive their reminiscences of early California. There will be a matinee on Saturday when "Early California" will be presented.

California Theatre.

"Bright things can never die;" therefore is the Irish drama of "Arrah na Pogue" immortal. None can help enjoying themselves thoroughly in witnessing this play as presented by Charles Wheatleigh, the charming Miss Rose Evans, and the California Theatre Company.

Alhambra Theatre.

It matters little what may be the attractions elsewhere, the Alhambra is always sure of a good audience while Billy Emerson and his wonderful band of black birds present such a pleasing entertainment, many people never go to any other place of amusement but the Alhambra, because, as they say "there's always fun there, and nothing to bother one's brain." Billy Emerson's new serio-comic songs are heard in every house in the city where there is a young lady who sings.

Bella Union.

After a varied first part in which Mat Kelly, Maggie Brewer, Chris Mathews, Miss Josephine Fannie Garretson and others appear, a brilliant interlude will be given; comprising a pas de deux Hungarian, by M'lle Marie Gaugain, and Miss Carrie Chapman, banjo solos by Miss Ella La Rue songs by Miss Maggie Knight, song and dance by Miss Marie Zoel, and a variety of other performances. The beautiful extravaganza of the "Invisible Prince," will conclude the entertainment.

The Oxford.

Miss Amelia Dean as manageress of this house, caters most successfully to the public taste Charley Vincent's acts, Cotton's banjo solos, Morton's Irish songs, Lowden's jokes, Sprague's original dances, Forrest's clog dances, and Nelson's curious music performance on the rock harmonicon are all popular. The burlesque of "The Red Pocket-Book" winds up the evening's amusement.

Theatre Comique.

A very light and lively entertainment is given at this place of amusement; and many drop in to spend an hour in listening to the sweet ballads by Eva Silva, the comic songs by Frank Mortimer and Mike Quinn's banjo solos, or laugh at the many comical negro acts performed by the company.

Pacific Hall.

The concert and ball by the Lancashire Bell Ringers to come off at this hall to-morrow night, promises to be one of the most pleasing affairs of

Mrs. Sedley Smith's Benefit.

The benefit to the widow, of the generally loved and respected W. H. Sedley Smith, which is to take place on next Wednesday afternoon, will be a great success if willing hands, active brains, and kind hearts can make it so. All the profession are hard at work, they will surely receive encouragement from the public. The list of those who have volunteered for the occasion is immense.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A Racy Account of the Ball.

A crazy correspondent thinks that he attended the ball given in honor of the Duke Alexis at the Academy of Music, New York, and gives the following account of it:

IT WAS GENERALLY EXPECTED

that the Duke would arrive by way of the Fourteenth street entrance, in fact the committee had by a strategic movement conveyed this impression, and it was at this point that the police did some of their heaviest and most skillful butchering. As fast as a corpse fell, it was removed to one side, until at nine o'clock the street was blockaded by several cords of victims who had forfeited their lives by their curiosity. But Alexis did not make his entree at the Fourteenth street, or private entrance. On the contrary, a tunnel had been constructed from Thirteenth street, leading to and opening in under the stage of the Academy, and while the brilliant throng were impatiently pacing the hall awaiting his arrival, there was a sudden lull in the conversation, a bell sounded behind the scenes, and with a bang, and sounding blast from musicians, a trap-door opened in the stage and the Grand Duke shot upward several feet into the air after the most approved Harlequin fashion, came down on all fours, and stood upon his head while he removed his overcoat and furs, and then turning a backward summersault, he arose to an erect position and came down smilingly to the centre of the dancing floor.

HOW LOVELY!

How elegant! came from a hundred rosy lips on every side, and it was universally acknowledged that his manner of entering the ball room was superior to that of the Prince of Wales. Alexis was neatly, but not plainly, attired in a bear skin "wamus," ornamented on either breast with the striped tail of the same animal, which, hanging pendant, swung and bobbed with his every motion, and likewise served as a handle for his partner while waltzing.

HIS TROWSERS

were of the "Wehli" pattern, full breasted in the rear, and were from a piece of plush cloth which Pullman had left from trimming one of his coaches. He wore a pair of "De Wellington Boots," with soles an inch and three quarters thick, and ornamented with a bay window over each toe to give ease to his corns. His shirt was of the jockey pattern, and was ornamented with horse shoes, while on the bosom were admirable portraits of Dexter and Lady Thorne. This shirt was worn in compliment to Robert Bonner, whose paper the Duke takes regularly, and is much interested in the "answers to correspondents." His head was clipped in the customary Mace and Coburn style, and was slightly oiled with goose grease, which diffused a delicious and intoxicating odor.

HIS MUSTACHE,

which was beeswaxed to the fierceness of a clerk's in the Erie Railroad office, gave a most ravissante appearance to his chin, which was shaven clean. A magnificent Alaska diamond completed his tout ensemble, which was gay in the extreme. But it is his commanding figure that wins for him the admiration of the fair sex. Standing with two feet in his boots and six feet above them, making in all eight feet, he combines the Herculean beauty of Ned O'Baldwin, the "Irish Giant," with the gentleness of a last year's clam. And his symmetrical proportions, not unlike the Colossus of Rhodes, added to a smiling demeanor like that of the "Heathen Chinee," serves to inspire all around him with a platonic affection that only needs cultivation to inspire the possessor to know more of him and borrow money of him if possible.

IT WOULD REQUIRE THE BRAIN

of an Alexander Stephens, and the product of a paper mill, to describe the rare, rich and magnificent toilettes present. Diamonds were to be seen in countless numbers, from the gorgeous solitaire of a Sixth-ward politician, and the mammoth cluster of a buckwheat-oil prince, down to the modest, unassuming sparkler of Tweed or Fiskian style. An eminent importer of hair said that there was five hundred thousand dollars' worth of purchased capillary substance to be seen in the room, or enough to mix all the mortar used on the Court-house, and give the desired consistency to all the boarding-house butter consumed during the past year.

Madame Catiscrazy was attired in a lovely lamb and green peas silk cut appropos in the back, and gored in the bulliest manner about the bottom. Her hair was cut dacolete, and her slippers were run down at the heel a la mode de chambermaid.

VALENTINE'S DAY.

BY WILLIAM SHENSTONE.

'Tis said that under distant skies,
Nor yon the fact deny,
What first attracts an Indian's eyes
Becomes his deity.

Perhaps a lily or a rose,
That shares the morning's ray,
May to the waking swain disclose
The regent of the day.

Perhaps a plant in yonder grove,
Enriched with fragrant power,
May tempt his vagrant eyes to rove
Where blooms the sovereign flower.

Perched on the cedar's topmost bough,
And gay with gilded wings,
Perchance, the patron of his vow,
Some artless linnet sings.

The swain surveys her, pleased, afraid,
Then low to earth he bends;
And owns, upon her friendly aid,
His health, his life, depends.

Vain, futile idols, bird or flower,
To tempt a votary's prayer!
How would his humble homage tower
Should he behold my fair!

Yes,—might the Pagan's waking eyes
O'er Flavia's beauty range.
He there would fix his lasting choice
Nor dare, nor wish, to change.

A Centenarian Lady.

From the Los Angeles News we clip as follows: There is at present living at the San Gabriel Mission an old lady, whose eyes have seen the passing away of several generations. She claims to be one hundred and thirty-two years old. She was a mother at the time the Mission-church was built—102 years ago. Her hair is as white as driven snow; but her eyesight is as keen as that of a child, and her step as firm as that of a woman a century younger. She is an expert as a worker of embroidery, and executes the finest work without the aid of glasses. Every day, weather permitting, she may be seen in the fields or orchards near by her residence, busy at work with her needle. A specimen of her handiwork was exhibited in the Industrial Department of the last Agricultural Fair, and drew forth the admiration of all those who saw it. Her memory is unimpaired, and she converses vivaciously of events of the past appertaining to the San Gabriel valley—her world. She recalls, without hesitation, the reminiscences of her younger days, and recounts them with evident pleasure to those who feel sufficiently interested in such matters as to ply her with questions relating to them. In all appearance, the old lady gives fair promise to outlive many of us who are more than a century her junior.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Look Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Look Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

THURSDAY..... ...FEBRUARY 15, 1872

A Good Joke.

A capital joke, and all the more palatable because it is true, took place a few Sundays since at one of the prominent Fourth street churches. It seems that a worthy deacon has been very industrious in selling a new church book costing 75 cents. At the service in question, the minister, just before dismissing the congregation, arose and said: "All you who have children to baptize, will please present them next Sabbath."

The deacon, who by the way, was a little deaf, having an eye to selling the books, and supposing his pastor was referring to hem, immediately jumped up and shouted: "And all you who haven't any, can get as many as you want by calling on me at 75 cents each!"

The preacher looked cross-eyed at the deacon; the audience pinched each other in the side, the bubble grew larger until it burst in a loud guffaw, ladies colored up, crimsoned, blushed, and thanked the Lord for the low price of peopling the earth.—Exchange.

It Pays to Advertise.

The Rorchester Union, in commenting upon the value of printers' ink says:

We have kept the run of parties who use the papers in this city for advertising for the last twenty years, and know whereof we speak; and we say distinctly, that we have not known a party to fail in business, if he attended to his business, advertised judiciously, and had the goods and the prices to back up his advertisement.

Easily Explained.

The telegraph brings the important news that the hair of Stokes the murderer of Jim Fisk, is rapidly turning gray. The fact is he has left off using hair-dye. This dodge to gain sympathy is very thin.

Pleasant for the Horses.

The Marysville Appeal says.

Dr. Brewster's stage horses between La Porte and Gibsonville are running on snow-shoes.

We wonder how they would go on skates.

Clear as Crystal.

Dr. Abernethy's Green Ginger Brandy is clear as crystal, unlike the nauseous, muddy green essences of ginger, which it has supplanted in all first-class saloons. Chenery, Boutner & Co., are sole agents for San Francisco. o

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 508 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. c

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. x

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. w

A Discouraged Patriot.

Ethan Allen once passed through the Hoosac Valley, and spent the Sabbath with a friend in Williamstown, attending church with him and his family. The first and second Presidents of Williams college were square-toed in their orthodoxy, having far more faith in Divine wrath and justice, than in His love and mercy—and their sermons gave evidence of their obedience to the belief. On this Sabbath the text of the worthy President Fitch was "And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" Firstly, he laid it down as a fact beyond question, that not one in 1,000 would be saved. Secondly, Thirdly and Twelfthly—he said that not one in 50,000, could be saved. Ethan Allen took his hat and cane and prepared to leave. His friend said: "Don't leave now." Seventeenthly, dropped from the President's lips, who said he had come to the conclusion that of the countless millions of men, not more than 100,000 would be saved. The old soldier had been growing uneasy under the rapidly-sliding scale, in which the blanks so multiplied, and the prizes faded from view. He grasped his hat and cane when his friend said to him: "Don't go out. He will be through shortly, he's now up to seventeenthly." "O no matter," said Ethan Allen, "any of you are welcome to my chance, if 'tis as slim as he tells of." And he left the church

Feels Sore.

The editor of the Plumas National, after commenting on the remarks made by Rev. Mr. Stebbins and Rev. Dr. Stone at the Japanese banquet says:

Some of the clerical gentlemen require to be "taken down a peg or two" occasionally for their insolence while in the pulpit, and we have one in our mind's eye on whom a little gentlemanly chastisement would not fall unmerited.

Ah! ah! That sermon about Ananias and Sapphira last Sunday hit you hard, did it? It is very foolish of you, however, to show the cap fits, and get mad in print. Gentlemanly chastisement forsooth! You wouldn't get any credit for putting a head on a parson.

Undertaking too Much.

The Sacramento Bee says.

It is rumored that a well known young lady of Vallejo will shortly make her debut as a public lecturer. She intends to deliver a course of lectures to young men on temperance and other subjects.

Oh, pshaw! she's too ambitious altogether. Let her undertake the reformation of one young man and deliver curtain lectures to him.

Good Gracious.

The Vallejo Recorder of Tuesday has the following among other exciting items of news:

A young gentleman and lady of Vallejo were to be married in San Francisco last evening.

Do tell! And not a word about it in any of the San Francisco papers!

Oh, Yes!

The ladies of San Francisco, in imitation of those of Mokelumne Hill, will shortly give a leap year ball.—Country Paper.

Just so. We get all our fashions from Mokelumne Hill. Where is Moklumne what-d-ye-call-it?

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

If you wish to buy a watch or any article of jewelry or silverware, go to A. Hirschman, 133 Kearny street, who keeps none but good articles, with small profits. His guarantee is reliable. Watches carefully repaired. o

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

NEW AND SECOND-HAND SEWING MACHINES, of all kinds, for sale, rented and repaired on the easiest terms. Samuel Swift, 116 Post st., near Kearny. x

Real Delicacies.

There is a luxury lately introduced which is very nice at breakfast, dinner or supper. Get BUNKER' Club House sausages at 74 and 75 California Market. p

War With England.

In the event of the Alabama Claims not being settled, and a war with England, the Pioneer Shirt Manufactory 327 Kearny street, adjoining the Weed Sewing Machine Store, is prepared with an immense stock of English linens and shirtings which will last all through the war. H

WHY ARE BROWN'S Baths, 202 Fourth street, like Garland's Vegetable Cough Drops? Because they are Nature's great restorers. i

Ladies' Visiting Cards,

And every description of writing, executed by JOHN P. DWYER, fashionable card writer, 60 Montgomery street, or at Grand Hotel. x

A New Thing in Oysters.

Joe Giusta, 105 California Market, fronting on Summer street, serves freshly opened oysters at gentlemen's residences at any hour requested on Sunday mornings. Leave orders and get Giusti's fresh opened oysters to eat on Sundays, not the stale ones opened on Saturday.

A Good Idea.

A bill is to be introduced in the Legislature for the purpose of obtaining of Denny, the artist, six oil paintings, illustrative of events in and scenery of California, to be placed in the State Capitol. A Board of Trustees is to be appointed with power to contract with Denny for six oil paintings, of a size not less than ten feet by six, the subjects to be selected by the trustees themselves, and to be placed as they may direct. Now, we hope when this bill comes up for discussion that some Gradgrind won't rise and object to spending money for pictures when it might be better employed in building prisons. California has not done much for Art; Denny is a good painter; the Capitol walls are dismally bare; the bill should pass without any discussion at all.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. c

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

The new artists, of whose arrival next week there is now some hope, are all so famous that there is little doubt but that they will be popular favorites. They must be immense to rival in popularity Billy Emerson, and the troupe already at the Alhambra, who night after night play to large and delighted audiences. A matinee will be given to-morrow; when the excellent programme which gives such general satisfaction will be performed in full.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Another very large and fashionable audience was present last night, in spite of the rain, when William Bausman's drama of "Early California" was performed for the second time. It went more smoothly than on the first night, the steamboat scene in particular being presented in perfect style and evoking a perfect barricane of applause. "Early California" will be played this evening, at the matinee to-morrow, and until further notice.

California Theatre.

"Arrah na Pogue" is as popular as ever, and has drawn large houses every night. It is splendidly played. Charles Wheatleigh does not lose a single point in the character of Shaun; and Miss Rose Evans is a charming Arrah; J. C. Williamson as Michael Feeny, Henry Edwards as The O'Grady, Miss Ellie Wilton as Fannie Power, E. J. Buckley as the wildest of wild Irishmen, Oiney Farrell, and all engaged in the representation, play their parts to perfection. "Arran na Pogue" will be played to-night, at the matinee to-morrow and to-morrow night for the last time.

Bella Union.

After a first part made up of good singing, jokes and funny stories, an attractive melange of gymnastics, fancy dances by M'lle Marie Gaugain and Miss Carrie Chapman, comic songs by Miss Clara Starr, character songs by Miss Maggie Knight and other performances is given, and the very popular extravaganza of "The Invisible Prince," in which Miss Minnie Filmore shines in the part of Don Leander terminates the evening's amusement.

The Oxford.

The attractions at this lively place of amusement are numerous. Charley Vincent appears in amusing acts; Miss Lizzie Harmon in sweet ballads; Miss Fanny Webster in comic songs; Miss Amelia Dean in graceful dances, and the burlesque entitled "Horrid-Zone" with any number of Indians, waterfalls, etc., winds up the performance.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer's character songs are quite a feature in the entertainment at this house; he dresses well and sings in good style. Kelly and Stuart are popular in songs and dances and Mike Quinn's original Irish specialties and banjo solos are much applauded. A fine programme will be performed this evening.

Pacific Hall.

The concert and ball by the Lancashire Bell Ringers will take place this evening and promises to be a remarkably attractive entertainment. The Bell Ringers will perform some of the most popular music of the day on their chime of 61 bells. Charles Vivian will present some of his newest and most admired character sketches; Miss Rose Marston will sing "The Star of Love," accompanied by Mr. Lyster, and also a romanza; J. Maguire will recite the "Bridge of Sighs;" Frank Rea, Miss Fanny Young and Harry Norman, will sing ballads and the evening's entertainment will conclude with a dance to the music of the bells and a quadrille band.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Columbus Responsible.

Our old friend Columbus—whom many of our readers will remember as the man who discovered America, has had many hard things said of him, but the very hardest is from a Hartford paper. It says, in its efforts to prove that the continent was not a good thing: "The Indians never thanked Columbus, for one party. The Africans had small grounds for being thankful for the market he opened for them. He led Spain into a dance of great expectation which ended in her ruin. He introduced tobacco into Europe, and laid the foundation for more tracts and nervous disease than the Romans had in a thousand years. He introduced the potato into Ireland, indirectly, and that caused such a rapid increase of population that the great famine was the result, and an enormous emigration to New York—hence Tweed and Hall and the constituency of the Ring. Columbus is really responsible for New York.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

Make Your Home Beautiful

By adorning its walls with pleasant pictures in beautiful frames. W. A. KOLLMYER, dealer in pictures, and mirror and picture frame maker, 640 Washington street, just below Kearny, will, at a wonderfully small cost, transform the dullest looking room into a bright, cheerful budoir. A

Gay Notice.

They had a leap-year ball in Grass Valley the other night, and the Union gives detailed descriptions of the gentlemen. We copy this one:

COL. W. A. POTTER—As the toll of the Town Clock struck 10 this Adonis entered. Ye gods! his face beamed with majestic sweetness, and eau de musk perfumed the room; hair parted on the apex and hanging in curls a la Camanche, beautifully shaded his lily countenance. Count D'Orsay never eclipsed in elegance of attire and in courtly manners the subject of this notice. The splendor of his reputation as a chemist is equaled only by his virtue and benevolence. Ornament, a solitary stud.

Sensible.

The New York Evening Post says that very few of the Crown Princes of Europe are healthy men and many will not live to ascend the thrones of their fathers. It goes on to give a list of the sickly ones and very sensibly omits Albert Edward. We don't think we shall hear much more of that young man's "shattered constitution;" the strength of his constitution has been pretty well tested.

Eh?

Mr. Henry Dresses, of Lunenberg, N. Y., has married Miss Amy Swan, a sister of the celebrated Nova Scotian giantess. If she is anything like her sister, hasn't he been committing big Amy?

We don't wonder at her marrying him, all women are fond of dresses!

That Bloomin' Step.

The Gold Hill News says:

The damages to the Vivian mill, on Carson river by the winter floods, are being repaired.

It isn't a tread-mill, though the name suggests it.

Gratified.

The Alta through a correspondent who is in Arizona lets the public know that it has the largest circulation of any paper in Tucson. There are nearly fifty people living there. How is the Alta's circulation in Alaska?

Just so.

A wag observing the names of two lawyers on the door of an office, said it reminded him of a double-barreled gun, if one failed to clean out the client, the other was sure to fetch him.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

If you wish to buy a watch or any article of jewelry or silverware, go to A. Hirschman, 133 Kearny street, who keeps none but good articles, with small profits. His guarantee is reliable. Watches carefully repaired. G

ENOCH ARDEN AT THE WINDOW.

But Enoch yearned to see her face again;
"If I might look on her sweet face again
And know that she is happy." So the thought
Haunted and harrassed him, and drove him forth
At evening when the dull November day
Was growing duller twilight, to the hill.
There he sat down gazing on all below;
There did a thousand memories roll upon him,
Unspeakable for sadness. By and by
The ruddy square of comfortable light,
Far blazing from the rear of Philip's house,
Allured him, as the beacon blaze allures
The bird of passage, till he madly strikes
Against it and beats out his weary life.

For Philip's dwelling fronted on the street,
The latest house to landward; but behind
With one small gate that opened on the waste,
Flourished a little garden square and walled;
And in it throve an ancient evergreen,
A yewtree, and all round it ran a walk
Of shingle, and a walk divided it:
But Enoch shunned the middle walk and stole
Up by the wall, behind the yew; and thence
That which he might better have shunned if griefs
Like his have worse or better, Enoch saw.

For cups of silver on the burnished board
Sparkled and shone; so genial was the hearth:
And on the right hand of the hearth he saw
Philip, the slighted suitor of old times,
Stout, rosy, with his babe across his knees;
And o'er her second father stoopt a girl,
A later but a loftier Annie Lee,
Fair-haired and tall, and from her lifted hand
Dangled a length of ribbon and a ring
To tempt the babe, who reared his creased arms,
Caught at and ever missed it, and they laughed;
And on the left hand of the hearth he saw
The mother glancing often toward her babe,
But turning now and then to speak to him,
Her son, who stood beside her tall and strong,
And saying that which pleased him, for he smiled.

Now when the dead man come to life beheld
His wife his wife no more, and saw the babe
Hers, yet not his, upon the father's knee,
And all the warmth, the peace, the happiness,
And his own children, tall and beautiful,
And him, the other, reigning in his place,
Lord of his rights, and of his children's love,—
Then he, though Miriam Lane had told him all
Because things seen are mightier than things heard,
Staggered and shook, holding the branch, and feared
To send abroad a shrill and terrible cry,
Which in one moment, like the blast of doom,
Would shatter all the happiness of the hearth.

He therefore turning softly like a thief,
Lest the hash shingle should grate underfoot,
And feeling all along the garden wall,
Lest he should swoon and tumble and be found
Crept to the gate, and opened it, and closed,
As lightly as a sick man's chamber door,
Behind him, and came out upon the waste.

And there he would have knelt, but that his knees
Were feeble, so that falling prone he dug
His hand into wet earth and prayed.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Proportion of Insanity.

An exchange says:

It has been ascertained that the proportion of insane, to sane persons in America is 1 in every 574. In the agricultural districts of England, the proportion is 1 in 820, while in London it is 1 in 400. It will be seen from this that insanity prevails to a greater extent in cities than in the country. Singularly enough it has been computed that in countries where a despotic government is in power insanity is rare, as in Turkey, China and Russia. Insanity is uncommon in Spain out of the large cities.

All of this goes to prove the best way to preserve your sanity is to take things easy. People bother themselves out of their wits. As a preservative of sanity we recommend those who trouble themselves over much to commit to memory the following verses from one of the popular songs of the day:—

We smile at the unnecessary trouble people take,
For fortune is not regulated by the fuss we make,
I don't advise indifference, but this I mean to say,
It's just as well to take things in a quiet sort of way,

'Tis only from experience, I find this course is best;
There was a time when I was quite impulsive as the rest.
When something like a steam engine my feelings used to play,
But now I've learned to take things in a quiet sort of way.

I often think this life of ours, is so mething like a race;
They seldom win who make the running; nothing kills like pace—
A horse that's quickest, at the start, is seldom good to stay.
So it's just as well to take things in a quiet sort of way.

White Pine Items.

This is the way the Daily News does up items:

A party by the name of Schable—Mrs. John—went to a dentist in Shasta, Cal., to have a set of teeth taken out. She took chloreform. They pulled some of the teeth, with no blood, and pronounced the woman dead. They could have pulled them all; but they quit—recommending her to the mercy of Him who marks the sparrow's fall.

Starting on the Pioche stage, yesterday morning, we saw a fellow colored citizen who said he wasn't exac ly in a fix, but he had to go; because there was a good deal of money up for him to jump! When we reflect upon it, it seems ominous of new troubles over there. A good deal of blood and money have been spilled in Pioche on account of jumping—and there goes that infatuated moke as a professional jumper!

Hard on the Donkeys.

A bill has been introduced in the Legisla ture to prevent the cultivation of thistles in the county of Humboldt. [Now Mac of the News will have a chance to say, "A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind," and we shall feel awfully bad about it.]

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased fo in Europe.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 606 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. C

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. E

"What are You Going to Do About it?"

This is the most dangerous phrase ever invented. It has been the ruin of hundreds of men. To those who use it we say "drop it" as soon as possible; to others "never learn it." It must be a strong man that can continually throw down his gage of defiance—"What are you going to do about it?" This was Boss Tweed's favorite saying; he said it once too often, as the city of New York proved to him in the most convincing manner. A man gets ahead of his neighbor; he thinks his neighbor has no resource either in law or in physical force; he has wronged him, he has acted meanly toward him, but he says: "What are you going to do about it?" The wronged individual does nothing, can do nothing and the bully feels stronger than ever. But he is sure sooner or later to say: "What are you going to do about it?" to the wrong man, under the wrong circumstances. Goliah of Gath, came out daily, marched defiantly in front of the "army of the Lord," and asked them "What they were going to about it?" David showed him and the giant fell. A man who owes money sometimes, instead of trying to conciliate his creditor, defies him with "What are you going to do about it?" He has no property that can be seized; he knows the man cannot whip him and therefore he crows. This is in many cases very silly and very unnecessary. Civil words are best. Once ask a man of any feeling what he is going to do about it after you have wronged him, and depend upon it you make that man a very dangerous enemy. He's sure to try to do something about it. This insulting words will rankle in his breast and will spur him on to use all his intellect to bring the man who used them down so low that he cannot offer defiance even to the weakest. Don't say it, don't exult in your fancied security and strong position. Don't unnecessarily make enemies. There is no man so far beneath you that he may not some day be able to do you either a service or an injury. Strike the expression which heads this article out of your phrase book and you will go through the world more safely.

Quite Satisfactory.

In explanation of why the Emigrant Aid Society Lottery never came off, the Sacramento Record of Saturday says the money received by the agent for the sale of tickets—above current expenses—was placed in the bank of Hastings & Co., to be kept safe for the benefit of ticket holders. When the bank went up, the money went up with it. Of course, as there was no money, there was no occasion for the concert. We are sure nothing can be fairer than that. It is astonishing how many people there are who invested in various lotteries who are grumbling still, because they didn't win prizes. There's the Woodland lottery—Aronson & Dietz' nice little arrrangement—people grumble at that, and don't think of the beautiful new school house that their money built for Woodland, and the benefit it has done the Fire Department, and the Druids, and the orphans, and the hospital for diseased and destitute dogs, and other Woodland charities—not to mention the good it did to Aronson & Dietz, and the other managers—People ought to be satisfied. Somebody got the benefit of the money. What are they growling about?

A Boy's Composition on Corns.

Corns are of two kinds. Vegetable and animal. Vegetable corns grows in rows, and animal corns grows on toes. There are several kinds of corn, there is unicorn capricorn corn dodgers, field corn, and toe corn which is the corn you feel most. It is said that gophers like corn, but a person having corns don't like to "go fur" if he can help it. Corns have kernels, and Colonels have corns. Vegetable corn grows on the ear, but animal corns grows on the feet, at the other end of the body. Another kind of corn is acorn; these grows on oaks, but there is no hoax about the corn. The acorn is corn with an indefinite article, but the toe corn is a very definite article indeed. Try it and see. Many a man when he has a corn, he wishes it was an acorn.

Doctors say that corns are produced by tight boots or shoes, which is probably the reason why, when a man is tight they say he is corned. If a farmer manages well, he can get a good deal of corn an acre, but I know a farmer that has one corn that makes the biggest acher on his farm. The bigger the crop of vegetable corn a man raises the better he likes it, but the bigger the crop of animal corn he raises, the better he don't like it.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager.

First Premium Millinery.

"The Lyceum News."

We have before us a copy of the above-named paper. It was the the first programme paper published in San Francisco. The date of the number we have is March 10th, 1859, and contains the cast of "The Lady of Lyons" as played on that occasion at the Lyceum Theatre, under the management of John Wilson. James Anderson appears as Claude Melnotte, and Miss Fanny Morant, "of the London Theatres," as Pauline. The editor was liberal in his notices. He intended to be very flattering in the following: "This evening Mr. James Anderson will appear as Claude Melnotte in Bulwer's grand conception of "The Lady of Lyons," of which character he is an original representative and the sole person living capable of rending the role." That "rending" rather spoils this complimentary notice; there are too many actors now living only too capable of "rending" the role of Claude Melnotte or any other. George C. Boniface used to just tear it to tatters.

John Philip Kemble.

[COMPILED FROM PERCY FITZGERALD'S LIVES OF THE KEMBLES.]

John Philip Kemble was born in 1757. As he grew up, his father, a strolling player, designed him for the priesthood, but, after six years' study, young Kemble, in 1775, abandoned his school and joined a company of strolling players. For a number of years he traveled the provincial circuits, unknown to fame. In 1778 he played leading parts. In the latter part of 1781, while playing at Edinburgh, he was engaged by Daly, the manager of the Theatre Royal, Dublin, for the season, at the "star" salary of five pounds a week. Kemble, aided by the advantage of his sister's, Mrs. Siddons extraordinary contemporaneous success in London, at once achieved fame and popularity. Such success in Dublin opened the doors of the London theatres to him.

When Kemble made his first appearance in London, excellent comedians abounded; but Henderson was the only tragic actor. Like his sister, he had every advantage of opportunity. On the 30th September, 1783, a few days after his brother Stephen had appeared at Covent Garden, John Philip first trod the boards of Drury Lane as Hamlet. From the beginning to the end, he was perfectly successful. His singularly handsome figure and grace, his elegant dress, his extraordinary likeness to his sister, reaching even to the voice, and his perfect self-possession and deliberation, struck every critic. Though his first appearance was not an extraordinary and tumultuous success like his sister's—like Garrick's—like Kean's, it is interesting to read the account of it, remembering the great career which lay in the future beyond it:

"His reading of the part," says Fitzgerald "was different from Garrick's or any other player's. He threw a softness and tenderness over the character. His performance was evidently the result of careful and intellectual study of the play—there was the most judicious elocution, and a new emphasis. The same imperfection that had imperilled the success of his sister on her first appearance was noticed in his voice, but this was imputed to his being accustomed to the smaller Dublin house. Still, in its softer inflection it shewed uncommon feeling. John Taylor was struck with the laboriously critical tone of the character, but owned he never saw such an improvement as study and repetition brought to the representation—an improvement, owing in no slight degree to the laborious exercise of having written out the part no less than forty times."

Kemble and Mrs. Siddons appeared together for the first time in the "Gamester." Then in "King John" by "royal command." From thenceforth the brother and sister reigned supreme as interpreters of Shakspeare. Then "Othello"—Kemble playing it in the dress of an English general officer; then Macbeth, Mrs. Siddons as Lady Macbeth, which cast all former triumphs in the shade. For the first time in his career Kemble was greeted with tumultuous and unstinted applause. He had captured his enemies. Years of triumphs followed for brother and sister.

Kemble subsequently linked his fortunes with Sheridan, manager of the theatre, and met with the usual fate of everyone having ought to do with the brilliant and reckless spendthrift—disappointment, loss and pecuniary embarressment. Mrs. Siddons, disgusted with Sheridan's conduct, withdrew at the end of the year, but was happily persuaded to return during the next season. Season after season followed at Drury Lane, full of professional triumphs, but owing to Sheridan's intolerable conduct, beset with financial difficulties, until at last Kemble broke with Sheridan permanently and joined the Covent Garden management, his friends purchasing him a sixth share in the house. He afterward went to Paris, and played before the Royalty and Talma. His Covent Garden speculation proved profitable and gave him a comfortable income for years.

On the 20th of October, 1808, the Covent Garden was burned, with a loss of twenty lives, and an immense amount of property. It was a great blow for Kemble. After thirty years of active professional life, he had to commence the world anew. But the great actor and honorable man found true friends. Ten thousand pounds was subscribed to rebuild the theatre, and in less than eight months the famous "O P Riots" about the advance in prices of admission at the new theatre were the excitement of the town. In 1812 Mrs. Siddons retired from the stage. As Kemble advanced in years he suffered at times severely from the gout, and was otherwise warned, not only by Nature's moniters, but by the advancing popularity of rivals that his time of supremacy on the stage was but short.

Edmund Kean had made his appearance, and the town, familiar with Kemble's cultivated elocution for thirty years, was carried away by the young actor's genius, force, and fire. There was danger from another quarter. Young was attracting notice; and when he played Cassius to Kemble's Brutus, there were those who said he was the better actor of the two. That such things should be, were stabs for the decaying great player. The prosperity of the theatre began to decline; and at length Kemble, though he might have counted on making a good income for some five years longer, decided that he would not linger, as his sister had done. "There w ll that 'twere done quickly." In 1817 he took leave of his Scotch friends, giving a round of farewell performances in Edinburgh. He played Coriolanus splendidly, but appropriately selected Macbeth for his final performance. The scene has been finely described by Sir Walter Scott. The 23d June, 1817, was fixed for his last appearance on the stage of his own theatre. He had given a long and grand series of farewell performances and took his leave in his one character of Coriolanus.

Six years afterwards, on the 20th February, 1823, the great actor and eminently honorable man, John Philip Kemble, died.

Mrs. Siddons' Last Years on the Stage

Last Saturday we published an account of Mrs. Siddons' first two seasons in London, gleaned from Percy Fitzgerald's biography of the Kemble's; annexed we compile from the same source some facts concerning the last professional years, and the farewell appearance on the stage of the great English tragedienne:

In 1788 John Philip Kemble, her brother, then in the zenith of his fame, became manager of Drury Lane; Mrs. Siddons' fame, fortune, and popularity were then at their height. It was at this time that her great triumphs in Queen Catharine, Volumnia, and other tragic characters were made. Speaking of this era she says: "When I recollect all my toil of mind and body, I wonder that I had strength and courage to support it. interrupted as I was by the cares of a mother, and the childish sports of my little ones—often rebuked for interrupting their mother's studies." The great actress, whose heart was always full of the home from which she was so constantly wandering, and the children she had so frequently to leave, began to suffer from ennui and heart-sickness in the midst of the triumphs which never satisfied her, except by their pecuniary results, for with all her genius, her grandeur, and her great triumphs, her high and enthusiastic estimate of the requirements of her art led her to believe that she had never attained her ideal.

Severe loss, through the unprincipled conduct of Sheridan, befell her; and this was followed by the death of her beloved daughter, Maria, of consumption, brought on by an unhappy attachment to Lawrence, the painter, who, after engaging her affections, transferred his own to her sister. Maria Siddon died in 1798; and her mother's agony of grief was intensified by the signs of the same malady in the case of her second daughter. Then came more success, harder work, increasing demands for money from Mr. Siddons, exhausting journeys, large earnings, and incessant anxiety, calumny, ridicule, and a cruel deception. While she was at Cork, whither she had gone alone, her daughter's state became desperate, and Mr. Siddons concealed the fact from her, lest she should resign the engagement and forfeit the money by returning home. She casually learned the truth, started ot once, and on her arrival at Shrewsbury, learned that her child was dead! There never had been much sympathy between her and her husband, and thenceforth there was to be less. She was quite prostrated by the blow for a time, but she had to think of her engagement at Covent Garden, "for a decant period of mourning is not among the privileges of the player."

In 1807 she went to Bath to see her husband, and then to Edinburgh to work as usual. In March, 1808, he died. It is curious to contrast her philosophic regret for her husband with her dispair at the loss of her child; none the less curious because he certainly did not deserve more than philosophic regret.

In 1815, having saved twenty thousand pounds, though Mr. Siddons' speculations had swallowed up much of her earnings, and Sheridan's bankruptcy much more, Mrs. Siddons determined to retire from the stage. She was not yet sixty years old, but she was weary and corpulent. She longed for this retirement, and yet, like Garrick, she dreaded it. On the 29th of June she took her leave of the stage, in the character of Lady Macbeth. The excitement was tremendous, and at the end of the "sleep-walking scene," the audience stood on the benches and insisted on the play ending there. The curtain fell, and when it rose again, the great actress was discovered dressed in white, and sitting at a table. She received an impassioned greeting, and delivered a farewell address, written by her nephew, Mr. Horace Twiss. Her brother John came forward and led her away. The curtain descended slowly, and that long career of toil, success, weariness and greatness came to an end.

CHALLENGE

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recips of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogenesous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chappings. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The old Californian turns with fond recollections to the good old time of '49 and '50, and this is the secret of the success of the play of "Early California." This drama, with its exciting incidents of lynch law, murder, abduction, love and revenge, will be played at the matinee to-day, to-night, to-morrow night, and until further notice.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Arrah-na-Pogue" the best Irish drama ever written, is presented in splendid style. The dance just before the conclusion of the first act, is espitally performed, and one of our modest, though energetic carriers, who is a humble member of the California Theatre, last night and the night before, actually "brought down the house" by his spirited Irish jig. "Aarah-na-Pogue" will be played at the matinee to-day, and to-night for the last time.

ALHAMBRA.—The performance at this popular theatre this afternoon and evening will delight all who witness it. The more responsibility is thrown on the shoulders of the inimitable Billy Emerson, the brighter he shines, and shows himself equal to every occasion. He is the barn; cork Lingard, and could give an entertainment all by himself if necessary. He is ably supported by the Reynolds Brothers, Harry Norman, S. Holdsworth, Miss Fanny Gibson and others, and the performance pleases everyone.

BELLA UNION.—To-night after a bright first part and interlude, in which Maggie Knight will sing new songs, Samwells and Montague will appear in athletic feats, M'lle Marie Gangain and Miss Carrie Chapman in a new dance, and other performances will be given. The entertainment will conclude with a sensational play of the times written by E. O. Wharton of New Orleans and localized for the Bella Union Theatre by James Dowling. It is entitled "Man's Wrong's versus Woman's Rights," and Ella Rue, Minne Fillmore, Lon McCarthy, Mat Kelly, Clara Starr, and the other members of the company appear in the cast.

THE OXFORD.—The new burlesque entitled "O Rise On, or Horrid Zone," was presented in the most pleasing style last night, with Miss Amelia Dean, Charley Vincent, Mr. McDaniels and the entire company in the cast. It is "peculiar," as stated in the bills, and must be witnessed to be appreciated. Before the burlesque a lively first part, and interlude comprising many popular features are given.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Eva Silva in pleasing ballads; Frank Mortimer in clever character sketches; Miss Blanche, Nellie Leonard and Carrie Willis in pleasing songs and dances; Mike Quinn in Irish character sketches and banjo solos, and a number of others will appear to-night in a grand Saturday night bill.

THE PACIFIC HALL—The Lancashire Bell Ringers' concert last night did not draw as large an audience as their merits and necessities, and the excellence of the programme should have called forth, the hall being not more than half filled. The performance was very good. Charles Vivian was encored again and again, and at last had to throw himself on the mercy of the audience. The bell music was beautiful, the singing by Miss Fanny Marston, Harry Norman, Miss Fanny Young and Frank Rea was enthusiastically applauded, and encores were the order of the evening. J. Maguire recited "The Bridge of Sighs" with good feeling and discretion, and a very pleasant dance terminated the evening's amusement.

THE SNOWED-IN MINSTELS.—The minstrels who were for so long a time snowed in on the plains—Fayette Welsh, Bob Hart, Harry Stanwood, J. H. Milburn and Charles Heywood, are we are happy to learn in the best of health and as lively as crickets. Their flow of good spirits was never frozen by the cold. They are now moving along and will certainly appear at the Alhambra early next week—perhaps on Monday. They will receive a warm welcome that will make them forget their cold journey.

"AFTER DARK."—Boucicault's plays form Chas. Wheatleigh's strong suit, and he has always won by playing them. "Arrah-na-Pogue" has turned up a tramp card, having run throughout the week to splendid business. On Monday, "After Dark," another of Boucicault's plays which had a tremendous run when presented at Maguire's Opera House, will be produced, with new scenery and a strong cast, at the California Theatre. A great feature will be the concert-room scene, in which the following programme will be performed: A fantasia on "The Bluebells of Scotland" by the Lancashire Bell Ringers; a double song and dance entitled "Bloomin' Little Pals," by the Stanley Sisters; a Hungarian Polka by Miss Georgie Loomis, and Charles Vivian in a new and attractive programme of character songs.

SAN FRANCISCO HARMONIC SOCIETY.—This society, comprising much of the very best musical and vocal talent of San Francisco, Miss Annie McKenzie, George T. Evans, Schlotte and a host of others, will give a concert at Pacific Hall on the 26th inst. Full particulars will shortly be announced in FIGARO, "the recognized organ of all amusements on the Pacific Coast."

CLIFF HOUSE.—Everything to make glad the heart of man can be found at the Cliff House, under the able management of mine host Foster. If you have not a team of your own, get one from Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel, and take a spin along the finest road in the world.

FOR OREGON.—Miss Ella La Rue, Johnny Manning, Miss Carrie Armstrong, Johnny Tuers and the others whom we mentioned last Saturday except Miss Minnie Fillmore, left on Tuesday for Portland, where they are engaged to appear at Nick Hochgurtel's Theatre Comique.

HOME AGAIN.—The Cogill & Cooper Minstrels, G. H. Foster, Harry Howard and others, returned from Los Angeles on Wednesday, having met with good success, though not sufficient to invest very largely in Savage.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.—Washington's Birthday, the 22d inst, will be celebrated at Union Hall with appropriate ceremonies by the Improved Order of Red Men. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to participate.

MISS BUCKLE'S SOIREE MUSICALE.—Miss Buckle will give a concert at Platt's Hall on Tuesday evening next, when a good programme of vocal and instrumental music will be performed.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

BENEFIT TO MRS. W. H. SEDLEY SMITH.—The theatrical profession are foremost in volunteering their services to aid public charities. They have a right to expect the public to aid them in a case of professional charity. The late W. H. Sedley Smith did not leave his widow too well off; the profession intend to give her a benefit on Wednesday afternoon at the California Theatre as a token of the esteem in which they held her husband. Such an entertainment will be given that the public can claim but little share in the charitable deed for they will be afforded for a dollar an entertainment such as they may never again have an opportunity of enjoying for any amount of money. The following list of names assures this: Mme. Mathilde Veneta, Miss Rose Evans, Miss Helen Diageon, Miss Annette Ince, Miss Belle Thomas, Mrs. Julia Melville, Miss Fanny Young, Miss Maggie Moore, Mrs. Frank Rea, Miss L. Holbrook, Mrs. Owen Marlowe, Signor G. Mancusi, Mr. Wheatleigh, Mr. John McCullough, Mr. Chas. Vivian, Mr. W. Emerson, Mr. J. H. Hardie, Mr. M. Bixmenthal, Mr. Joe Raynor, Mr. Dauphimot, Mr. J. H. Vinson, Mr. Frank Rea. Still more volunteers will come forward next week, and their names will be given in due season. Every dollar taken at the door will go to the widow. These tickets should command a premium before Wednesday.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Proctor's company at the Metropolitan Theatre played the drama of "The Mother-in-Law" and a farce on Monday and Tuesday evenings; on Wednesday, "Caste" and "Handy Andy," and on Thursday, "The Lady of Lyons" and "The Wandering Minstrel." "No Thoroughfare" and "The Red Pocketbook" were underlined as in preparation.....Elder Grant took the Sacramento Varieties for a series of revival meetings on Sunday last. It is to be re-opened as a place of amusement under new management on Saturday next.....The Bee says:

Mr. Lloyd, known to theatre-goers as an excellent representative of "old men," has started in "the old man" in real life. He was recently married to Miss Mary Douglas, the pretty and sweet singer of McEvoy's Hibernicon troupe. We hope the matrimonial vessel then launched will always be rated A 1 at Lloyds'.

OAKLAND.—J. Maguire, has nearly all his company engaged and the scene-painters and carpenters are preparing for the opening night. FIGARO will be the programme of the Oakland theatre as of all the theatres and live entertainments in San Francisco.....Grace Greenwood lectured at Brayton Hall on "The Heroic in Common Life," on the 13th. On the 15th Hon. Nathan Porter delivered his lecture on "The Drama," at Odd Fellow's Hall. Both lectures were well attended.

SAN JOSE.—No amusements in San Jose as usual. The Guide squirms fearfully at our comments on the reception the Emerson Minstrels met with in San Jose and doesn't like our offer to send up a monkey and a hand organ a bit. The Guide should be good-tempered. San Jose is not a good show town and we are not going to assist in inducing any first-class company to go there until its people evince a better appreciation of theatrical and minstrel performances.

SALT LAKE.—E. T. Stetson played in "Neck and Neck" to crowded houses. On the 8th and 9th he appeared as Edward Middleton in "The Drunkard," and on the 10th in "Pizarro." On the 12th a new and original drama entitled "Illusion" written for E. T. Stetson by Enoch Arden was produced. The Purdy, Scott, and Fostelle Minstrels had arrived on the 15th with every prospect of doing a fine business.

PETALUMA.—A concert was given at the theatre on Monday by the ladies of Petaluma for the benefit of the Left Hand Association. It was well attended and was quite a success.

MODESTO.—The Modesto Amateurs are rehearsing and will shortly produce "The Golden Farmer."

EUGENE CITY, O.—The Eugene City Guard says the people of that place are shortly to enjoy a little music. Prof. Geo. B. Newell, pianist, and J. H. Stinson, violinist, being on their way there with a concert troupe.

MARYSVILLE.—The event of the week at Marysville was the performance at the theatre by the Amateur Association, for the benefit of the Marysville Benevolent Society. "The Marble Heart" was presented in good style. Miss Clara Rowe played Marco, E. A. Belcher, Raphael, and J. B. Badger, Volage. The Appeal encourages the amateurs, by devoting nearly a whole column to a kindly criticism of their efforts.

MONTICELLO.—The Monticello Amateurs will shortly give a performance.

ANAHEIM.—There is nothing in the way of amusement at Anaheim just at present, but we are indebted to the Southern Californian, published there, for the following item:

The New York Circus company, which performed at Anaheim Nov. 11th, has just started from Guaymas to Honolulu. They are to return to San Diego next Spring, having left some of their horses there.

PORTLAND, O.—G. B. Waldron and company were still doing well at the Oro Fino Theatre. "Lafitte, the Pirate of the Gulf," was produced on the 5th..... Nick Hochgurtel's Theatre Comique was also running, and the company was soon to be augmented by talent from San Francisco referred to in another column.

ALBANY, O.—The Newell concert troupe were to appear shortly.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Bamgardner whisky and Chicken Cock are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon. No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. S

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If shy one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third, San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. X

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the success treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, London, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in a celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST reached its acme of success in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night Boucicault's thrilling drama of "After Dark" will be presented, with Charles Wheatleigh in his original part, in this city, of Old Tom a boardman. Miss Rose Evans as Eliza, J. C. Williamson as Dicky Morris, Henry Edwards as Chandos Bellingham, Owen Marlowe as Gordon Chumley, Fred Franks as Crumpets, E. J. Buckley as Sir George Medhurst, E. N. Thayer as Pointer, E. Leathes as Mr. Rudolfson, a billiard sharp, H. Coad as the Bayee, an owl, and Charles Reed as Ares Jack, another night bird. Charles Vivian, the Lancashire Bell Ringers, Miss Georgie Loomis, and the Stanley Sisters will appear in a varied programme in the concert room scene.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson and his band of sable nightingales Harry Norman, S. Holdsworth, the Reynolds Brothers, and others will give a capital entertainment to-night. The first part will wind up with a new finale. Miss Fanny Gibson and S. Holdsworth, will sing a serio-comic duet in the interlude, Billy Emerson will present some of his most popular character songs, the Reynolds Brothers will perform their inimitable song and dance, "The Two Originals," a number of amusing acts will be presented, and the roaring farce of "The Theatrica Agency," will conclude the evening's entertainment.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The scene in the mines where the letter carrier is observed in the distance galloping over the mountain path and enters on the stage on horse back is generally admired. E. Deave's automaton horse in the perspective scene is quite a success, and draws loud applause.

Maguire's Opera House.

Another prima donna has arrived and we are to have a season of Italian opera. It would have been too bad, if, with two prima donnas in the city, we allowed both to depart without giving us a taste of their quality. Signor Bianchi is an irrepressible impressario, and the public of San Francisco have only to give him a little encouragement in order to enjoy Italian Opera to their heart's content. On Friday evening Signora Adelina Frenchel, lately from the theatres of Italy and Rio Janeiro will make her debut before a San Francisco audience, in the character of Elvira, in "Ernani;" Signor Bianchi will fill the roll of Ernani. The chorus and orchestra will be under the direction of Signor Alberti Frenchel.

Bella Union.

The entertainment presented on Saturday night and last night was a very good one; the gymnastics of Samwells and Montague; Miss Josephine's ballad, "Where the Flowers Blush and Bloom;" the double song and dance by Marie Zoel and Chris Matthews; Maggie Knight's songs and dances, and in fact everything went well. A great feature of the entertainment was the performance of the intricate and beautiful Valse de Giselle, by the accomplished danseuse, M'lle Marie Gaugain, and Miss Carrie Chapman. The local play of "Man's Wrongs, versus Woman's Rights" concluded the entertainment.

The Oxford.

There is no end to the variety of the performance given at the Oxford; songs, dances, negro acts, gymnastic feats, farce and burlesque. Charley Vincent appears nightly and Miss Amelia Dean and her band of minstrels give an attractive programme. The management announce novelties this evening—an original Japanese dwarf Tommy, and the original burlesque of "Horizon."

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer will to-night present some of the best sketches in his repertoire; Eva Silva will sing sweet ballads; Mike Quinn will appear in Irish specialties and banjo solos; Miss Blanche in songs and dances; Kelly and Stuart in double song and dance, and a host of performers in amusing negro acts.

Mrs. Sedley Smith's Benefit.

The entertainment to be given on Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of Mrs. W. H. Sedley Smith will be an extraordinarily attractive one, and of the most varied description. Tickets are selling rapidly.

Extra Matinee.

An "Early California" matinee will be given at the Metropolitan Theatre on Thursday, Washington's Birthday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Honest Anger.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmands have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Sufferings of Some Shipwrecked Malays.

The Singapore Times of December 28th says: The Dutch ship Ottolina which arrived on Monday last from Cardiff, in passing through Malacca Straits, picked up three Malays in an open boat in sore distress. Their simple story shows what the poor fellows must have suffered, and the indomitable perseverance with which they bore up under the misfortunes they encountered. They left Penang on the 1st of December with a tongkang laden with 5,500 cocoanuts, bound for Laroot. On the passage they encountered a strong gale, during which their boat capsized, and all their cargo, with their water, and everything they had in the boat, were lost. They clung to the bottom of the boat, and after a time, watching their opportunity, succeeded in righting her and scrambled in. They at once set to work to bail out the water, and nothing daunted, started to return to Penang, that being the nearest port they could make under the circumstances. Their troubles, however, did not end here. On the way they encountered another gale, in which their boat was again capsized. As before, they clung to the bottom, with the seas washing over them, and in this condition were driven before the wind for some time. After the fury of the gale was spent, the brave fellows again set to work to right their boat, and persevered until they succeeded, after which they again bailed her out, and tried, as nearly as they could judge, to head her for Penang. But it soon became evident that they had lost their way, and were upon the wide sea, helpless, without food or water, and at the mercy of the winds and waves. Their only hope lay in being discovered by a passing vessel, and, after four days of fasting, without a particle of food or drop of water, to their great joy they espied a sail, and succeeded in attracting notice from the vessel, which bore down upon them and rescued them from a lingering death. The poor men were very kindly cared for by Captain Ouwehand and all on board, and were brought to Singapore.

How Figaro's Baby was Taken.

Scene, Bradley & Rulofson's Gallery. The successful photographer's appeal to the baby. "Hi yi! (Begins to dance). Howdy dowdy! Ding a ling ling! Whoope! (Throwing up arms). You! You! You! Bah-h-h-h! (Scowls horribly). See here! There! There! There! Ching-chung! Ching-chung! Ratty tat! tat! tat! (Demoniacal grin). Teety-teety! Diddle-diddle-diddle! Boo! Boo! Boo! Oh, now! Look here! here! here! Dad! dad! dad! Sugar! Sugar! sugar! sugar! sugar! Rickerty-rickerty-rickerty! Bum! Bum! Bum! Ah hah! There! There!" (Rag falls. Artist perspires. Mamma delighted.)

Cause and Effect.

A little girl up in Montana by the name of Maudie, told her mother not to let her have any more corn to eat, "'cause it was coming out on her toes."

Pride is increased by ignorance; those who assume the most are usually those who know the least.

The poorest education that teaches self-control is better than the best that neglects it.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon. No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Baumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. THE GREAT WORSHIP.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

The harp at nature's advent strung
Has never ceased to play;
The song the stars of morning sung
Has never died away.

And prayer is made and praise is given,
By all things near and far;
The ocean looketh up to heaven,
And mirrors every star.

Its waves are kneeling on the strand,
As kneels the human knee,
Their white locks bowing to the sand,
The priesthood of the sea!

They pour their glittering treasures forth,
Their gifts of pearl they bring,
And all the listening hills of earth
Take up the song they sing.

The green earth sends her incense up
From many a mountain shine;
From folded leaf and dewy cup
She pours her sacred wine.

The mists above the morning rills
Rise white as wings of prayer;
The alter curtains of the hills
Are sunset's purple air.

The winds with hymns of praise are loud.
Or low with sobs of pain;
The thunder-organ of the cloud,
The dropping tears of rain.

With drooping head, and branches crossed,
The twilight forest grieves,
Or speaks with tongue of Pentecost
From all its sunlit leaves.

The blue sky is the temple's arch,
Its transept earth and air;
The music of its starry march,
The chorus of its prayer.

So nature keeps the reverent frame,
With which her years began,
And all her signs and voices shame
The prayerless heart of man.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental; Hotel when you want a carriage. O

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts

THE GREAT EradicaTOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life seclusement; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 30 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST reached in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

How to get a Play Accepted.

Theophile Gautier and Siraudin, authors of "Tricorne and Enchante," took it to Roqueplan, the manager. They found him at his toilette. Seating himself he made a sign to Siraudin to commence reading. Siraudin said, "I should be happy to do so; but, I cannot read this morning." "Why?" asked Roqueplan. "Oh, I don't feel as if I could throw my soul into it!" "Well then," said Boqueplan, turning to Theophile Gautier, "You read it!" "Mon Dieu, my dear Roqueplan," said Gautier, "I assure you I read so badly, that I am afraid I should give you a bad opinion of our production!"

"That's strange," said Roqueplan. "Two authors who do not know how to read! It is not difficult," and he unrolled the manuscript. It is necessary, you see, to read as one speaks," said Boqueplan. "I read neither very well nor very badly, but if I were in your place I should read it something like this," and he proceeded to read the first act, then the second, and finally the rest. The authors were delighted and continually applauded and laughed. When Roqueplan had finished they cried "We accept the piece;" and the piece was accepted and played. It was a success.

Won't Do.

A thief stole the overcoat of one of the reporters of the Cincinnati Gazette. The paper announced the fact with the information that the owner of the garment was just recovering from an attack of small-pox of the most malignant type. It is to be feared the ruse of the despoiled reporter will prove to be "too thin." The thief will doubtless be more careful about being "spotted" by the police than the small-pox.

Chewing Gum.

The Eugene City Guard says :

By actual count, we have in the past week met with nineteen ladies, old and young, who were masticating with astonishing vigor a compound known as chewing gum.

The unpleasant wallapuses ought to be ashamed of themselves. None but the most ill-looking, ignorant, bad-tempered, unlovable girls chew gum in San Francisco, and we are glad of it.

Degrees of Comparison.

Give the positive, comparative and superlative degrees of the adjective, "solemn," with illustrations of the meaning of the word. "Solemn, being married; solemner, not being able to get married; solmnest, wanting to be un-married when you are married."

A Question.

It is, perhaps, a debatable question whether a person who has been notoriously in the habit of lying has a right to tell the truth. It is, of course, the only device by which he can deceive people.

Soap.

When you take up a small square of perfumed soap and lather your hands briskly with it, do you ever stop to think how hard it would be to get along without the cleansing agent? "How are you off for soap?" would become one of the most important questions of the day. If you were to have a soap dearth, as well as a coal famine. Yet the use of soap is not three hundred years old. We hear about the lily hands, and the pure cheeks of the fair ladies of the days of old renown—but how in the world did these belle dames sans merci manage to keep their hands and faces so clean and sweet without any soap? The high-bred lords and ladies of the middle ages were compelled to resort to the free use of aromatic essences and oils to atone for a want of cleanliness; while the voluptuous Greeks dipped their garments into perfumed water. So we see that the world learned to be clean. Just imagine that Tennyson's "Little Maid of Astolat," never saw even so much as a cake of brown Windsor—not even a piece of homely resin soap!

Hard Enough.

When the late Rev. Dr. Lawrie of London, was examining a few of his parishioners in a country district, he asked John Anderson, a solid farmer, to repeat the Tenth Commandment. John stumbled on as far "Thou," then stopped. "Come on," said the doctor, "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife." "Na, na," said John, "nane of that Doctor. I hae enough tae dae wi' oer Tibbie at hame, tae want any other man's wife."

Strange but True.

Terry was given to the turf, and labered under the delusion that he could ride races, but in his various attempts he was never known to ride the winning horse. On one occasion his old mother was induced to go to the course and see Terry ride. By some accident this day his horse won the race. "Arrah!" she exclaimed, "it's well that I came. Sure ye'r first at last; ye were always behind before!"

Legal Advice.

A lover consulted a lawyer about carrying off an heiress. "You must not carry her off," said the lawyer, "but she can carry you off. Let her mount a horse and hold the bridle and whip, and then you get up behind her, and let her run away with you. Then you'll be safe. The next morning the lawyer found that his daughter had run away with the said young man in the aforesaid manner.

Salted.

A landlord recently going round to collect his rent sent a servant before him to prepare his tenants for the visit. On reaching the first house, and seeing his servant apparently endeavoring to gain admittance, he inquired: "What is the matter, John, Is the door bolted?" "I don't know Sir," replied John, "but the tenant evidently has."

Fanny Fern tells of an aged female who thought she was "as young as she ever was, and as handsome as she never was."

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. w

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. c

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "The" Hat Store is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. x

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there

Drunken Printers.

The Grass Valley Union has the following:

Printers never get drunk. That fact is well known. Popular superstition, however, has declared that printers do drink. The makers of comic valentines some years ago it got into their heads that printers get drunk. Accordingly these valentine makers publish a cut which represents a typo leaning against a lamp post in a state of distressed inebriety. One of our best looking printers has received every year, for ten years until yesterday, on St. Valentine's day, a picture of that drunken printer. His accustomed valentine failed yesterday to come to hand, and he is disconsolate. It breaks into his regular habits not to be told that he is a drunkard.

Of course printers never get drunk. At the very worst they are only a little "set up."

Unkind.

The Los Angeles Star says:

The land in some portions of San Diego county is so poor that the natives find difficulty in raising a disturbance on it.

Whereupon the San Diego Union retorts:

True for you, brother Star. We can't find a tree big enough to hang a Chinaman upon.

If you would be pungent, be brief; for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed the deeper they burn.

Horatio Sparkles happening to meet a young lady friend in Kearney street, the other day, was struck by the beauty of design of a lovely set of jewelry she was wearing, which she told him she had lately purchased at Hirchman's jewelry store, 133 Kearny street.

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

This is a new family soap—a true Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

Challenge Soap Co.,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged in every part last night when Boucicault's capital drama of "After Dark" was presented. Charles Wheatleigh played Old Tom, the Boardman, splendidly; nothing could be better; Miss Rose Evans was delightful as Eliza, and the charmingly natural manner in which she read the many pathetic passages in the role, visibly affected the audience; J. C. Williamson, who has hitherto done everything well, played Dicey Morris badly; he tried to be altogether too funny, and made the character a trivial one. Harry Jackson played the part so perfectly—being by nature adapted for it, that Mr. Williamson had to undergo unfavorable comparison with him. His make-up was splendid, but beyond that he was not the Dicey Morris familiar to every Londoner. He did not sustain the accent and his hopping walk was absurdly unnatural. Mr. Williamson is such a good actor that he will stand criticism when he misconceives a part and it can do him no harm. Henry Edwards, good as he is in honest, hearty impersonations shines equally as much in the character of a villain, and his Chandos Bellingham last night was a capital bit of acting; Owen Marlowe as Gordon Chumley presented the audience with a picture of a gentleman; every movement was graceful, every word well spoken; his rendition of the part was fully appreciated; Miss Ellie Wilton was very pleasing as Rose, though she was a little stagey sometimes in reading passages which should have been rendered in in a very natural manner. E. J. Buckley was very good as Sir George Medhurst and did a capital bit of impassioned acting where the conscience-stricken man confesses his guilt as he supposes to his intended bride, but really to his still living wife; Fred Franks did some good character acting as Crompets and the other parts were generally well filled. In the concert scene the Lancashire Bell Ringers gained two tremendous encores and refused a third; "Ten Thousand Miles Away" has been done to death. Charles Vivian in this song presents a bit of character impersonation which is inimitable and the public appreciate it as true art. All imitations are abominable. The double song and dance, "The Bloomin' Pals," by the Stanley Sisters last night was no exception to this rule, and the public showed their eminent good sense in hissing the song though they would have applauded the talented sisters in anything else. Charles Vivian received a hearty welcome and sang "The Lion of the Season," and "I'm Glad to see You Boy," and afterwards in response to a general encore told his capital story of "Jimmy Shaw," turning a deaf ear to the calls for "Ten Thousand Miles Away," which might have a rest for a time, good as it is. The railroad sensation was was well managed; the concert scene was not very brilliant and the absurdity of trying to play English pool on a table without any pocket struck many in the audience. "After Dark" is a play of thrilling sensations, and bright dialogue; it should run a couple of weeks at least.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Early California" with its mining scenes, representations of the mode of administering justice in early times, realistic steamboat scene, another triumph of the mechanical skill of George Hinckley, and exciting situations, is the talk of the town. Those who have not yet seen it should lose no time as the management intend to hurry on novelties in rapid succession. An "Early California" matinee will be given at the Metropolitan Theatre on Thursday, Washington's Birthday. The next novelty will be "Bagehot Abroad," a new four act piece. All theatre-goers will remember Bagehot, the hero of the little play "A Bull in a China Shop," and his exultant exclamation: "All is not lost—I am here!" and will be glad to follow him on his travels.

Alhambra Theatre.

Emerson's Minstrels are just now "putting in their heaviest licks," and their success in bringing down the house, is most satisfactory. Last night Emerson in his specialties, Reynolds in his challenge dance, and the farce of "The Ghost in a Pawn Shop," created lots of fun. Robinson as Mr. Falks was very good. The same programme will be repeated to-night. Three of the snow bound minstrels, Fayette Welch, the famous Ethiopian comedian and end man, Harry Stanwood, comedian and banjoist, and Charles Heywood, the renowned female impersonator, arrived yesterday morning and will make their first appearance to-morrow evening.

Bella Union.

The "Hen Convention," as the ribald press irreverently term the Woman's Rights Convention, has just terminated its sessions, and the play of "Man's Wrongs versus Woman's Rights" is most opportunely produced at the Bella Union. It is full of fun and good-natured satire on the woman movement, and should be seen by all.

The Oxford.

The burlesque of "Horizon," with Indian war-whoop, bowie knife fights, distressed damsels, heroic deliverers and panoramic scenes, will be performed at this place of amusement to-night with a varied programme of popular ballads, graceful dances and amusing negro acts.

Theatre Comique.

New programme to-night. Character sketches by Frank Mortimer, Mike Quinn in original banjo solos and Irish songs and dances, Kelly and Stuart in their clever performances, and a great number of amusing negro acts, popular ballads and fancy dances, will please all who visit this popular free-and-easy resort.

Mrs. Sedley Smith's Benefit.

So great is the rush for tickets for the extraordinary entertainment to come off to-morrow afternoon at the California Theatre that the managers have to exercise the utmost caution to prevent their getting into the hands of speculators who might perhaps force them up to a premium. Every dollar taken in will go to the widow, and everyone who buys a ticket will get three dollars' worth of amusement. "We say it, and we say it boldly." See programme in another column, and deny it if you c

MRS. ASTOR.

John Jacob Astor's Wife—A Woman of Business who Did Much to Build Up the Great Fortune.

[New York Cor. Cincinnati Commercial.]

Old Mrs. Astor was a sturdy, energetic, common-sense woman, who did her full part toward the accumulation of the colossal fortune. She possessed that wonderful equipoise of mind which decides positively and correctly. Besides this she had great practical knowledge, not only being an excellent housewife, but an accountant and saleswoman. About furs she knew more than her husband, and more often selected a cargo for export than he. In sandal wood, too, the monopoly of importation of which Mr. Astor enjoyed for nearly twenty years, she was the foremost expert in the trade.

Though the lady, when considerably advanced in years, cared nothing for society and made no pretensions to fashion, yet at her evening fire-side—the logs heaped on the andirons, the wax candles lighted, apples, nuts and pitcher of cider on the table, and her knitting work before her—she was the best of story-tellers, and made an hour or two infinitely attractive, even to young people. She was fond of gossip. The ages of people, ancient love affairs, early difficulties, failures, reasons why certain folks should not hold their heads so high, family feuds, and one knows not what else, were at her tongue's end. She told her stories graphically, and at times with a good deal of pathos. For example, take the following of Helen Brasher, who had refused six eligible offers before she was eighteen. Mr. Charles Downing, who had just left the counting-room of an eminent firm where he had served seven years, then began to pay his addresses to her. He courted her a year, and then went to Europe. While abroad he did not write. All this while there was only one of the beaux whom the mother liked. The daughter regarded this favorite of her mother with dislike—was busy when he called, avoided him where it was possible and wondered at his patience and forbearance under her scorn. One morning he caught her before she could escape from the drawing-room. Addressing her he said:

"Helen, why do you fly from me? Why will you never give me an opportunity of declaring my attachment to you? Let this morning decide my fate."

"Very well, sir," replied the lady, "I do not wish to keep any gentleman in a state of suspense. I cannot encourage your addresses. I esteem you, but I will tell you frankly that I feel a preference for Mr. Chas. Downing, and if he returns entertaining for me the same sentiments he expressed when he left, I shall probably marry him."

"Are you certainly engaged to Mr. Downing?" anxiously inquired the lover.

"No, sir; not in so many words, not verbally, in fact, but mentally."

"Then, my dear Helen, consent to be verbally engaged to me, and mentally to Mr. Downing."

"Would you marry any lady under such circumstances?"

"Yes, I would marry you under such circumstances, with all my heart and soul."

"And risk your future happiness by marrying a lady who prefers another?"

"Miss Helen," replied the devoted lover, "I will risk anything to obtain you, and shall be amply compensated for every risk if you will consent to be mine."

"True love don't go unrewarded," said Mrs. Astor, as she took a pinch of snuff.

Mr. Downing did not come back from London for many years. The New York lover was here, pressed his suit, obtained consent, and the lovely Helen became his wife.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hascks, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

THE WORLD.

'Tis all a great show,
The world that we're in—
None can tell when 'twas finished,
None saw it begin;
Men wander and gaze through
Its courts and its halls,
Like children whose love is
The picture-hung walls.

There are flowers in the meadow,
There are clouds in the sky—
Songs pour from the woodland,
The waters glide by:
Too many, too many
For eye or for ear,
The sights that we see
And the sounds that we hear.

A weight as of slumber
Comes down on the mind,
So swift is life's train
To its objects we're blind;
I myself am but one
In the fleeting show—
Like others I walk,
But know not where I go.

One saint to another
I heard say, "How long?"
I listened, but nought more
I heard of his song.
The shadows are walking
Through city and plain—
How long shall the night
And its shadow remain?

How long ere shall shine
In this glimmer of things,
The Light of which prophet
In prophecy sings?
And the gates of that city
Be open, whose sun
No more to the west
Its circuit shall run!

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in that celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

The Hidden Treasure Expedition.

Everything is ready for the departure of the expedition in search of the treasure which all are aware is buried somewhere in Cocos Island. Mrs. Welch solemnly avers that she knows where this treasure is buried, and can point out the exact spot—not making this statement on information from spirits, but on matter-of-fact grounds. The Laura, which is about to sail, is a stout brig, newly rigged and fitted up with every comfort for crew and passengers. Captain Welch is a man of much experience; and, under his careful guidance, the Laura is safe from disaster. As the time for the sailing of the expedition draws near, the stock of the company is in great demand; and many hundreds of dollars worth have been sold in the last few days. All who have come in contact with Captain Welch, and the venerable Mrs. Welch, have the greatest confidence in their integrity and honesty of purpose. It seems to them in the highest degree improbable that a lady of Mrs. Welch's years, should undertake such a voyage, unless the prospect of gaining something by it was very sure. As all the funds subscribed are expended on fitting out the vessel, and the labor necessary to obtain the hidden treasure, there can be no profit for the starters of the expedition, unless the treasure is found. Then, indeed those who have given their labor, and those who have invested their money in shares, will reap a rich reward. We hope that this expedition will succeed in unearthing the wealth which all are willing to confess is buried somewhere in Cocos Island.

A Frightened Barber.

Alexander Dumas has a barber who is full of fancies. One morning the author of Camille said: "What's the matter with you this morning, Auguste? You seem very melancholy." "Sir," replied the barber, "I have just discovered by my calculations a very terrible thing." "What is it?" asked Dumas. The barber replied: "The world is to come to an end during the first days of next year." "Bah;" "Yes, the beasts will die on the 2d of January, and and the men on the 4th, and who will come to me to be shaved on the 3d?"

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. X

A Disappointed Speculator.

The Chronicle says of E. Wilkinson, the toll keeper, at the ocean side gate, on the Mission Road, who took a dose of strychine while he was drunk, "he had been very intemperate for some time." The Chronicle does not know what drove that unhappy young man to drink. We must demand for him the sympathy of a kind hearted public. In one short minute he saw all his hopes of the future crushed, and his fortune swept away. Was not this sufficient to send any man on a drunk? Wilkinson had a scheme by which he hoped to realize a fortune. It was a scheme worthy of a great mind. By the side of the toll house—in which he dwells retired from the world, a second Timon, runs a creek; on that creek he founded his hopes of fortune—they were built on sand and proved unstable as water. Carefully and laboriously he enclosed that creek for many yards with a close picket fence and entered systematically into the culture of frogs. Night after night might the thrifty Wilkinson have been seen with lantern and net, flitting like a will o' the wisp round Lake Merced, securing immigrants to form a colony in his creek. He succeeded in forming a great ranunculan nursery, and was soothed to sleep nightly by the melodious voices of 50,000 frogs. He learned to love those frogs, and, that love was increased by the thought of what they would bring when fattened for the market. The market price for frogs is somewhere about $1. 50 a dozen. 50,000 frogs at $1. 50 a dozen, would come to $6,250. In one night 50,000 frogs, $6,250, were swept away by the floods. That night, when the ruined toll keeper went to his lonely bed no more were the gentle croakings of 50,000 frogs heard soothing him to rest. He was ruined. All his pretty amphibiious chickens were swept away. What wonder that he took to drink, in order to forget his troubles, and finding whisky not strong enough, took strychine! He is now recovering, and we hope will pluck up spirit enough to restore his nursery of frogs, and make a fortune out of them. The scheme is a good one, frogs are delicious food, as all know who have tasted them, as served up by the late lamented Marchand, and Wilkinson is the best of fellows.

An Artist Gone.

When some scarvy politician dies, the newspapers publish column obituaries. They tell of his triumphs on the stump, and give extracts from his long-winded speeches. When a great musician, or a sweet-voiced singer departs, people love to recall the many happy hours they have enjoyed in listening to them. He, whose death we with feelings of the most unfeigned regret record was neither musician, painter nor singer, yet who dare deny that he was a true artist? Many pleasant hours have the men of taste of San Francisco, enjoyed in discussing the works of Edouard Marchand, one of the most accomplished chefs de cuisine on the American continent. He was founder of the Poodle Dog Rotisserie, for some time cook of the Union Club, and at the time of his death, which took place at half past nine o'clock on Saturday evening, was proprietor of the Theatre Rotisserie, 325 Dupont street, one door South of Bush. Even in San Francisco where people who know how to eat are not too numerous, Merchand was appreciated; and his loss will be regretted. Truly we could better have spared a lawyer, a parson, a soldier, or, a politician. Good cooks are none too plentiful, and Edouard Marchand was indeed a chef.

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. W

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. CHALLENCE

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night the snowed-in minstrels who we are told kept the passengers of the blockaded trains alive by their fun and sweet music will make their first appearance in San Francisco. Fayette Welch will take his place on one end vis a vis to the inimitable Billy Emerson, and will sing a hymn of triumph over the dangers he has escaped, entitled "Cock-a-doodle-do." In the second part Harry Stanwood will talk, sing and play the banjo; Heywood will sing "Thou art my Own, my Heart's Delight," "Sweet Spirit Hear my Prayer," and, we fancy, a few more songs unless the audience are more lenient than usual in the matter of encores. Fayette Welch will present "The Last Sensation;" Emerson will appear in his specialities, other acts will be given and the performance will conclude with the burlesque entitled "The Rival Prima Bonnas," in which Charles Heywood will appear in three characters, supported by Fayette Welch, Billy Emerson and company.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Many attractive additions have been made to the play of "Early California" since its first performance and the numerous mechanical effects of the boat on the bay which hoists its sails and sails away, the trains crossing the mountains, the express rider, and others, are received nightly with much applause. Harry Howard receives nightly encores for his banjo song "The days of Forty-nine." J. H. Dorhman deserves credit for the Gold song, capitally sung by James M. Hardy; it is a very pretty composition. This is the last week of "Early California," as "Bagshot Abroad," is to be produced on Monday; it will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

"After Dark" is evidently bound to have a run. It was repeated last night, another immense audience being present, and manifesting their pleasure by loud and frequent applause. The faults in the first performance were all corrected. J. C. Williamson's Dicey Morris was much better; the play went off splendidly. Boucicault mingles sense and sensation so happily that his plays must be popular with all classes and "After Dark" is one of his best productions.

Bella Union.

The Valse de Gizelle, by M'lle Marie Gaugain, and Miss Carrie Chapman, is one of the most artistic and graceful terpsichorean performances seen on the San Francisco stage for some time. M'lle Eugenia Gerretta's beautiful act, entitled "Spherical Statues," is very pretty, Maggie Knight's songs and dances are very popular. Fanny Garretson sings sweet ballads, Marie Zoel and Chris Mathews appear in double song and dance, and the amusing play of "Man's Wrongs versus Woman's Rights" terminates the evening's entertainment.

The Oxford.

The reigning attractions at this popular place of amusement are the Japanese dwarf Tommy, and the burlesque of "Horrid Zone," with its host of gamblers, Indians, Soldiers, and others by the Oxford Company. A first part and interlude of songs, dances, and acts, preceed the burlesque.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer's lightning changes, Eva Silva's beautiful ballads, Mike Quinn's Irish acts, and banjo solos, the new act of the "Two Senators from Sacramento," and the farce of "Robert Macaire," are only a few of the attractive features in the entertainment offered to-night.

Mrs. Sedley Smith's Benefit.

As all the numerous attractive features of the immense programme to be performed at the matinee at the California Theatre to-day for the benefit of the widow of the late W. H. Sedley Smith, are particularized in another column, it is needless to enumerate them here. Seldom has such a programme ever been presented in any part of the world.

The Opera.

The box-office is now open for the sale of tickets for Friday night, when Signora Adelina Franchol will make her debut in California in the opera of "Ernani." More than half of the seats in the dress circle are already taken.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Disgraceful Fraud.

An Iowa gentleman was recently foiled in his laudable purpose of committing suicide by the reprehensible conduct of an apothecary, who gave him prepared chalk for arsenic, and the might-have-been widow threatens to sue the apothecary for obtaining money under false pretenses.

The Late W. H. Sedley Smith.

As the benefit to the widow of W. H. Sedley Smith takes place this afternoon at the California Theatre, the following more full account of his life, and professional services than we have hitherto published, will be of interest to thousands who have purchased tickets for the benefit to his widow:

He was born in Wales; Dec. 4, 1806, and left home to try his fortunes in the world when a boy. Beginning as a "call boy," at the Shrewsbury Theatre, then under the management of Mr. Crisp, he soon personated some minor characters. By degrees he worked his way into the position of a regular actor, and in 1820 he became engaged as "walking gentleman" at the Theatre Royal, Lancaster. In 1824 he was engaged for light comedy and juvenile tragedy by Edward Seymore, manager of the Theatre Royal, Glasgow, and in 1827, he had risen to the rank of a "star," in which capacity he obtained much popularity in a provincial circuit. Having received a liberal offer from Messrs Simpson and Cowell, he sailed for this country May 16, 1827, being engaged to play in Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington. He made his first appearance in this country at the Walnut street Theatre, Philadelphia, as Jeremy Diddler, in "Raising The Wind," and Lothair, in "The Miller and his Men." His success was gained at once, and he became popular both on the stage and off. Four weeks after his arrival he received from Mr. Cowell the appointment of stage manager. In 1828 he made his first appearance before a Boston audience, at the Tremont Theatre, as Rolando, in "The Honeymoon." His reception was very enthusiastic, and he became a favorite. The following year he assumed the duties of stage manager of the Tremont, and he remained connected with that establishment until 1836, when he was engaged by Mr. Pelby, as stage manager of the old National Theatre. He became as great a favorite at this house as he had been at the Tremont, and his accomplishments won for him popularity in social circles as well as upon the stage. In 1840 he went to Philadelphia and became connected with the Arch street Theatre. But, in 1842, he was summoned back to Boston by Mr. Moses Kemball, who had determined upon establishing dramatic entertainments, in connection with the Boston Museum, which was then situated on the corner of Tremont and Bromfield streets, where Horticultural Hall now stands. From 1843, to 1860, a period of seventeen years, he filled the position of stage manager of the Museum, and with very marked success, as the play-going public well know. He frequently appeared upon the stage, latterly assuming a different line of characters than that which he had appeared in at the Tremont and National. Sir Anthony Absolute, Sir Robert Bramble, Sir George Thunder, Colonel Hardy, and Admiral Franklin better fitted his increasing years, and it will be well remembered how admirably he sustained these and many other characters in the line of "old men."

For some years after retiring from the Museum, and before coming to California, he sought rest in a quiet country life. But his love for the stage soon took him behind the footlights again. A few months since, the death of a minstrel performer of a similar name gave currency to the report of the death of the subject of this sketch, and his demise was then telegraphed over the country. The deceased leaves a son, who is connected with the New York Times as dramatic and musical critic, and a daughter; who has been upon the stage.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haseke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Clayton, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

An Agreeable Stimulant.

Dr. Abernethy's Green Ginger Brandy is agreeable, aids digestion and purifies the blood. Chenery, Souther & Co., are sole agents for San Francisco. Q

A DREAM.

BY OLIVE HARPER.

Hand in hand on the beach we walked,
In a blissful dream last night;
The waves came up and kissed the shore;
Foaming and silvery white:
The moon looked down with tender eye,
The stars shone out in the azure sky,
And the sweet south wind blew softly by,
As hand in hand on the beach we walked,
And of love's sweet fancies idly talked;
And the hours went floating by.

Ah! how the sweet, sweet words come back,
As I think of my last night's dream.
Strange, that a misty, shadowy thing,
So wondrously real can seem.
For love is only a flower of June,
The waning light of an autumn moon,
The tender notes of a low sweet tune
That breaks in a dreamy afternoon,
Charming the heart and the senses away
Adurling us on with a childish play,
That endeth, ah me! so soon.

I have dreamed my dream, I am now awake,
I will cast the thing away;
I never will touch the broken toy,
Nor ever with love will I play.
For love is a bird that but comes with the spring;
When the cold winds blow it plumeth his wing,
And flieth away; yet still will sing,
Though all my life its echoing
And my heart will ache and I will sigh,
When the ghosts come back from the days gone by.
Love is a sorrowful thing.

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred:"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Bumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Disobliging.

An old lady went into the crowded ticket office of the Central Pacific Railway Station the other day and asked for a ticket. "Where for?" asked the clerk. "Well, now I declare, I've forgotten the name of the place," said the old lady. "I know it's somewhere on your line. I wish you'd read over a few of the names and when you come to it I'll stop you. The uncivil clerk actually refused to comply with the old lady's request. Some people are so disobliging.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and success" treatment and moderate charges to all."

The Law of Libel.

A correspondent of the London Sunday Times says:

The Law of Libel seems to be in almost as unsatisfactory a state as the law of copyright and it is to be hoped some wise man will arise to effect vigorous reforms on both these heads. Newspaper writers in the present day have to be as careful as if they were walking blindfold in the midst of red hot ploughshares, and novelists wield the pen with a dozen] swords of D amocles hanging over their heads. Matters of taste, matters of opinion, matters of criticism, are held to be libellous] in many instances, and writers, unless they are laudatory, had better put their pen in its case and let their ink dry up. We must be very polite and affable in the present day. If we go on the rate we have been going, lately, the occupation of critic and reviewer, and even special correspondent and reporter will be gone. One thing I particularly want to know. It is this: Why is it that while all our great and popular men, all our combatants in the political arena are in the habit of being severely pounded, and receiving the sharpest blows, and yet always come up to the time smiling. Other people should be so vastly particular and marvellously thin-skinned?

Lock and Key.

Patrick Murphy likes his whisky, and Mrs. Murphy in order to keep him from spending his money in saloons, keeps a bottle in the cupboard. Last Sunday, Mrs. Murphy, anxious that Pat should not get drunk while she was at church, looked the cupboard containing the whisky. Pat finding this out took off the lock, and took several horns of whisky and then presented himself at St. Mary's Cathedral in a pretty lively condition, just as his wife was coming out. "Biddy," said he, "have you the kay of the cupboard." "I have that," answered his better half. "Well, then," said Pat, producing the lock, "here's the kay hole; you can put it in."

Ridiculous.

We know it is foolish to count one's chickens before they are hatched, therefore we consider the lines in the New York Corner Stone "To Our Unborn Infant" absurdly ridiculous.

Job's Ice Cream Saloon.

The best place for Ladies and Gentlemen after the theatre to get fine Oysters, Ice Cream and Fancy Candies is at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush. The old pioneer, P. Job, always on hand

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. x

The Overland Monthly.

The Overland Monthly for March is out. It is a better number than has appeared for months. The first article, entitled "Some Savages," is remarkably well written, and is one of the most interesting ever published. In it we are introduced to the leading men among the Apaches and Navajoes, and make the acquaintance of real live Indians who are represented neither as incarnate fiends, nor as noble savages; but simply as they are. This one paper should gain for the March number of the Overland an extensive sale in all parts of the United States. "Taboo—A Fete-day in Tahiti," contains some warmly colored word pictures of tropical life. It is evidently by Charles Warren Stoddard. Verses entitled "A Lyric of Life" are pretty. "The Gorge of the Columbia," is one of the admirable papers on Oregon which have become a distinctive feature of the Overland. The best writers for the Overland Monthly are those who have something to write about. Those who have to "make up" a story don't do so well. "Ferns and Wild Oats" is a piece of sickly sentimental fine writing, without a touch of reality in it. Aunt Effie is a female Mr. Barlow, who takes a couple of girls who will pass for Sanford and Merton into the woods and twaddles to them. There is an artificial story about Earl Grey (Heavens what a name!) and a girl named Annie. The whole composition is modeled on T. S. Arthur's mildest milk-and-water maunderings. "Pacific Sea Coast Views," useful to intending immigrants; style, that of the average newspaper correspondent. "Leslie Lyon," really beautiful verses by Alice Cary, published for the first time. "Too Late," rather a good story, not local, told with some vigor. "Chinese Triennial Examinations," a very interesting paper containing valuable hints to our civil service reformers. "All about Sea Lions," not original or new. Part II of "Seth Deane's Revelation" is better than Part I, and the story as a whole is a very good one, capitally worked out. It is so good that we are sure that all who have read it would be glad to hear more of Seth Deane, and will be anxious for the year and a day to expire, in order that he may tell them all about the "revelation" which made such a change in him. The author's name is not given, but we think J. F. Bowman has aired some of his metaphysical ideas in "Seth Deane's Revelation." "The Brook" is a pleasant rippling little poem but we don't like

Bird colonies
From over seas.

It sticks in the flowing brook like an ugly plank. "Etc." opens with a labored apostrophe to Spring; we think some one has written an apostrophe to Spring before. We think we have had something of this kind before: "But now it is Spring time! The hills are garnishing their proud heights with flowers and verdure. The meek valleys put on their emerald hue, etc. etc. etc." "Garnishing" is good; only it reminds one of beef—beef "garnished" with parsley. "Current Literature" contains some well written criticisms of new books. Altogether, the March number of the Overland Monthly is quite a success.

A Miracle.

Pretty teacher—Now, Johnny Wells, can you tell me what is meant by a miracle? Johnny—Yes, ma'am. Mother says if you don't marry our new parson, that it will be a miracle.

A boarding house keeper mixed some patent medicine in her hash because it was advertised as a cure for consumption.

HORATIO SPARKLES happening to meet a young lady friend in Kearney street, the other day, was struck by the beauty of design of a lovely set of jewelry she was wearing, which she told him she had lately purchased at Hirchman's jewelry store, 133 Kearny street.

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. W

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

Trying to do Good.

There are not too many unselfish people in the world. A journal of amusements is not exactly the kind of paper to send the following to, but as the motive of the writer is simply to do good, we have not the heart to refuse to publish it. We hope it may enable some person suffering from this dreadful disease to escape the surgeon's knife. Wild tea grows in California as well as in Pennsylvania:

EDITOR FIGARO:—In 1864 a cancer came on my right arm. After much suffering, and the failure of all other remedies, I had it burned with caustic. It broke out again in my right hand. Last Spring it grew very very fast, the hand becoming so helpless that I had to carry it in a sling. Fearing my hand would have to be amputated, and having heard that several persons had been cured of cancer by drinking wild tea, and poulticing with the tea grounds, I began using wild tea in earnest. I drank nothing else at my meals, and in four weeks my hand was as well as ever. I know of two persons that have been cured of cancer within the past few months by drinking wild tea. Wild tea grows over the country generally. This remedy should have the widest publicity.

J. B. WILLIAMS,
Health officer, Allegheny City, Pa.

His Experience.

An interior paper tells of an impecunious young chap who asked the advice of the editor as to whether he had better marry "a young and tender angel who had never done her own washing and dress-making." The editor advised him to do so by all means, and take the chances on her learning. He said his own experience led him to believe in such things, for, when he married, his wife knew nothing of washing or ironing; but, she was a noble, self-sacrificing creature, and in a few months she had become so fond of the washtub as to not only do her own and husband's washing, but that of several of their neighbors!

High-toned Journalism.

Here is a Missouri paper's notion of the high calling of journalism: "We are compelled to make this week's issue almost exclusively a local and advertisement paper; but look out for next week's. It will be one of the gayest, fiercest, hottest papers that ever went forth from an American newsraggery."

Washington's Character.

In the final contemplation of his character, we shall not hesitate to pronounce Washington, of all men that have ever lived, the greatest of good men and the best of great men." Nor let this judgment be attributed to national partiality. In the year 1779, Mr. Rufus King, then the Minister in London, wrote to General Hamilton, "No one, who has not been in England, can have a just idea of the admiration expressed among all parties for General Washington. It is a common observation that he is not only the most illustrious, but the most meritorious character that has yet appeared." Lord Erskine, in writing to Washington about the same time, says, "You are the only human being for whom I ever felt an awful reverence." Mr. Charles James Fox remarks of him, "that a character of virtues so happily tempered by one another and so wholly unalloyed by any vices as that of Washington is hardly to be found on the pages of history." Lord Brougham in his brilliant comparative sketch of Napoleon and Washington after a glowpicture of the virtues and vices of the great conqueror, exclaims: "How grateful the relief, which the friend of mankind, the lover, of virtue, experience, when turning from the contemplation of such a character, his eye rests upon the greatest man of our own or of any age, the only one upon whom an epithet, so thoughtlessly lavished by men may be innocently and justly bestowed!" Nor are these testimonies confined to Englishmen, in whom they might be supposed to be inspired in some degree, by Anglo-Saxon sympathy. When the news of his death reached France, Fontanes by direction of Napoleon, delivered an eloquent eulogium, in which he declared him to be "a character worthy the best days of antiquity." M. Guizot, a far higher authority, in his admirable essay on the character of Washington, pronounces that "of all great men he was the most virtuous and the most fortunate."—Edward Everett.

The Corner Loafer Sketched.

The young man on the corner, with his hat a little to one side, the stub of a cheap cigar in his mouth, and a stare for every lady who passes, is a loafer. Do you know where he gets his money? His mother earns it for him by taking in washing. Poor soul! She thinks her boy will get work soon. He could find work to keep him busy fifteen hours a day if he wanted it. But he is a lazy loafer and don't want to work. If he does get a place he shirks or does his work so badly that he is soon discharged. He never works for the same man twice. Or perhaps he is particular what kind of work he does with his own hands. He looks down on that sweaty carpenter who hurries by him, he nods condescendingly at his friend the shoemaker, and sends a whiff of smoke into the eyes of the painter with both hands full of paint pots and brushes. He could not borrow ten cents of one of them. They know he would never pay it. They earn their money. He begs his of mother. Stylish boy, isn't he?

A cynical individual, on reading a pathetic story in one of the papers lately, noted in his memorandum book as follows: "Somebody whistled. Teacher calls up big boy on suspicion. Big boy comes up and holds out his hand sullen and savage. Noble little boy comes manfully forward and says: "I'm the boy that whistled sir, at the same time extending his hand. Teacher simmers down and lets them both off. (Mem— noble little boy thought teacher wouldn't lick him if he told the truth, and knew the big boy would if he didn't.)" S

Washington's Personal Appearance and Social Habits.

General Washington's personal appearance was in harmony with his character; it was a model of manly strength and beauty. He was about six feet two inches in height, and his person well proportioned—in the earlier part of life rather spare, and never too stout for active and graceful movement. The complexion inclined to the florid; the eyes were blue and remarkably far apart; a profusion of brown hair was drawn back from the forehead, highly powdered according to the fashion of the day, and gathered in a bag behind. He was scrupulously neat in his dress, and while in camp, though he habitually left his tent at sunrise, he was usually dressed for the day. His strength of arm, and his skill and grace as a horseman, have been already mentioned. His power of endurance was great, and there have been occasions—as at the retreat of Long Island, and the battle of Princeton, when he was scarcely out of his saddle for two days. Punctilious in his observance of the courtesies of society, as practiced in his day, he was accustomed down to the period of his inauguration for President at the balls given in his honor, to take part in a minuet or country dance. His general manner in large societies, though eminently courteous, was marked by a certain military reserve. In smaller companies he was easy and affable, but not talkative.

Here He is Again.

New York claims him now—the one hundred and thirteen years old man who voted for all the Presidents, saws wood, was the groom of Washington, body servant of Jackson, coachman of Jefferson, and barber to Franklin. He walks twenty-two miles every morning before breakfast, has used rum and tobacco for eighty-five years, and never was sick a day in his life. His teeth are in the highest state of preservation, he can read agate type by moonlight, and can hear the lowest whisper at a distance of several miles, etc. etc.

"George was always that way," is what a Washoe bride said when the groom failed to put in an appearance for the ceremony.

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

It would have been hard if, after the new performers at the Alhambra, venturing thousands of miles through the snow, the public of San Francisco had refused to go a little way through the rain to welcome them. This was not the case. The Alhambra was filled to suffocation last night. Fayette Welch was the first to make his appearance, and at once gave the audience a favorable impression of his talent by his clever performance with the tamborine, lively songs and funny stories in the first part. Billy Emerson was stimulated to even greater exertions than usual by the infusion of new talent in the entertainment, and kept his end up nobly. The first part over, Harry Stanwood made his appearance, and performed several banjo solos in an originally characteristic style; and made the audience laugh heartily at funny stories delivered in a highly humorous manner which was very telling. Mr. Stanwood understood his audience at a glance, and knew how to suit them. He was encored four times. Heywood, the great soprano, is one of the most pleasing imitators of female vocalists we have ever heard; his voice is a natural soprano, and he seldom uses falsetto; and, the absence of that painful straining which too often mars the efforts of singers of this class, made his singing very enjoyable. All the new comers are bound to become popular favorites as they are bright and versatile, have good business of their own, and will learn much more here. Fayette Welch appeared in the interlude in an original version of the "Lively Moke" business playing on novel instruments never before seen here, and afterward danced a capital jig. The act of "The Ghost in a Pawn Shop" was played by George and Charles Reynolds, and J. Robinson-Emerson appeared in his specialties, and the performance concluded with the burlesque of "The Rival Prima Donnas," in which Heywood surpassed his former efforts of vocalism and was ably supported by Billy Emerson, Fayette Welch, and others. The company at the Alhambra Theatre is now complete and an extraordinarily fine entertainment is given.

California Theatre.

Boucicault's "After Dark," with its striking situations, cleverly drawn characters, sparkling dialogues and attractive scenery, will be played this evening. The concert-room scene and the great sensation of the railway train are admirably carried out, and the curtain falls nightly to the pleasing sound of hearty applause. "After Dark" will be performed at the matinee on Saturday.

Metropolitan Theatre.

An extra matinee will be given to-day—Washington's Birthday—and "Early California," with its many scenes awakening reminiscences of California's best days, will be played. The same play will be performed in the evening. With the numerous features introduced by the stage manager the play is now very complete, and contains many attractive scenes which please the eye.

Bella Union.

The scene representing the female firemen in council in the play of "Man's Wrongs vs. Woman's Rights" is a very lively one, and nightly causes roars of laughter. The first part and interlude which precede the play are of the most lively description. The full programme may be found on our first page, and is most ably carried out every evening.

The Oxford.

The burlesque of "Horizon" is a popular card at this house, and the Japanese Dwarf Tommy causes much amusement. A well arranged programme will be performed to-night. To-morrow evening Charley Evans and Johnny Reilly, who have many friends in the profession and among the general public, will have a benefit, when extraordinary attractions will be offered.

Theatre Comique.

There is a constant change in the entertainment at this popular resort. Miss Eva Silva and Frank Mortimer continue to be great favorites; Johnny Kelly and Henri Stuart are great in "The Clydsters;" Mike Quinn performs wonders on the banjo, and all the company do their best to amuse.

Mrs. Sedley Smith's Benefit.

Long before the doors of the California Theatre were opened yesterday every seat for the matinee entertainment for the benefit of Mrs. W. H. Sedley Smith was sold. The house presented a most brilliant appearance. It was a general remark that all the pretty girls in San Francisco seemed to be present; we certainly never saw so many gathered together at any theatrical entertainment given in this city before. The programme was admirably carried out. Among the most popular features, though all were excellent we must mention the very comical reading of "Schneider's Ride," by J. C. Williamson, which sent the audience into fits of laughter; "Barbara Fritchie," recited with charming feeling and expression by Miss Ellie Wilton; "Robin Adair," sung in a delightful manner by Miss Helen C. Dingeon, (no one but Parepa-Rosa could have sung it better;) Maggie Moore's bewitching song and dance, "Don't You wish that You were Me;" the comedietta of "A Happy Pair," in which Miss Rose Evans proved herself the most charming of comediennes, as she is the most talented of juvenile tragediennes, and Mr. Blumenthal performed his part creditably for one not specially adapted by nature for genteel comedy; "Largo al Factotum," finely sung by Signor Mancusi; a pas seul danced with charming grace by M'lle Marie Gaugain; a buffo duet, well sung by Fred Lyster and Stephen Leach; a ballad beautifully sung by Mrs. Julia Melville, and a very pretty little dance by La Petite Wilson. Mr. Raynor gave us a very free and easy Hamlet in the closet scene and startled rather than pleased the audience, accustomed to a more serious representation of the character. Altogether the entertainment was a grand success. It lasted from 1 o'clock until nearly 5, and no one was wearied, so admirably were the acts arranged and placed on the stage by Messrs. Eberlie and Edwards, the stage managers for the occasion.

Off for New York.

Manager McCullough, of the California Theatre, left this morning for New York, where he will engage talent for the theatre. He will make but a short stay.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

To the Theatrical Profession.

Life-size pictures taken at $5 each, by the Patent Solar Prismal process. A quantity will be taken at much reduced prices. Bush & Still, photographers, junction of Geary and Market, entrance on Market streets. G

Kissing in the United States.

When a wild lark attempts to steal a kiss from a Nantucket girl, she says: "Come sheer off, or I'll split your mainsail with a typhoon." The Boston girls hold up until they are well kissed, when they flare up and say: "I think you ought to ashamed."—Boston Transcript.

When a young man steals a kiss from an Alabama girl she says: "I reckon its my time now," and she gives him a box on the ear that he don't forget for a week.—Irvington Herald.

When a clever fellow steals a kiss from a Louisiana girl she smiles, blushes deeply and says—nothing. We think our girl have more taste and common sense than those down East and Alabama. If a man is smart enough to steal the divine luxury from them, they are perfectly satisfied.—N. O. Picayune.

When a female is here saluted with a buss she puts on her bonnet and shawl and answereth thus: "I am astonished at thy assurance, Jedediah; for this indignity I will sew thee up."—Lynn Record.

The ladies in this city receive a salute with Christian meekness; they follow the Scripture rule—when smitten on one cheek they turn the other also.—Bungtown Chronicle.

An Elko gal has no nonsense in kissing. She puckers her mouth and says: "Go it, if you want it; if you don't, stand one side and give the other feller a chance," and that's the end of it so far as we know.—Elko Independent.

Playing with Edged Tools.

Yes, this is what usually comes of playing with edged tools. A fellow up in Oregon thought he would be smart and just have a little fun with a young lady on whom he had waited two or three times. He asked her what she would do if a nice looking young fellow asked her to marry him. She smiled, oh, so gushingly, and looked good enough to eat, but said nothing. Then he asked her what she would say if he asked her to marry him. She threw her arms around him, and rushed right out of the room for her hat and shawl. The poor fellow says he has never married so sudden in his life. Probably that was the nearest she ever came to being asked, and she thought fooling around with sentiment would be dangerous.

Well! Well!

The Yolo Democrat says:

The act enabling the Trustees of Woodland School District to mortgage the school property of the district to the extent of eight thousand dollars, in order to raise that amount of money with which to finish off the new school edifice and fence and decorate the grounds, has passed the Senate.

We thought the Woodland Lottery was to do that. That is the only reason we bought tickets of Aronson & Dietz. We didn't want to enrich them. All we wanted was to see that school edifice finished. Where in thunder has all that lottery money gone to?

Baby Food.

MRS. —— (to young mother) Have you found a nurse for your baby yet?

YOUNG MOTHER—Yes, a very nice woman, not very young, though about forty-five.

MRS. —— What does she feed the child on then?"

YOUNG MOTHER—Oh, I believe she gives it cheese.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. Claston, the veteran chef and caterer, who probably knows as much of the art of good living as any man in the United States, attends to the salads and other bonnes bouches.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

An Agreeable Stimulant.

Dr. Abernethy's Green Ginger Brandy is agreeable, aids digestion and purifies the blood. Chenery, Souther & Co., are sole agents for San Francisco. Q

The Ball Season.

There are many balls being given just now. Gentlemen should go for fashionable cravats to P. Beamish, late of Beamish & Gibson, who has removed to the corner of Market and Third streets, Nucleus Building (Ward's Shirt Store.) Q

SHALL WE EVER MEET AGAIN?

Shall we ever meet again
In the woodland by the sea?
Will the moment bringing pain
To the heart, and to the brain,
Come again to thee and me?
Shall we hear again the moaning
Of the ocean to the shore,
Like the ever low intoning
Of a celebrant, Lenore—
Shall we ever meet again?
Ah me, that Joy should borrow
A thorn to wound the heart
From the pale-red rose of Sorrow!
Adieu! for we must.

We may never meet again
In the woodland by the sea;
But the song, and the refrain,
Which we sang beside the main,
Will be ever dear to me.
There is no sun that shineth
But hath its spot of shade;
The brightest day declineth,
And sweetest rosest fade.
We may never meet again,
Ah me, that Love should borrow
A thorn to wound the heart
From the pale-red role of Sorrow!
Adieu! for we must part.

FOR FINELY FLAVORED SAUSAGES, HAMS, Bacon, etc., all made of the best grain fed pork, go to E. F. Bunker's Stall, 74 and 75 California Market. Mr. Bunker's club sausages, for flavor and delicacy, equal any ever made east of the Sierras, and he cuts up nothing but first-class meats. V

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Baumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This theatre was crammed full at the matinee performance yesterday and again in the evening. Thousands during the two entertainments enjoying the many exciting scenes presented in the drama of "Early California." This play will be performed to-night, at the matinee to-morrow, and doubtless will attract large audiences, as it must be withdrawn shortly.

Alhambra Theatre.

Long before the curtain rose last night the Alhambra Theatre was packed as full as a sardine box and hundreds of late comers were unable to get in. The new comers confirmed the good opinions they gained on the first night. Fayette Welch was funnier than ever, Harry Stanwood told new stories and sung new songs, and was encored again and again, and Heywood sang beautifully. His remarkable voice is the talk of the town. Billy Emerson and his original band, the Reynolds Brothers and others, do not allow themselves to be overshadowed by the new artists clever as they are, as the thunders of applause they nightly receive sufficiently prove. To gain a seat at the Alhambra it is absolutely necessary to go before eight o'clock. The new artists will all appear at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

Hundreds of persons were unable to obtain admission last night and "standing room only" was announced at the door before eight o'clock. To-night "After Dark," will be played again. It will be presented at the matinee to-morrow and in the evening for the last time. Those who wish to see Charles Wheatleigh in one of his best impersonations should see him in Tom, the Boardman.

Maguire's Opera House.

To-night the beautiful opera of "Ernani" will be performed and Signora Adelina Frenchel, a prima donna of whose voice, talent, and fine stage presence we hear great things, will make her first appearance in the role of Elvira, Signor Bianchi will appear as Ernani, Signor Contini as Carlo V, Signor Roncovieri as Silva, Mrs. Evans as Giovanna, and Mons. Charles as Ricardo. Should the verdict of the public be favorable, a season of six operas will be given with Signora Frenchel as prima donna. Maguire's Opera House to night will be crowded with the beauty and fashion of the city, a large proportion of the seats having already been taken.

Bella Union.

This popular theatre was crowded last night and the performance gave the greatest satisfaction. After a capital first part, in which Mat Kelly's new version of "If Ever I Cease to Love," is a feature, an interlude is given in which Maggie Knight appears in character songs; M'lle Marie Gangain and Miss Carrie Chapman in a beautiful pas de deux; the graceful Eugenia Gerretta in posturings on the globe, and the new play of "Man's Wrongs versus Woman's Rights" concludes a very enjoyable entertainment.

The Oxford.

"Oh! Rise On!" The new burlesque at the Oxford causes much laughter. It is preceded by a first part and interlude in which Charley Vincent Miss Lizzie Harmon, Miss Amelia Dean and many others appear. The performance to-night will be for the benefit of Johnny Reilly, the song and dance man, and Charley Evans, the vocalist; and extra additions will be presented,

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer's lightning changes draw much applause from the audience; Mike Quinn is very amusing in his Irish acts and banjo solos; Miss Eva Silva's sweet ballads are very popular, and a great number of amusing negro acts are presented. The ever-popular Miss Sally Thayer will make her first appearance to-night. To-morrow evening a sensation production entitled "Snow Bound; or, the trial and Conviction of Brigham Young," will be presented for the first time.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Strongest-minded.

The woman in the United States died at Albans last week. She had been a smuggler on the Canada frontier for many years, and had amassed an ill-gotten fortune of $100,000. She had been arrested some dozens of times, but always broke jail successfully. She was at one time hampered by a husband, but she led him to commit larceny, had him put in jail, and obtained a divorce while he was incarcerated.

Worse Still.

One of Sheridan's plays, having proved a complete failure, he was standing in a disconsolate mood in front of the theatre when a bore came up and condoled with him on the ill reception his play had met with. "I can sympathize with you my dear Sheridan," said the bore, "I don't know anything worse than a damned play." "I do," growled Sheridan, "a d——d fool!

The ashes of Columbus, which have already made as many voyages as the living navigator, are to be again disturbed. The Havanese, who have had possession of the mortal remains of the discoverer of America since 1746, propose to remove them to a new cemetery, and erect over them a new monument. Undoubtedly there are not a few citizens of of the United States who would be glad to give something toward the cost of such a memorial, especially if they thought it would some day be included within the limits of the Republic.

It is said that William M. Tweed has no desire to enter the Kingdom of Heaven since he has read Rev. XIV. 2, and learned that there will be Harper's there.

Calling on Forrest.

The Leavenworth, (Kan.) Commercial says: It is well known that the eminent tragedian, Edwin Forrest, performed at the Opera House on the 1st and 2d January. On New Year's day, several citizens headed by Judge Lecompte, after a severe caucus, concluded that it was due to the king of tragedy that his admirers should call upon him. That started the gorgeous party to the Planters', where each having written his name on a card, a boy was called and directed to convey the pasteboards to Forrest.

The boy opened the door, supposing himself to be invited, and found Forrest pacing the floor and reciting the following lines:

What is the people but a herd confused,
A miscellaneous rabble, who extol
Things vulgar, and well weighed, scarce worth the praise?
They praise, and they admire, they know not what,
And know not when, but one leads the other;
And what delight to be by such extolled,
To live upon their tongue and be their talk,
And to be talked to by them!

"Mr. Ferrest!"

"Well, what do you want?"

The boy handed the cards.

"G—d d—n the cards. Take them back. I don't want to be annoyed. I'm sick."

The trembling, pale-faced lad descended and delivered the message.

Our friends took a vote, and after much debate concluded not to call.

Just then a gentleman, a Mr. King, of New York, stepped up to the clerk. "Does Mr. Forrest stop here, sir?"

Clerk—"Yes, sir," calling a boy, "Show this gentleman to Mr. Forrest's room.

They start, the lately snubbed crowd following like conspirators.

Gent knocks—Forrest heard within.

Oh that I were on some desert coast!
Where tempests and the lashing tide
Would stun me into deep and senseless quiet!
Come madness! Come unto me senseless death!
I cannot suffer this!

Forrest—"What do you want?"

"I'm a gentleman from New York."

Voice within—"Go back to New York, G—d d—n you. Don't annoy me; I'm sick."

This tickled the Leavenworth party, and they went up street in improved spirits.

Meeting by accident Judge Flexible, they stopped to chat.

"By the way," said the wicked Doty, "we have just been calling on Forrest. We have had a very pleasant interview, and found him at his best. You ought to call on him judge, as he is lonesome and would appreciate the attention."

"Well, I will. I'll go right down."

Down he went. The venerable "Jep" was at the desk.

"Jep," said the judge "have me shown to Forrest's room."

Just then the conspirators appeard headed by Thompson's fur cap."

The judge went up and knocked at the door.

"It's I, sir! a citizen—Judge Flexible—come to pay my respects."

"Your respects be d—d! get out of that—I'm sick, and will not be annoyed."

Exeunt omnes in various moods.

Several other gentlemen were afterward induced to call on the tragedian with similar results.

Forrest's personal habits are not generally regarded as conciliatory, but our citizens are prepared to affirm that they found Edwin one of the best-natured, amiable, and genial of spirits.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra.

Flowing Locks.

It is pretty well known that the most attractive belles in San Francisco, owe a great portion of their charms to the art of Felix Pyatt, of 424 Kearny street, who has such an immense stock of flowing tresses, that he is disposing of them at as low prices as they could be purchased for in Europe.

Dickey's Creme de Lis

Pretty Warm.

The Boston Saturday Evening Gazette an eminently respectable paper and one not apt to get in a passion, thus "gives it to" Miss Helen Mansfield. She won't sue for libel though:

From all the the accounts we have heard of this creature, she appears to be a cold, crafty, relentless, and unloving fiend—one of those anomalies in nature that appear once or twice in a century to puzzle psychologists, and to point a moral and adorn a tale. Stripped of all the romance that elegant dress, paint, powder, and temporary beauty give her, she ranks no higher than the common strumpet who decoys her victims to her lair, and picks his pockets. Cover the poor wretch who walks the street for a shameful livelihood with the silks and satins of her more prosperous sisters, and who shall know the difference be'ween them? It cannot but be a source of congratulation in the hearts of those in whom a sense of stern and unrelenting justice rules, that the time shall surely come when she who has wallowed in sin without need, and continued in it without shame, shall at length come to die in the same gutter, or in the same hospital bed, as the poor wretch who has fallen because she has known no better.

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, Harry Stanwood, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Bumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Look Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in their celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

The Advantages of Civilization.

Good gracious! What is civilization, as we call it, doing for Japan? Among other fresh items of intelligence from that favored land is the information that a great many fires have occurred at Yeddo from the careless use of kerosene. Not content with blowing ourselves up, and roasting our children and destroying our houses, we must send this diabolical fluid to heretofore happy Japan, there there to work the same hot mischief and misery. We should not be at all surprised, and nobody would have a right to complain, if the Mikado should totally prohibit the importation of these mean mixtures into Japan. It will be observed that we take it for granted that the kerosene in question is American; such is the reasonable presumption until the contrary is proved; though possibly there may be a Yankee making it in Yedo.

How Nice!

This is the way they describe a snow storm in the Conyers (Ga.) Examiner: "Last Friday morning, on arousing from our slumbers, we found the whole face of creation covered with snow. Pretty soon the sun smiled down upon the scene. It was one of the most beautiful sights our eyes have ever yet lit upon. We want a comparison—thy own fair bosom, dearest Clara.

Sweet Description.

In describing a young man's love affair with an actress, a Western reporter says: His heart still wolloped faithfully for the actress, and, as soon as his returning feet honored our shore he flew to her on the wings of love and impatience. Ought not some lover of the English language to wollop that reporter?

A little Danbury girl, when asked by her mother about suspicious little bites in the sides of a dozen choice apples, answered: 'Perhaps mamma, they may have been frost bitten: it was so cold last night." The mother retreated.

Here's a comical advertisement: "To the Drapery Trade: Wanted a young man, to be partly out-door, and partly behind the counter." What will be the result when the door slams?

Editors' Eccentricities.

In noting some of the eccentricities of our out-of-town editors, their peculiarities in the uses of words have not received so much attention as certain vagaries in their methods of thought and expression. We would be surprised to find in one our city dailies such a local as this:

A new gas main is being injected into the bowels of State street.

Yet such paragraphs are freely used a few miles East of us. Here is a local which sums up the entire mechanics of suicide in very few words and in peculiar style:

More men kill themselves than women Women prefer jumping into the water; men prefer to blow their brains out. Aged men cut their throats and aged women take to ropes. More single persons commit suicide than married, more divorced persons than widowers.

What do you think of the word "imbobe" and the way the interior editor makes use of it?

A juvenile Michigander imbobe a quart or two of horse medicine one day, and forty-eight hours after, a neighboring sexton was observed excavating in the village churchyard. What a goose he was!

But he is not much worse than a St. Louis man, who writes, in describing the new Boulevard, that it will be a street on which the nobbiest turnouts in the Western world will be exhibited.

A man might think it time to be serious when he speaks of the marriages of three of his contemporaries, yet such English as "touring," seems to be in order:

Three editors of three different Cincinnati papers have just married, and are bridal touring in New York.

Here is an expression, however, which borders on genuine slang:

A gifted contributor to the local press raises his boomerang at the street railroads because gentlemen who go about in the street cars are compelled to act as conductors; to give up their seats to ill-bred women.

This is the criticism of the Marion Chronicle upon another peculiar word. Can any of our readers interpret it?

Caslunging is the last word invented by Muncie Times. The meaning is anything you please. The price of the word is forty cents, with a royalty to the proprietor. Cheap enough.

One of our editors gives a peculiar expression in speaking of an unfaithful wife.

It must have been, however, that some evil dreg was in her nature, for she soon after returning to her home abandoned the innocence and elegance of her home, etc.

Unconcealed Love.

A female editor on a Milwaukie paper and an ostensibly masculine one on a La Crosse journal are making love to each other through the columns of their respective organs. He calls her a "charming young lady," and tells her how her words thrill thorugh him like a beautiful dream; and she reiterates. The publicity they are giving to the little affair doesn't seem to worry them at all.

Amusments In Chicago.

The Chicago Reporter says:

Talk about there being no amusements in Chicago! when we have those champions of the cork—either burnt or champagne, at the West Side Opera House—full-blooded brick-bats that go prospecting after Mayor Medill,—Snyder Van Winkle,—Perteet and Glade's prayer meeting,—Lingard,—Billy Manning,—the Republican editorials,—and chronic rumors in the Times, concerning the military occupation of Chicago.

Mistaken.

At a school where words were "given out" for subjects in composition, a "mute inglorious Milton" produced at sight this sentence on the word "panegyric:" "A few drops of panegyric, given on a large lump of sugar, is often best for an infant with the stomach ache."

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meer-schaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. w

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. See Silberstein's new styles. c

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated. 4

Facetious Hints to Musicians.

The irrepressible punster of the Boston Commercial Bulletin says:

Learn, if possible, to play on the organ, before doing which it will be necessary to become thorough in the art of punctuation, so that you will have no difficulty in learning the stops.

When you begin to compose, you should be quite composed; and when you have completed a piece, try it on the piano; if it should prove too small, make a larger piece. If you find the piano is not your forte, try some other instrument—the jawsharp or triangle for instance.

Avoid organ swells—they put on airs.

Always stick to the right pitch; if you are a violinist, make your own fiddle stick, unless you are one of the beaux of the time.

You cannot catch fish with a clarionet, nor get any marrow out of a trombone.

You may get plenty of notes from an orchestra, although it don't go a-loan, but has a leader; generally a very fast man, for he beats time.

Matilda Heron.

Matilda Heron received from her benefit at Niblo's, New York, a larger sum than was at first stated. The net return is now given at $4,396. Miss Heron's address to the audience contained the subjoined passage: "I have been an actress for 27 years; but to-day I have no living relative save one little daughter. I am but a poor humble woman; and it may be a consolation to you to know and feel when you go home to-night that you have raised a woman out of the depths of misery and dispair; that you have provided sustenance for the present, and given her hope for the future. New life has come to me through your kindness; and far beyond all else, I am thankful to you, for your presence here enables me to look with calmness on the bitter past.

Oswego Colored Conversation.

"I say, Baz, where do dat comet rise at?" "It rise in de forty-six meridian ob de frigid zadiac, and laid down in the comic almanack." "Well, where does it set, Baz?" "Set, you black fool! It doesn't set nowhere, When it gets tired of shining it goes into its hole."

The ceiling of the new Paris Opera House will be made of copper, consisting of a multitude of plates screwed together, and capable of being at any time disjointed. This roofing will be movable, so that the height of the theatre may be regulated at pleasure.

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, January 28th, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—I will again resume my usual letters after so long a silence on my part. The dramatic doings of this city are prosperous. The weather being mild and warm, and managers are rubbing their hand with glee, perhaps of the goodly amount of cash coming in, or the re-establishing their business again which was destroyed by fire. There are no less than eight places of amusement in full blast at present. Our former theatrical managers are not to be wiped out by the fire—not much; but with renewed facilities and perseverance they try it again. After the fire for two or three weeks it was hard to find a former manager in Chicago, but now they are again showing their pleasant faces, assuring people of their intentions to restart again in the Spring, or letting them know sooner by announcing one place of amusement after another, opening with their names in the old familiar places. The first place of amusement is the

ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

the attendance at which is one continued ovation to the enterprising manager, Mr. O. R. Gardiner. From the opening night, two weeks ago, it has been crowded so that a placard has been put on the door, "No Room." The Wyndham Comedy Company closed their successful engagement on Saturday evening, Jan. 20th, to the regret of the community. They became the favorites with all. Monday, 22d, Robert McWade, who claims to be the rival of Joseph Jefferson, made his first appearance before the Chicago public as Rip Van Winkle. In praise of his style of acting too much can hardly be said, but the opinion of more than one critic in the house was, "Joe Jefferson had better look to his laurels." He was received the first evening with a house that was well deserving Joe himself, and there is no let-up to the crowd. He is supported by the full strength of the company, which is entirely new. I. C. Padgett, formerly of the Globe, is leading old man and stage manager. This gentleman since his arrival in Chicago has won the universal favor of both the public and his associates of the new company. The following are the members of the company: Frank Lawlor, M. C. Daily, F. G. Maynard, J. B. Everham, Frank Hartwell, J. Armstrong, Misses H. Beilen, Mary Myers, Emma Whittle, Jane Rodgers, Edith Blande, Mabel Leigh, Miss Osborne. Monday evening next, Joe Murphy with his "Help" will give us one week followed by a rapid succession of stars from Europe and this country.

GLOBE THEATRE.

This house still holds its own, and leads out with some very strong attractions with Marietta Ravel still the leading star. This week "The French Spy" and "Delicate Ground." Miss Ravel was supported by M. V. Bingham and a good company

MICHIGAN AVENUE THEATRE.

Manning's Minstrels were the attraction for the past week. This week, commencing January 22d, the Lingard Combination Troupe, with the great Statue Acts—impersonations of Jim Fisk, Wm. M. Tweed, and other noted men of the day. "Elfie, or The Cherry Tree Inn," is underlined.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.

This week I must chronicle an entire change of company. Among those engaged are Nellie Clark, the female club swinger, Miss Maggie Mortimer, Miss Viola Clifton, Miss Frank Christie, Miss Lotta Hamilton, Flora Belle and Marie Rosselle. "The Dead Alive," a roaring afterpiece, is the farce. Miss St. Leon, a charming little singer, has created quite a furore among the patrons of this place. "Hotel Troubles" and "The Rivals" are underlined for speedy production.

WEST SIDE OPERA HOUSE.

The Arlington Minstrels are the attraction at this house. "New Year's Calls" and a good interlude is the programme up to to-day.

WOOD'S VARIETIES.

Ovolosa, Bowman, Harris, Clara Batler and a good stock company delight the South Siders every evening with their brilliant programme.

THE ALHAMBRA.

A full variety company, with Ed Banker as the leading attraction. Dan Connors, Cincinnatus, Ed Sawyer, W. Scott, and the Clair Sisters are the only ones who give a little life to this place. "The Clock Strikes One," an Irish drama written for this theatre, is the only good thing that they have produced.

LAKE STREET OPERA HOUSE.

This place opened on Monday evening, January 22d, with a complete vrriety company, and Tony Ward as manager.

NEW CHICAGO VARIETIES.

Another place where the variety troupe holds its revels. On the bills it gives out some very fair attractions, but is a house I do not care to enter. The less said of it, the better.

There is a great deal of speculation in programme papers here just at present, no less than seven having been started. A little excuse of a programme called "Figaro" made its appearance last week. It is badly printed and poorly edited, and must soon give up the ghost. Cannot we have a genuine FIGARO here? W. S. L.

San Fancisco Belles.

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

LOST, A PURSE.

A LADY'S LEATHER PURSE WITH STEEL clasp and chain, containing a small sum of money, some car-tickets, and papers of no account but to the owner, was lost in the lobby or dress-circle of the Metropolitan Theatre on Saturday last at the matinee. The finder will confer a favor by leaving the purse and papers at the office of the Metropolitan Theatre. fe6 tf

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S OPERA HOUSE.—The rain came down in floods last night, but the audience present at Maguire's Opera House on the occasion of the opera of "Ernani," and first appearance of Signora Adelina Frenchel, was as large and fashionable as ever, the dress circle being packed full, and the lower portion of the house well filled. Signora Frenchel received a warm greeting on making her appearance on the stage in the character of Elvira, a greeting all the more enthusiastic on account of the personal attraction of the new candidate for public favor. Signora Frenchel's voice is a clear and powerful mezzo soprano, well cultivated and of considerable compass, her style is rather cold, but as she becomes better acquainted with her audience. Signora Frenchel may prove that she can throw more feeling into a part, than she did into that of Elvira, which she sang last night in a theatre new to her, to an audience strange and cold, and with an orchestra unused to her style of singing. Signor Bianchi acquitted himself manfully in the role of Ernani, and was especially fine in the dying scene. Signor L. Contini who did not make a very good impression on the public when he appeared in the character of Conte di Luna in "Il Trovatore," quite redeemed himself by his artistic rendition of the role of Carlo V last night, it being much better suited to his voice: M. Charles was very good as Ricardo, Roncovieri, all that could be desired as Don Silva, and the public ought to have been well satisfied with their dollar's worth of opera.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"After Dark" will be played at the matinee to-day and to-night for the last time. "After Dark" is really admirable of its kind and cannot fail to please all who witness it. On Monday the original railroad sensation drama—the first of a dozen or so, "Under the Gaslight," will be played with Charles Wheatleigh in his original character of Snorkey.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—This afternoon the usual Saturday 2 o'clock performance will be given and "Early California" will be presented with all its striking mechanical effects and spirited scenes of pioneer life. The same play will be performed this evening and to-morrow evening for the last time, the new comedy being ready for production on Monday.

ALHAMBRA.—Fayette Welch, Harry Stanwood, and Heywood, the wonderful soprano singer, have slipped into the good graces of the San Francisco public in the most easy manner imaginable and are already established favorites. The verdict has gone forth, "they are good," and the consequence is that the rush to the Alhambra Theatre continues unchecked by the torrents of rain. The full programme will be performed at the matinee to-day and again this evening.

BELLA UNION.—In consequence of its success the great tableau of "Washington Crossing the Delaware," which was received with enthusiastic applause on Washington's Birthday will be repeated to-night as a feature of a programme of great excellence. Among the novelties will be "Love Among the Mormons;" an original song by M'lle Eugenie Gerretta; a Chinese act by Miss Maggie Knight; Miss Ella Rue in a new act, and the charming M'lle Marie Gaugain in her pas de deux with Miss Carrie Chapman. The play of "Man's Wrongs versus Woman's Rights," which has drawn crowded houses during the week will terminate the entertainment.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—To-night a programme of extraordinary attractions will be performed. Sally Thayer, the favorite comic vocalist so well-known in "early days," will appear; Johnny Diamond, dancer and vocalist, will make his first appearance; Frank Mortimer, Eva Silva Mike Quinn and many others will present their specialties of song and dance and the new sketch to suit the times, entitled "Snow Bound," will be produced.

BAGSHOT ABROAD.—For the past two weeks the company of the Metropolitan Theatre have been in daily rehearsal of the new and original comedy entitled "Bagshot Abroad," by Joseph C. Ford author of "The Red Pocket-Book," and Paul J. Robert. "Bagshot Abroad" is a comedy with a sensation in it, a new and thrilling railroad sensation. The management of the Metropolitan Theatre, deserve great credit for their efforts to encourage local talent, and the pains they bestow on the production of works of San Francisco dramatists.

THE NEXT OPERA NIGHT.—Friday, the 1st prox. will be the next opera night and the performance will take place at the Metropolitan Theatre. The success which has attended Signor Bianchi has met, has encouraged him to strengthen the company and new artistes will make their appearance on this occasion.

PLATT'S HALL.—On Monday evening, M. Baldridge will at the solicitation of many friends, rattle off a description of the "Parker French Expedition" from New York to San Francisco, through Texas and Mexico in early days. The story will be a most stirring one, and an hour or so can be pleasantly passed in listening to M. Baldridge's startling tales of flood and field. The price of admission is only 50 cents.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC — OAKLAND. — The Academy of Music having been fitted up with new stage and scenery will be opened on Monday evening, under the management of John Maguire. The performance will commence with the domestic drama of "All that Glitters is not Gold" with the following cast: Stephen Plum, Samuel Piercy: Sir Arthur Lascelles, Harry Allen; Toby Twinkle, Harry Sinclair; Jasper Plum, Frank Rea; Frederick Plum, J. Maguire; Harris, W. H. Wilcox, Martha Gibb, Miss Alexander; Lady Leatherbridge, Mrs. Sinclair; Lady Valeria Westendleigh: Miss May Corcoran. After this the Lancashire Bell Ringers will perform, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with the farce of "The Quiet Family," in which Miss Etta Gilmore will make her debut on the Pacific Coast. The best people of Oakland have taken the theatre under their patronage and we hope the experiment of a theatre in that pleasant town will prove a success.

CLIFF HOUSE.—Everything to make glad the heart of man can be found at the Cliff House, under the able management of mine host Foster. If you have not a team of your own, get one from Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel, and take a spin along the finest road in the world.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—On Monday evening, "No Thoroughfare" was played at the Metropolitan Theatre, and on the following evening, Joseph Proctor appeared in his favorite drama of "Nick of the Woods" On Wednesday night the theatre was closed to give a full dress rehearsal to "The Red Pocket Book." The play was produced on Thursday with the original effect of the sinking ship, a live camel, and in every particular as it was presented at the Metropolitan Theatre in this city. It will be played until further notice.

SAN JOSE.—The people of San Jose are enjoying their mild tea-parties. The Mercury comes after us now and thus exposes its ignorance:

FIGARO is terribly riled because San Jose is so deficient in the blear-eyed, hoodlum element, so common in San Francisco, as not to appreciate Billy Emerson's melodeon performances.

The large and fashionable audiences present at the Alhambra don't comprise many blear-eyed hoodlums. Occasionally a chaw-bacon from San Jose mars the beauty of the dress circle, but not often.

STOCKTON.—Grace Greenwood is to lecture at Mozart Hall on Tuesday evening.

GRASS VALLEY.—A concert is to be given at Hamilton Hall next Saturday evening by local talent. It will be for the benefit of the Grass Valley Library Association.

LOS ANGELES.—The Express says there is a rumor that a dramatic company will shortly open Merced Theatre.

ALAMEDA.—C. E. Plummer gave readings and character sketches at Good Templars' Hall last night.

SALT LAKE.—Pardy, Scott & Fostelle's Minstrels made their appearance at the theatre on the 15 h. All the papers—the Herald, Tribune, and Footlights—are loud in their praise, and they made a most favorable impression on the public. They were to play one week.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Miss Carrie Moore is giving skating exhibitions at Miner's Hall. There is a probability of Piper's Opera House being opened shortly by a minstrel company.

PORTLAND, O.—On the 10th, "Wild Oats" was presented at the Oro Fino Theatre, and in the evening G. B. Waldron appeared as Richard III, Mrs. Waldron playing Queen Elizabeth. Waldron is fighting it out nobly in Portland, and the people are doing well to patronize the theatre every night.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

We have no later dates from New York than the 27th ult. The European Hippotheatron Company were at the Grand Opera House playing to poor business. Arrangements in the establishment are at present uncertain. John F. Cole, senior partner with Lewis F. Baker in the management of the house, caused the arrest and imprisonment in Ludlow street jail of the latter on the 24th. Cole alleges that on entering into the partnership, Baker said that he had no available money, but owned unencumbered real estate in California, which originally cost $30,000. Cole, therefore, advanced Baker's share of the capital from time to time to the tune of $10,000, which Baker agreed to reimburse him for on the 22nd ult., but gave no written promise to that effect. On that date Cole demanded payment, but Baker alleged that he could not comply. Cole then demanded security on Baker's real estate. The latter said that he could not give it, as it laid in the name of his wife. Cole then caused the issue of a warrant, with bail at 11,000. Baker's statement is, that he agreed morally, but not legally, to bear his share of the losses, and feels bound in justice to pay Cole, but cannot at present do so. He had tried, on entering the partnership, to raise money by mortgaging his portion of the prospective profits for a fixed period, but could not. He had then hoped that a thriving business would enable him to earn sufficient funds to meet his promised payment by 22nd ult., but in that also had been disappointed.

The following is the news from Boston up to the 17th: At the Boston Theatre, the Parepa-Rosa Opera Troupe have continued for their last week and will be succeeded by the stock in "The Streets of New York," with Frank Mayo as Badger, and C. T. Parsloe as Master Sniffin, and Delehanty and Hengler in the piece. The Strakosch Italian Opera Troupe come February 19th, for two weeks, and Joe Jefferson will probably follow them.

At the Globe, Boston, "Eileen Oge" has been in its third week. In the second act a realistic effect is introduced representing Eileen's dream. Patrick O'Donnell is discovered on a rock in mid-ocean, a sail appears in the distance, Patrick makes a signal of distress, the vessel passes nearly by before heeding him, then puts about and lowers a boat, which pulls to his relief. A series of Shaksperian pieces and standard comedies will be given, and Carlotta Leclercq has been engaged for them.

At the Boston Museum, the "Silver Spoon."

The St. James' Theatre, Boston, under W. H. Leake with "Humpty Dumpty," Tony Denier being the clown, and J. W. Slocum the pantaloon. The ballet girls, with the exception of Miss De Vere, the leader, were considered unattractive in face and dancing. Aimee, and French Bouffe Troupe open Feb. 5th for two weeks.

The Saturday Evening Gazette says of the Hyers Sisters, colored girls from California:

These young ladies have not justified the high expectations with which their advent was heralded. Were it not for the fact that they were of the negro race, and therefore in a somewhat novel and exceptional position musically speaking, they would scarcely merit notice, for their talents are of anything but a high order. They have voices of more than ordinary compass, but of slight power or volume. Of aught that faintly resembles style or method, they exhibit not a trace; and their vocalism is not only crude, but is lacking in warmth and animation of every necessary description. Miss Anna's voice is sweet in quality, and with proper cultivation might possibly be worth the hearing; but at present is simply a promise unfulfilled. Miss Emma is possessed of a rich contralto voice of rare depth, but it is weak and uncertain through want of knowledge how to use it. Such a thing as a crescendo or a diminuendo is evidently unknown to either. They should study for some time under a good master, before they are irretrievably ruined by the system they are now pursuing. They doubtless have talent, and it seems a pity that two such capital voices should be wasted for want of proper culture.

Rankin's Theatre, St. Louis, was opened on the 22nd ult. by Messrs Rankin and Parkes, and has been elegantly fitted up with a view of presenting the choicest modern plays. The late McKee-Rankin comedy company with strong accessions, presented Robertson's "Play," placed upon the stage with every regard to richness in scenery, costume and furniture. The auditorium is covered with a bright Brussels carpet, chairs are placed on the lower floor, while crimson rep sofas adorn the dress circle.

Mr. Emmett opened at the Holiday, Baltimore, 15th ult., for a week, to a big house. There was also a large house on the 16th. Joe was in a happy condition, for he came before the audience, sat quietly down, and taking one of the violins from the orchestra, commenced to play. The members of the orchestra became indignant and left their seats. The audience laughed and hissed. Stage manager Williams sent his wife to induce Emmett to leave the stage, but he told her to "go and take a drink." Manager Ford closed his engagement at once, and Bishop and the Rand Sisters were requested to play on the 17th.

Ella Wesner opened at the Boston Athenæum on the 22d, for two weeks.

Charley Howard, the most popular of old nigs, reports to FIGARO from Philadelphia in a letter dated the 26th. He was to open at Pittsburg, Pa., on the 5th inst., for four weeks, at Trimble's Varieties, and at the National Theatre, Cincinnati, on March 4th, for the same period of time. Charley's thoughts are turning ever to California, and we expect to see him back again before long.

The lovely Pauline Markham has slaughtered a Governor. Rowen, a member of the South Carolina Assembly, is attacking the shortcomings of Gov. Scott of that State. Among other items he asserts that Scott, when in New York recently, sighed for Miss Pauline to the tune of $750 worth of diamonds, but signed in vain.

At the Austin (Texas) Opera House, Madame Methua Scheller has been playing an engagement, and produced "Cinderella" with great success. It ran an entire week.

According to the New York Mercury, a lady who advertised in that paper recently for a play, received thirty-seven answers. The authors or owners nearly all possessed several, which proves that there are, at least, a hundred works of genius in that city awaiting vivification. The letter of one man showed him to be a first-class idiot, and at least half a dozen letters were badly spelled. One related to a colored maiden of eighteen, who had already written five dramas.

It is reported that the Charleston Academy of Music, in the late South Carolina Land and Emigration raffle, was drawn by Chadwick, the owner. Charleston people are growling for a better and more experienced manager to the concern. Chadwick is a retired Newark manufacturer.

Miss Emma Howson and Charles Fritsch, with a company of instrumentalists, gave a concert at Elizabeth, N. J., on the 18th ult.

J. M. Ward appears now in the Eastern cities as "the California comedian." We won't have it. He did not stay here long enough for us to make a good actor of him.

Stantley, the great baritone, has engaged his eminent services to Mr. Carl Rosa for the season of English and Italian opera at the Academy of Music, New York.

Edwin Booth has purchased the MS. of Watts Phillips' new play, "On the Jury," lately brought out at the Princess' Theatre, in London, where, apparently, it has attained an immediate, uncommon, and very prosperous vogue.

Matilda Heron received, from her benefit in New York the sum of $4,390.

Maggie Mitchell succeeded J. K. Emmet at the New National Theatre, Washington, D. C., on the 29th ult.

Mrs. Davenport, mother of Mrs. F. W. Lander, died at Washington 20th ult., of apoplexy, between seventy and eighty years of age. Her maiden name was Miss Danby. She was known as a good stock actress in the English provinces. She came with her husband to this country in 1828, and her daughter appeared as a child actress in "Richard III," and as Little Pickle in the "Spoiled Child" at the Park, New York, May 21 of that year. During July Mrs. Davenport first appeared there as Lady Randolph, to the Young Norval of her daughter; and, after a short tour of the Union, returned to England with her husband and child by way of Jamaica. Miss Davenport reappeared in the United States at the Astor-place Opera House in this city, September 24, 1849. Her father and mother both accompanied her, but both had retired from the stage. Mr. Davenport died in 1851.

Panoramas of the Chicago fire are perambulating the country from Maine to California. Several blood-curdling delineations of the burning of Moscow, the overwhelming of Pompeii and Herculaneum, and the destruction of Jerusalem, have been brushed up a little, and are doing excellent service.

Lew B. Pike's company from the New Haven Theatre Comique, comprising J. H. Budworth, Sergeant Burk the lightning drill man, and others were at Hartford, Conn. on the 22d ult.

In Cincinnati up to the 23d, Mr. and Mrs. Bandman were at Wood's Opera House, and the Worrel Sisters were at the National.

The Buffalo Courier says of Miss Ettie Henderson in "Far West:"

"Far West" is one of the best of its class we have yet witnessed, and far ahead of any of the same author's productions. Miss Henderson as Elfrida is charming, and there is a beauty about her expression, movements and elecution, which charms more than any passionate power could do.

The public of San Francisco will shortly have an opportunity of passing an opinion on actress and play at the Metropolitan Theatre.

Herr Wachtel has been creating a most profound sensation by his performances in Philadelphia and Boston. The largest audiences which have ever been gathered together in these cities, have assembled to listen to his magnificent voice. In the eleven weeks which he has been under engagement to the enterprising Carl Rosa, Herr Wachtel has netted the magnificent sum of $43,000—his share of one night's takings at Philadelphia being within a few dollars of $2,000. Talk about golden-voiced tenors after that.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. Henry J. Byron has written a new drama for the London Gaiety Theatre.

"Notre Dame" has passed its 320th representation at the London Adelphi.

Offenbach's latest work is entitled "Fantasio." It was announced for immediate production in Paris.

Mrs. John Wood is now at the Adelphi Theatre London.

"Pride," a new comedy, by James Albery, author of "The Two Roses," is shortly to be produced at the St. James' Theatre, London.

Robertson's "Caste," revived this season at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, has been acted more than 100 nights, and it still proves remunerative. Marie Wilton plays Polly Eccles.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons, supported by J. H. Allen, an American actor, commenced an engagement at Exeter, England, Dec. 8th.

The London Daily Telegraph says that there is not one word of truth in the stories with which several of the papers have been amusing themselves, to the effect that in revising the pantomimes of the present season the Lord Chamberlain or his censor struck out all passages reflecting on the government. A manager, however, writes to say that all allusions to Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Lowe were cut out of his pantomime.

Mr. Richard Nelson Lee, the well-known London manager, actor, playwright, etc., died London on the 2d of January, aged 65.

H. T. Craven, author "The Chimney Corner," "Milky White," has reappeared at the London Strand, in his celebrated delineation of the Post Boy, in his own drama of that name;

The "Hamlet" of M. Ambroise Thomas has been received with great success in Brussels, M. Faure sustaining the title part he created in Paris, and M'lle Sessi being Ophelia. At the end of third act the King of the Belgians presented the order of Leopold to the composer in the royal box.

M. Offenbach has achieved another success at the Bouffes Parisiennes, Paris, with his three-act opera of "Boulge de Neige." The book, inextravagance, surpasses any previous production, turning on the reign of a crowned polar bear, who is nominated Hospodar of a State by the Grand Kahn.

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, Harry Stanwood, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Baumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. The Bon vivant's Resort.

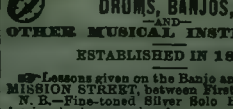
Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated [illegible]. C

Health and Pleasure.



There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Cerville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF DISEASE AND COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the special treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he has determined to retire from his profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet enjoyment; but the constant applications of those suffering everywhere, to come to this city, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs. Look forward to spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in this celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old quarters, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for many years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST was unbounded in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and strictly confidential treatment and moderate charges to all."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night, a new and original comedy by Messrs Joseph C Ford and Paul J. Robert, entitled "Bagshot Abroad," will be produced with new and appropriate scenery by J. R. Wilkes; and a tremendous sensation by George Hinckley and C. Bishop T. E. Jackson, who has proved himself a capital character actor, will appear as Bagshot. Miss Henrietta Osborne as Mrs Slaughter, and Miss Maggie Moore as Hattie, the heroine of the sensation. The piece will be produced under the immediate supervision of J. H. Vinson; who, as a stage manager, has few equals in the United States. There will be an extra matinee on Wednesday, when this play, which is expected to prove a great hit, will be performed. Seats may be secured today for this evening's performance without extra charge.

Alhambra Theatre.

The attractions already at this theatre are sufficient to throng it to such an extent that every seat is occupied, and standing room scarce To night there will be no getting in at all after eight o'clock In addition to Billy Emerson—always popular, Fayette Welch, whose versatility has firmly secured him the favor of our public, Harry Stanwood, whose dry humor tickles the audience immensely, and Heywood, the wonderful soprano singer, one of the brightest stars in the profession, will make his appearance to-night. Everyone has heard of Milburn, and Milburn's songs are sung by thousands in California. To-night we shall hear him sing them himself. He will present the following selections from his large repertoire: "The Noisy Swell," "Milburn's Motto," "The Grand Parade," and "You should see me, Sarah."

California Theatre.

To-night Charles Wheatleigh will appear in another of his great San Francisco successes—"Under the Gaslight"—and play his original character of Snorkey. The play will be produced with an immense cast which may be found on our first page and the great railroad sensation will be presented in the most effective manner. As this very exciting drama will only be presented to-night and to-morrow night, those who do not wish to miss seeing it should secure tickets at once. On Wednesday "The Lottery of Life" will be produced when Charles Vivian will appear in the character of Coal Oil Tommy.

Academy of Music, Oakland.

The Academy of Music having been fitted up with stage and scenery will be opened this evening, under the management of John Maguire. The performance will commence with the domestic drama of "All that Glitte ers is not Gold" with the following cast: Stephen Plum, Samuel Piercy: Sir Arthur Lascelles, Harry Allen; Toby Twinkle, Harry Sinclair; Jasper Plum, Frank Rea: Frederick Plum, J. Maguire; Harris, R. A. J. Wilson. Martha Gibb, Miss Alexander; Lady Leatherbridge, Mrs. Sinclair; Lady Valeria Westendleigh; Miss May Corcoran. After this the Lancashire Bell Ringers will perform, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with the farce of "The Quiet Family," in which Miss Etta Gilmore will make her debut on the Pacific Coast. The best people of Oakland have taken the theatre under their patronage and we hope the experiment of a theatre in that pleasant town will prove a success. The full programme appears on our first page and FIGARO will be the program me of this as of all other first-class theatres and entertainments.

Bella Union.

The new act of the "Hay Merchant" will be presented this evening by Miss Ella La Rue and Lon McCarthy; the beautiful Valse de Giselle by M'lle Marie Gaugain, and Miss Carrie Chapman, which was received with so much applause every night last week will be continued every night during the present week; Maggie Knight will give songs and dances; Samwells and Montague gymnastic acts; other members of the company will appear in various specialties and the play of "Man's Wrongs versus Woman's Rights," which has proved quite a hit will wind up the evening's amusement. R. G. Marsh has assumed the position of stage manager at this establishment and will fill it well.

Theatre Comique.

A very lively entertainment will be given tonight. Johnny Kelly and Henri Stuart will perform their song and dance of the "Gens d'Armes;" Frank Mortimer will sing new character songs; Miss Eva Silva, popular ballads, and a duet with Miss Carrie Willis; Mike Quinn will perform banjo solos, and the new sketch entitled "Snow Bound," will be presented. Other features are enumerated in the programme on our first page.

The Opera.

The next performance of Italian Opera will be at the Metropolitan Theatre on Friday evening next; when Signorina Adelina Speranza will make her first appearance, and fill the role of Violetta in the always-popular opera of "La Traviata;" Signor E. Bianchi will perform the part of Alfredo and the popular baritone Signor E. Mancusi, will make his reappearance in that of Germond. The chorus and orchestra will be under the direction of Signor G. Speranza. Seats may be secured at the box-office on and after Tuesday.

Platt's Hall.

To-night M. Baldridge will at the solicitation of many friends, rattle off a description of the Parker French Expedition" from New York to San Francisco, through Texas and Mexico in early days. The story will be a most stirring one, and an hour or so can be pleasantly passed in listening to M. Baldridge's startling tales of flood and field. The price of admission is only 50 cents.

Thomas Maguire.

This indefatigable manager and caterer to the public's amusement returned from the East last night, having met with but one day's detention by the snow drifts. Mr. Maguire with his usual energy crowded an immense amount of work into a short space of time, and during his stay in the East perfected arrangements for a constant succession of novelties for the entertainment of the public.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A Word to Strangers.

The best and cheapest restaurant in the city is the Delmonico Restaurant, 41 Second street, where first-class cooks and the best of every thing in the market are to be found. E

Mrs. George Wood.

The death of Mrs. George Wood, better known in theatrical circles as Eliza Logan, is announced. Mrs. Wood was born in Philadelphia in August, 1830. Her father, Cornelius A. Wood, was a very good comedian in his day, and at one time was manager of a theatre. Miss Logan received an excellent education at an academy in Lancaster, Pa., and her father ascertaining that Eliza wished to adopt the stage as a profession, he gave all the aid in his power, being delighted with the evidences of genius she manifested. Miss Logan made her debut January 28th, 1841, as Norval, in the drama of "Douglas," at the Walnut street Theatre, Philadelphia, being quite successful; in June, 1850, she made her first appearance in New York, at the Old Bowery Theatre, as Pauline, in the "Lady of Lyons." During the next six years she performed in nearly all the leading cities of the Union with success. Her last engagement in New York was played at Wallack's Theatre, under the management of William W. Stuart. In 1859 she married Mr. George Wood, then well known in the West as a theatrical manager, and the present proprietor of Wood's Museum in New York City. Having retired from the stage, on her marriage, her name is now almost forgotten in the amusement-loving community. Eliza was a charming woman, a careful actress, and played parts like Juliet and Ophelia, with much feeling. Her two sisters, Olive, and Celia, also achieved reputations on the stage, the former being now well known as a lecturer.

"The Bohemian Club.

London has its Savage Club and other places where men of letters meet together and brighten their wits by contact with one another, and where literary men from other countries are received and find themselves at once at home. On Friday last the journalists of San Francisco held a meeting in the editorial rooms of the Examiner, for the purpose of forming themselves into an association of this kind. It was full time it were done and literature represented among the other institutions of civilization in San Francisco. The club was duly formed under the name of "The Bohemian Club" and will organize by the election of permanent officers on the 2d prox. It will be an assemblage of choice spirits and good fellows: artists, actors, essayists, book-writers, poets, and dramatic authors being eligible to honorary membership. Many will be delighted to step out of the busy every-day world for a time and spend a few hours in the pleasant land of Bohemia, in which Henri Murger, Beranger, Alexandre Dumas, Goldsmith, Dickens, and a vast army of those who did battle against the shams and humbugs of the world existed so much of their time.

Very Hard!

Under the heading, "How Reporters Are Treated," the reporter of the Vallejo Recorder thus complains:

In the report in this paper of the Grand Army reunion, considerable fault was found by some, in regard to its incompleteness, for we called several times for information and could only get but a bare statement from a member, to which we were thankful, but, if they had a right to expect a better report, they should have treated us with some kindness and consideration, and afforded us some facilities for obtaining information. Our only opportunity of getting any information was from promptings from a kindly disposed member.

We sympathize with the reporter. We are sure that he was maligned and that his report was as correct as his English, which all must see from the above specimen, is perfectly beautiful.

"Knock Me Down."

Of course, "knock me down," used as an expression of indignation is in Shakespeare. Timon of Athens uses it when his creditors' servants came to present their bill:

Tit.—My lord, here is my bill.
Luc. servt.—Here's mine.
Hor. servt.—And mine, my lord.
Both var. Servts.—And ours, my lord.
Phi! all our bills.
Timon—Knock me down with 'em.

LILIAN GRAY.

At her feet, amid the heather,
Prone he lay.
"Shall our life-paths lie together,
Lilian Gray?"
Still she watched the light and shadow,
Sweeping o'er the swaying meadow;
Saw the river on the shore—
Wandering, murmuring, rapids o'er,
Kiss the bay.

'Tis an old conceit of passion,
Lilian Gray.
But still the self-same fashion
Of to-day.
As yon brooklet for the billow
Yields up emerald, bank and willow,
Will I mould each thought and feeling,
To thy half-expressed revealing,
Lilian Gray.

"So you measure your devotion,"
She replied;
"You the river, I the ocean
And the bride.
Know you not how many rivers,
Flowing on through the forevers,
Love the faithless ocean's bosom,
Leaving fonder friends to lose them
In the tide!
And the river slowly moving
By the lea,
Are but laggards in their loving
To the sea,"

"But," he said, "my love, remember
How from April to December
They flow constant— they flow ever!
So my love with fond endeavor
Tends to thee!
Shall our paths, then, lie together,
Lilian Gray—
Changing bleak to Summer weather—
March to May?
Though the rivers without rearon
Murmur not in every season—
Though the ocean still its sobbing—
Will my heart subdue its throbbing,
Lilian Gray!"

* * * * * *

There upon the blooming heather,
By the bay,
Two young hearts were pledged together
In life's May;
And the waves beneath them sighing,
And the wearied river, dying
In the surges, sent a greeting
To the fond soul's fervent meeting—
Happy day!

You can buy anything in the line of furniture and bedding at the warerooms of W. J. Heney & Co., 725 Market street, Bancroft's building. They have the largest assortment in the city, at prices to suit every one. O

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, Harry Stanwood, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon. 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Baumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and [illegible] ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the special treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he has determined to retire from his profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet-life comfort; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for [illegible] previous his practice as a SPECIALIST [illegible] in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Those Dreadful Ballet Girls.

Does not it seem as if the "Black Crook" ballet girls would never stop going and twirling around? The tired youths in the audience rush out every five minutes for a drink; but there is no rest for the weary legs on the stage. Men may come and men may go, but ballet girls go on forever. There is a great deal of cutting up among the dancers, but there is some pretty harsh cutting up among the critics as well. Is there just a little too much, gentlemen of the press? Do not these poor, painted, unlovely girls earn in a weary way their scanty wages? Is not their work hard and their pay small? And who knows how many mouths are fed by that wearisomely-earned money! How hard it is to live too, with food and fuel up to such frightful rates! You wouldn't like to stand all night with nothing but a ribbon tied around your waist for dress, and balance yourself on one leg, or prance round the stage swinging a red silk flag over your head like a merman, for the sake of earning money enough to buy yourself and your children a breakfast would you? O, no: that's different you know. But then, pity them a little, and do not sneer at them. All ways of life are weary enough, and mercy is like the gentle rain from heaven—and very sweet to a tired soul.—N. Y. Citizen.

Well Known.

For the benefit of all such as are too well known to advertise, we desire to say just a word. In the first place, is it a fact? Those who make use of this argument, we will say, are the oldest settled in business in the city; which has made them so well known Gentlemen, do you consider how great has been the addition to the population since you came? "But," you rep'y, "they know where I am without advertising." How do they know? "By the sign." Oh, yes; then that's advertising, is it not? "Well, one kind of advertising." And thus it is; if we should say to one of these traders, so well known, take in your sign, what would he say? Of course it would damage his business; and yet only the small number of pedestrians passing the store are attracted by the sign, while he will voluntarily withhold his sign from the thousands who would daily read it in the columns of the Figaro.

If a sign upon a store is essential to the business, is not a sign in thousands of families, who would not otherwise see it, infinitely more important?

"Too well known to advertise." Do you forget that people are constantly moving? What is there, or who is there, fixed and settled in this world? Do you consider that other merchants, often young traders are advertising, if you are not, and taking the ground from under your feet? You will soon discover what becomes of these "well known," when your customers find they can do better when attracted elsewhere.

While the man that is well known is dreamily keeping charge of his store, not thinking it necessary to advertise, other pushing, earnest, tact-possessing, live-advancing men are issuing their artistically drawn, attractive alluring invitations to the public.

Suggestion Adopted.

A little over a week ago we said:

Among other articles to be placed in the cavity of the corner stone of the New City Hall, are a copy of the California Mail Bag for January, 1872, containing portraits of the Mayor, the city Hall Commissioners and the Architect, plans of the building, an hour glass, and a copy of the San Francisco News Letter and City Index. Better put the "Town Crier" in also; he has become terribly stupid since he got married.

They've gone and done it. They've done even more. In the official list of articles deposited we find the following entry: "42—The "Town Crier" (of the San Francisco News Letter) and lady." We hardly intended our suggestion to be carried out, but since it is so, so be it. Rest lightly on their bones—as lightly as you can—O! City Hall. Old Nick will never think of looking for the "Town Crier" there on Resurrection Day, so perhaps it is about as snug a place as he could well find.

Health Before Wealth.

Dr. Bourne's celebrated electro-medicated Baths are the great Eradicators of every disease As a bath for the healthy, perfectly luxurious, and unequaled to purify the blood.—Masonic Temple Post street. Z

Select Employment Office.

It is a well-known fact that Haste & Paddock are doing the largest Employment Business in this city, and the secret of their success lies in their prompt attention to the requirements of their Aplicants. Immigrants and others should call on us without delay, as we have always numerous vacancies to fill. Z

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and especially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies: in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

An Absurd Mess.

The lunatic who wrote the following deserves to have his dead-head tickets cut off forever. He incubrates thus in the Dayton Journal:

Helen Josephine Mansfield, the woman who was at the bottom of the Fisk-Stokes tragedy, in New York, is not altogether unknown in Dayton. Persons who are in the habit of attending histronic representations will remember her as playing an engagement at Turner's Opera House the season before that establishment was destroyed by fire. She is the daughter of Charles Thorne the veteran actor, and she appeared here as "Miss Emily Thorne," playing Juliet to Frank Lawlor's Romeo, we believe. [She married Lawlor afterward, from whom she was divorced a year ago], and she also appeared in several other roles; creating a favorable impression upon play-goers. She is tall and stately, of remarkably fine appearance, very handsome face, engaging manners and was attired superbly and gaily. She appeard on the streets in steel-gray silk dress, with light blue overskirt, short drab satin cloak, heavy fur cape, and wore an elegant purple silk plush hat, surmounted by feathers, jauntily on one side of her head. She was the "observed of all observers" wherever she went—certainly the finest looking woman, by common verdict, that had visited our city for a generation. She was a very attractive, seductive woman, and indifferent actress.

Ingenious.

Thus wise do they eat philopœnas in Oyelika, Alabama: The young lady takes the almond between her teeth, and the young gehtleman bites it off.

To M. J. M.: We must decline to print your poem on A Drowned Boy. In the first verse you speak of your subject as "floating in the water," and in the second as "lying on his bier." Which is it, Water or Bier?

The Stylish Hat Store

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "The" Hat Store is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

Unaccountable Stupidity.

The management of concerts seems very often to fall into the hands of remarkably stupid people. In many instances lately these "managers" have advertised their concerts in the Bulletin and Alta and entirely ignored Figaro, the regular organ of amusements. The consequence has been that the attendance has been "very select;" so select that the money taken in was scarcely enough to pay expenses. The Alta and Bulletin are highly respectable papers and have a respectable circulation, but people certainly do not take them for the purpose of seeing where they can go for an evening's amusement. For this purpose they look at Figaro, and if an entertainment is not among those advertised in Figaro, that portion of the public who patronize amusements are very apt to know nothing at all about it. Figaro is in the hands of thousands of persons nightly present at the theatres, and it is then that people are most likely to make their arrangements for future evenings' amusement. They turn to the columns of Figaro to find what entertainments are about to take place, and are sure to choose from among those advertised therein while they remain ignorant of others which short-sighted and stupid managers have neglected to have inserted. An entertainment advertised in Figaro is well advertised if it is not mentioned in another paper in the city, but an entertainment is not half apvertised if it is announced in every business paper and omitted in the organ of amusements.

Going It.

A gentleman just returned from Japan tells us that the Emperor of that country is decidedly the most jolly dog in it. After living for four years in the strict observance of the puerile formalities attached by ancient custom to his rank, he has suddenly emancipated himself, and rushes into society like the young heir just come into his property He drives four-in hand, wears a European costume, drinks champagne, and, save the mark, tells anecdotes of the corps de ballet with considerable vivacity and cleverness.

Good!

We don't know any contemporary for which we have a greater respect than for the Grass Valley Union, and it is increased by its having copied our obituary notice of Eduard Marchand the talented chef de cuisine. The editor of the Grass Valley Union evidently knows how to appreciate good cooks, and good cookery; and the result is seen in his bright and clever paper. Good dinners make good brains.

Keene Irony.

Some grouty old fellow put the following inscription on a package recently received at the express office in Keene: Only a watch—bang it through—toss it around drop it twice at least. Merely a watch, simply a watch; knock it about. Second attempt to get a watch over the road whole." The irony was appreciated, and the watch went through all right.

Brass.

The Marysville Standard, under the head of "A Good Joke," has the following:

At the Turners' entertainment given on Thursday evening, some person succeeded in gaining an entrance by presenting an advertising card of some foundry in Oregon.

It was probably his own, and the foundry a brass foundry.

A Death-Bed Wish.

The story is true. Old Mr. Thompson, the doctor said, had but two hours to live. We stood by his bedside, and held his hand; and, as the shadows gathered over his pallid countenance, we leaned toward him, and whispered to him:

"Thompson, have you anything to say? Any last words you desire to utter? Any regrets to express before you leave the world?"

He turned his head slowly toward us, and with a sigh, said:

I have but a single sorrow. There is but one recollection that brings a pang to my heart as I die. I depart with the reflection that I have neglected to improve but one great opportunity of my life."

"And who is it, Thompson? Tell us frankly, and perhaps we may be able to promise to amend in such a fashion that your last moments may be soothed and comfortable."

"No! no! Max" he said: "That cannot be. My only regret is"—and here a look of utterable disappointment came from his eyes—my only regret, in departing, is that I have never seen the Fall of Nia-gara!"

The best of it is that old Thompson re, covered entirely a few weeks later; and although he lived for fifteen years afterward, he never went near the Falls once.

The Last Boy's Work.

The following "boys composition" is the latest. The boy who "manufactured" it is bound to make his mark in the literary world; who knows but some day he may be an editor. "A goat is stronger than a pig, and gives milk. He looks at you So does the doctor, but a goat has four legs. My goat butted Mr. Tillinghast, and a little calf wouldn't do so. A boy without a father is an orphan, and if he hasn't got a mother he is two orphans. The goat don't give so much milk as a cow, but more than an ox. We saw one at a fair one day with a card tied to his left ear; he went in on a family ticket. Mother picks geese in the summer, and the goat eats grass and jumps on a box. Some don't like goats, but as for me, give me a mule with a paint brush tail. The goat is a useful animal, but don't smell as sweet as nice bear's oil for the hair. If I had too much hair I would wear a wig as Captain Peters does. I will sell my goat for three dollars and go to the circus and see the elephant, which is bigger as five goats. Fathter is coming home to-morrow, and the baby has got the croup bad."

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

This is a new family soap—a true Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The new and original comedy of "Bagehot Abroad" was produced at this house last night. T. E. Jackson was extremely good as Bagehot, the English tourist; and his bewilderment at the many scrapes in which he finds himself involved, was most naturally simulated. Mrs. Frank Rea had something of a character in Miss Emily P. Johnson, a strong-minded woman of the period and caused considerable amusement. Miss Henrietta Osborne, looked, acted and dressed the part of the martial, Mrs. Slaughter, very well; and Miss Maggie Moore did all that was required of her as Hattie, as well as circumstances would allow. One of those unfortunate accidents which the greatest pains will not always prevent occurring on the first night of a new piece, entirely spoiled the great sensation scene last night. Everything had been arranged for one of the most thrilling effects ever presented on the stage, but an unfortunate hitch ruined it. The villain of the piece had a draw-bridge working on a pivot, so that a train should be precipitated into the water below. Hattie (Maggie Moore) climbed up the wooden scaffold on which the bridge rested, and, by turning a crank, swung it back to its position just as the whistle of the approaching train was heard. It was too late to retreat, and Hattie had to hang suspended from the bridge by her hands while the train thundered above her head: But the train didn't thunder over the bridge but stuck fast in the middle, which was horribly provoking. To-night this thrilling sensation will be given with due effect and will certainly be worth seeing. "Bagehot Abroad" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

This theatre was densely crowded last night J. H. Milburn, the famous character] vocalist received a hearty greeting on making his appearance on the stage as the "Noisy Swell," and his bright, handsome face and graceful movements at once made him a favorite. Mr. Milburn is so much better than Lingard that no comparison can be instituted between the two. Every movement this artist makes is studied and never fails the desired effect of a round of applause; he has a fine voice and his changes are made in the twinkling of an eye. The last song for which he was announced in the programme, "You Should See me Sarah," afforded an opportunity for some of the most originally grotesque attitudinizing and terrifically comical grimacing ever seen on any stage, and convulsed the audience with laughter. Mr. Milburn's style is very "pronounced;" he drives his points home and clinches them in such a manner that all must "take." In response to a unanimous encore he sang a ludicrous parody on "Put Me in My Little Bed," which made the audience laugh until their sides were sore, and being again encored he appeared in dance costume and executed clog dance which for grace, perfect time, variety of steps, and faultless execution has never been equalled on the San Francisco stage, although we have had wonderfully good artistes in that line. J. H. Milburn has captured the public and his success here will be equal to that which he has achieved in every city in England and United States in which he has appeared. Emerson, Milburn, Fayette Welch, Stanwood, Heywood the Reynolds Brothers, Harry Norman, S. Holdsworth, and others now composing the Emerson Minstrels, form a company unequalled in talent and versatility. All will appear to-night.

California Theatre.

The exciting drama of "Under the Gaslight" with Charles Wheatleigh in his original character of Snorkey, the one-armed warrior, was performed last night to the satisfaction of all who witnessed it. The struggle between Byke (W. A. Mestayer) and Snorkey was well worked up and the scene of the railroad was presented most effectively. Miss Rose Evans was very good as Laura Courtland, and Miss Ellie Wilton played Pearl very well indeed; E. J. Buckley made a splendid Bermudas, and Mrs. C. E. Saunders was excellent as Peachblossom. This play will be repeated to-night. To-morrow night the attractive play of "The Lottery of Life" will be produced. Charles Vivian is engaged to play Coal Oil Tommy.

Bella Union.

After a capital first part Samwells and Montagus appear in "Sports of Atlas," Marie Zoel dances a fancy clog, Chris Mathews appears in song and dance, Maggie Knight in a Chinese act, Clara Starr in a ballad, Lon McCarty and Ella La Rue in an amusing act, M'lle Gaugain and Carrie Chapman in the "Valse de Giselle," Fanny Garretson sings a ballad, Eugenia Garretta performs a new song and dance, "Love Among the Mormons;" other entertainments are given, and the evening's amusement concludes with the play of "Man's Wrongs vs. Woman's Rights."

Theatre Comique.

The entertainment at this place presents variety enough to suit all tastes and at whatever time between 8 and 12 o'clock in the evening, one drops in he is sure to find something amusing going on. Among the acts to be performed to-night are the "Gens de Armes," "The Faynian Soother," "Snow Bound," "Uncle Jim's Visit," "Funny Sam," and "Handy Andy."

The Opera.

The box-office at the Metropolitan Theatre is open to-day for the sale of tickets for the performance of "La Traviatta," in which Signorina Sperzaza will appear on Friday evening.

Academy of Music, Oakland.

The initial performance of the first theatre established in Oakland was given last evening. Mr. John Maguire is to be recorded as the first manager who permanently rented and fitted up a theatre for dramatic performances in that city. The location is on Sixth street, near Broadway, just one block below the railroad depot. A large, commodious and well-ventilated hall, forming the second story of the new market, having a small stage and but very limited scenery, served as the temple of the drama for our thriving sister city on its introduction there last evening. The body of the hall was filled with chairs and benches and rows of raised platform seats occupied the rear of the auditorium. The Hall will comfortably seat over 500 persons, and was full; so the opening night was a success, financially as well as dramatically. An opening address was read by Manager Maguire; after which the curtain rose on the capital comedy of "All that Glitters is not Gold," with the following cast: Stephen Plum, Samuel Piercy; Sir Arthur Lascelles, Harry Allen; Toby Twinkle, Harry Sinclair; Jasper Plum, Frank Rea; Frederick Plum, J. Maguire; Harris, R. A. J. Wilson; Martha Gibbs, Miss Alexander; Lady Leatherbridge, Mrs. Sinclair; Lady Valeria Westendleigh, Miss May Corcoran. Miss Alexander as Martha Gibbs evinced more talent and emotional power than we have heretofore given her credit for, and quite won the sympathy of her audience. Piercy and Maguire personated their respective parts admirably, and Harry Sinclair in the capital comedy character of Toby Twinkle repeatedly brought down the house. Frank Rea as Jasper Plum was cast out of his line of business, but filled the part very creditably. H. Allen was good as Arthur Lascelles, and May Corcoran and Mrs. Sinclair were both good as the fine ladies of the piece. The drama was well played throughout, and gave great satisfaction to the audience. The performance concluded with the farce of "The Quiet Family," which sent the audience home in the best of humor. The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. J. Allen, though small, was very good. Mr. Maguire is to be commended for the manner in which he has opened his season in Oakland, and will make a success of it. He is having a new and larger stage building, which will be in readiness for the next performance on Thursday. There is quite a theatrical fever in Oakland, and a number of projected theatres are already talked about by those having suitable lots to build on; it will probably culminate this spring in the erection of a theatre after the style of the Alhambra, with stores and dwellings on the front and the theatre proper on the rear of some lot on Broadway, between Ninth and Twelfth streets.

THE MODEL HUSBAND.

How He Should Treat His Wife.

[Gail Hamilton, in Harper's Bazar.]

If you have got to be careful with your friends, it is not worth while to have any. When you must weigh your words and speak advisedly lest you give offense, or be misunderstood, let the curtain fall.

PERFECT FRIENDSHIP

is perfect freedom. Freedom to be dull and cross and captious and rude, then? Yes, if it is right to be cross and captious and rude. Whatever it is right to be, it is right to be toward your friend. If it is dignified for a man and a brother to be savage and moody, don't put a restraint upon yourself on account of your wife, dear man and brother. If it is worthy and womanly to be irritable and exacting, and to mark iniquity, or to mark abstraction as iniquity, why should a woman repress her development on account of her husband? I say that it is better to be large-natured and sunny and sweet, if you are the only living being in the whole world; and if there are two of you, it is indispensable.

TWO PEOPLE IN ASSOCIATION

can be perfectly happy only when they have to repress and crush that alone which is of itself undesirable and unlovely, and can give full scope to whatever is lovely, or innocent, or restful. The good of having a friend is that you can be silly and stupid, and he likes you all the same. To your outside acquaintances you must be animated and sensible, or they will think you are not glad to see them; but when a man goes home after a day of annoyances and fatigue, his wife knows he is glad to see her, though he lie on the sofa and speak not ten words the whole evening. That is, if he is the right sort of husband, and does it in the right sort of way. He may be grewsome and gruff, and she does not know what to make of him, and lets him alone; but if he is what he ought to be, if he have the sense and heart to speak the right word, and walk in

THE NATURAL WAY

of a great-hearted man, she is just as good to him as if he were brilliantly entertaining; she makes a baby of him for the nonce, and turns his home into a paradise of rest and peace. And if she is weary and fretted, if she spoke petulantly a while ago, and is ready to cry at nothing, is he to lay it up against her? Is he, a great strong man, all muscle and nerve and breezy health—is he coming home from the brisk, bracing outer world to be sullen and silent, to remember her hasty speech, and wait for her to make the first overture of reconciliation? Not he. He has magnanimity of character in little things. He would scorn such mean feeling, such malignant hoarding. He tramples all pettiness under his feet. He remembers nothing, or remembers it only to be a little more tender and outspoken; and crams her sewing into her basket, and jams her hat on her head; back side before, most likely, and forces her out to drive, against all her protests that she can't go, she has so much to do, which he serenely shows her is false, because here she is already on the road; and so they come home as all freshly fortified against the wear and tear of life. Reconciliation, indeed! A man—a man—ought to be doubly and trebly ashamed of ever laying up anything against his wife. No matter if she is at fault, he has no business to remember it. He ought to brush it all away with his manly, muscular vigor and his hearty, uncalculating love, and be to her always a source as well as a centre of sunshine. That is the way to make home happy. That is the way to make good wives and mothers. It will not take a very long course of this treatment to produce such a healthiness and robustness of love as shall stand all possible shocks and understand all developments of liberty. Rooted and grounded in such love, they may both be tired together without hurting each other, and that is about the hardest strain to which human nature can be subjected by any but the heroic tests.

HAPPY AND AS BLITHE AS BIRDS,

TRUST.

By that strange shadow on your brow
And in your darkened eyes,
I know that you are angry now—
Nay, show not such surprise—
Do you suppose that, waltzing there,
I saw not how you frowned?
I watched your discontented air
Each time the dance came round.
I would not break your gloomy mood,
But let you frown your fill—
For watchfulness in love is good,
But trust is better still.

Have I confessed my love to you,
And hearkened all you said,
For you to doubt me (as you do,
Although you shake your head),
Because of each slight foppish thing
That gives me tender looks,
And turns the pages when I sing,
Or finds my music books?
Is your too great solicitude,
I say you treat me ill!—
For watchfulness in love is good,
But trust is better still.

Nay, sir; your brows must not be beat;
Don't try to frown me down,—
Ah! now I see that you relent;
I will not let you frown.
Have you forgotten that spring day
When in the lanes we strolled,
And how the twilight passed away
Before your tale was told?
Then trust me, as you said you would—
Ah, yes I know you will—
For watchfulness in love is good,
But trust is better still.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hasche, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 37 Bush street above the Alhambra.

Brains and Work.

A writer to the Pall Mall Gazette says: The notion that those who work only with their brains need less food than those who labor with their hands has been the cause of untold mischief. Students and literary men have often been the victims of a slow starvation, from their ignorance of the fact that mental labor causes greater loss of tissue than muscular. According to careful estimates, three hours of hard study wear out the body more than a whole day of hard work at the anvil, or on the farm. "Without phosphorus, no thought," is a German saying; and the consumption of that essential ingredient of the brain, increases in proportion to the amount of labor which the bain performs. The importance of the brain as a working organ, is shown by the amount of blood it receives, which is proportionally greater than any other part of the body. One fifth of the blood goes to the brain, though its average weight is only one fortieth of the weight of the body. This fact alone would be sufficient to prove that brain-workers need more food and better food than mechanics and farm laborers.

Normal School Exercises.

In the Richmond Normal school, a few days ago, the lesson in elocution was upon "articulation," and various difficult enunciations were cited and practiced. At the close of the exercises, the principal called for such examples to be handed in as the pupils might know or be able to find. The following are some of the results:

"Theophilus Thistle, the successful thistlesifter, in sifting a sieveful of thistles thrust three thousand thistles through the hick of his thumb."

"Peter Prangle, the prickly pear pricker, picked three pecks of prickly prangly pears from the prangly pear trees on the pleasant prairies."

"Villey Vite and vife, vent a voyage to Vest Vindsor and Vest Vicham von Vitson Vednesday."

"Brandy-legged Borachio Mustachio Whiskerifucus, the bald but brave Bombardino of Bagdad helped Abormilique Blue Beard, Bashaw of Balemandeb, to beat down abominable Bumble of Bashaw."

Still Burning.

The Chicago fire is not all out yet. The grain in Nelson's elevator at the corner of West Madison and Canal streets is still smoking and burning, and as we learn from the Sun seems likely to continue to burn for months.

An Inappropriate Place.

A Chicago exchange says:

Temperance people will be rejoiced to learn that pure water has been found 1,500 feet down the artesian well of the Chicago Alcohol Works, on Western avenue.

The Critic is logical—thus: "Facts are stubborn; so are mules; ergo, mules are facts."

And now he has died again from excessive use of tobacco—this time in Virginia at the age of 118.

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

Chicago Aldermen.

The Chicago Sun has the following lively paragraph;

And still they go. We mean the aldermanic scallawags who, one by one, are dropping out of the official ring and into the dismal precincts of the county jail. Thus we are forcibly reminded of the hymn which opens thusly:

Friend after friend departs;
Who hath not lost a friend?

Alderman G. A. Busse, a North Side scallawag, has gone up—that is, he has gone down. In an evil hour, when temptation came upon him, not having read and followed the high moral precepts inculcated by the Sun, this pliant Teuton yielded to his love of filthy lucre, and accepted a bribe—which he shouldn't. And now he is beginning to reap the fruits of his misdeeds. This makes number three of the scallawag aldermen who have been convicted and chucked into jail. Next!

San Francisco may say, Lord, we thank Thee that we are not like Chicago. We haven't had any of our Supervisors "convicted and chucked into jail" yet. Chicago was not purified by fire, it seems.

A Forcible Defence.

If there is no eloquence there is considerable force in the following defence of a noted horse thief, recently brought up on a charge of stealing a mule:

Gentlemen of the jury, the whole of you, there you sit: You have all heard what those witnesses have said, and of course you agree with me that my client didn't steal that mule. Do you s'pose for one second that he would steal a mule? a low-lived mule? D—n clear of it. What does he want of a mule when he has got a bang-up pony like that tied to yon tree? (pointing to a fine-looking mustang opposite the courthouse.) What, I say does he want of a mule? Nothing—exactly nothing. No, gentlemen of the jury, he didn't steal the mule, nor he never would have a mule about him. He has his antipathies as well as anybody, and you couldn't hire him to take a mule.

Pleasant.

A gentleman was staying at a little French country inn, and there was a melancholy-looking owl which hopped about the garden, and had only got one leg. Two or three days after his arrival he had some gibier, —game—for dinner. The "game" was very small, but he enjoyed it immensely; and the next day he missed the owl from the garden. "Where has the owl gone to?" He inquired of the landlord. "Monsieur had a little dish of gibier yesterday," was the answer, to the consternation of the traveler. "Why did you have the owl killed for my dinner? he next asked. "I kill owl, M'sieur! no, he die himself." We are used to this in San Francisco, they serve owls up for "spring chickens."

Quite a Mistake.

"What did your son in the city die with? said one old lady of Townsontown to her neighbor.

"I expect it was the morus multicaulis—they say the disease rages there desputely."

What a silly mistake this ignorant person made! She ought to have known that instead of of morus multicaulis being a disease, it is good for the worms—silk worms.

Fishy.

The Alta story Sunday about the adventures of Capt. Welsh, the Cocos Treasure seeker, and his wife, reads just like a Ledger romance. In early life her parents died, and she "was placed under the care of a guardian, a country gentleman, whose name was Goodenouf." Isn't that a good-enough name for a guardian in a dime novel?

Health Before Wealth.

Dr. Bourne's celebrated electro-medicated Baths are the great Eradicators of every disease As a bath for the healthy, perfectly luxurious, and unequaled to purify the blood.—Masonic Temple Post street. Z

Select Employment Office.

It is a well-known fact that Haste & Paddock are doing the largest Employment Business in this city, and the secret of their success lies in their prompt attention to the requirements of their Applicants. Immigrants and others should call on us without delay, as we have always numerous vacancies to fill. Z

THE PLACE TO BUY.—If any one in city or country contemplates buying furniture and bedding, they can find no better place than at J. A. Shaber's, 707 Market street, near Third, San Francisco. They buy and sell only for cash, and their prices are always very low. Y

THE HEIRS OF ANNECKE JANS ECLIPSED.

The Magnificent Fortune of a Pough keepsie Man.

[From the New York Standard, Feb. 7.]

It is stated that Mr. Samuel C. Townsend of Poughkeepsie is one of the four heirs of a property valued at $300,500,000, which was left them by a sea captain, a relative, one hundred years ago. The property has been in the keeping of the Bank of England. Mr. Townsend recently visited Canada to confer with the other heirs in regard to getting possession of the property, and the result of the interview was most satisfactory. As Mr. Townsend says, "things are in working order."

It is also reported that John Booth, of Fishkill Landing, has fallen heir to eight millions of dollars. The money is in England, but the exact locality is not named.

A Degraded Beast

A Portsmouth, (N. H.) paper says that there is a dog in that city, only six months old, that chews tobacco and will take an intoxicating drink whenever invited. In fact, he will "get as drunk as a lord" as often as he has an opportunity! We can hardly believe it. That a lord, or any other human being should get drunk and dissipate in the most insane manner, is not at all to be wondered at; but that a dog—or any other respectable beast should degrade himself in this way, is truly deplorable, and it is very hard for us to have our good opinion of the canine race brought down by a depraved pup like this of Portsmouth.

Not Strange.

An exchange says:

Five sisters named Lukens, the eldest but sixteen, living at Binston's Station, Pa., publish a wee paper called Little things, and they print as well as edit it.

It is all very well for girls to publish Little Things, but they ought to be married first.

Removal.

Silberstein, the prince of caterers in gent's furnishing goods, has been forced by the pressure of his business to remove to the adjoining store, 506 Kearny street, a few doors north of California, where he has the best stock of goods and fancy articles in San Francisco. Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The new comedy of "Bagshot Abroad" was repeated last night. There was a little too much "sensation" last night in the railroad scene' where Maggie Moore has to hang by her hands from the bridge while the train passes over her head; she missed her grasp and fell to the stage, a distance of fifteen feet but fortunately met with no more serious injury than a bruised arm. Miss Susie Soule will undertake the feat to-night, and will, we trust, meet with no such misadventure. "Bagshot Abroad" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

Every inch of standing room was occupied last night and the performance went off with great eclat. J. H. Milburn was encored again and again; Fayette Welsh told his funniest stories; Stanwood uttered the driest of jokes, and made the audience roar with laughter; Heywood sang sweet ballads in a wonderful manner, and Billy Emerson whom all the talent in the profession could never oust from his place in the estimation of the public as the most comical of Ethiopian performers, was applauded to the echo.

California Theatre.

To-night Brougham's play entitled "The Lottery of Life" will be presented with Charles Wheatleigh in the character of Terry, the Swell. Charles Vivian has been engaged for this play and will appear as Coal Oil Tommy, with song. Charles Wheatleigh will take his benefit on Friday, when "The Colleen Bawn" will be played.

Bella Union.

A very bright, varied and pleasing programme is performed at this theatre. M'lle Marie Gangain in dances; Maggie Knight in character songs; Marie Zoel in clog dance, and a number of others in attractive specialties, will all appear to-night.

Theatre Comique.

A number of amusing acts will be presented this evening; among them are "Claude du Val's Exploits" and "Hay Merchant." Mike Quinn will sing new banjo solos; Kelly and Stuart perform original dances, and an attractive programme will be presented.

"The Winning Hand."

This is the title of a new and original play shortly to be produced at the Metropolitan Theatre.

[James Parton in the Atlantic Monthly.]

Jefferson was a stripling of seventeen, tall, raw-boned, freckled and sandy-haired, when, in 1750, he came to Williamsburg from the Far West of Virginia, to enter the College of William and Mary. With his large feet and hands, thick wrists, prominent cheek-bones and chin, he could not have been accounted handsome or graceful. He is described, however, as a fresh, bright, healthy-looking youth, as stright as a gun-barrel, sinewy and strong, with that alertness of movement which comes of early familiarity with saddle, gun, canoe, minuet and country dance—that sure, elastic tread and ease of bearing which we still observe in the country-bred lads who have been exempt from the ruder toils of agriculture, while enjoying, in full measure, the freedom and the sports of the country. His teeth, too, were perfect, which alone redeems a countenance destitute of other charm; his eyes, which were of hazel-gray, were beaming and expressive; and his demeanor gave assurance of a gentle heart and sympathetic, inquisitive mind.

Such lads, eager and unformed, still come to college from honest country homes, in regions where agriculture is carried on upon a scale that allows no leisure to the farmer's family, some liberality of expenditure, books, music, a tincture of art, and hospitable habits. How welcome, how dear, to instructors worthy of them, are such unhackneyed minds in bodies unimpaired!

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 437 Bush street above the Alhambra.

The Nomadic Widow.

The nomadic widow is, by some odd fatality, generally the widow of an officer, naval or military, to whose rank she attaches an almost superstitious value, thinking that when she can announce herself as the relict of a Major or Admiral she has given an unanswerable guarantee and smoothed away all difficulties.

SHE MAY HAVE MANY DAUGHTERS,

but more probably she has only one, for when olive-branches abound nomadism is more expensive than housekeeping, and to live in her own house is less costly than a boarding-house. But of this one she makes much to the community, and especially calls attention to her simplicity and absolute ignorance of the evils familiar to the girls of the present day, and she looks as if she expects to be believed. Perhaps credence is difficult; the young lady in question having been for some years considerably in public, where she has learned to take care of herself with a skill which, how muchsoever it may be deserving of praise, cannot claim to be called ingenuous. She has need of this skill, for apparently she and her mother have no male relations belonging to them, and it flirtations are common with the nomadic tribe, marriages are rare.

POOR SOULS,

one cannot but pity them for all their labor in vain, all their aborture hopes. For though there is more society in the mode of life they have chosen than they would have had if they had lived quietly down in the village where they were known and respected, and where—who knows? the fairy prince might one day have alighted—there are very few chances; and marriages among "the inmates" are rare as winter swallows. The men who live in these place, whether as nomadic or permanent guests, never have money enough to marry on; and the flirtations always budding by the piano or about the billiard table never by any chance fructify in marriage. But, in spite of their infertile experience, you see the same mother, the same daughter, year after year, season after season, returning to the charge with renewed vigor, and a hope that is the one indestructible thing about them. Let us deal tenderly with them, poor impecunious nomads, drifting like so much sea-wreck along the restless current of their lives, and wish them some safe resting place before it is too late.

Light Sentence for a Heavy Crime.

[New York Sun, Jan. 14]

The trial of Commander Alexander A. Semmes, of the Navy, who was guilty of inflicting cruel and unheard of punishments upon several of the crew of the sloop-of-war Portsmouth, has resulted as every one feared it would, in a farce. Captain Semmes was convicted—doubtless with great regret by his brother officers composing the Court—and sentenced to three years' suspension from duty and rank, and to be reprimanded by the Secretary of the Navy. This is a terrible retribution for the wrongs heaped upon the helpless seamen of the Portsmouth, and one that cannot fail to strike terror to the hearts—of similar gilt-edged offenders. For three years Captain Semmes will enjoy perfect freedom from labor of all kinds. He can come and go when he pleases; enter into business if he choses, and do anything he likes. Meanwhile the people are taxed to pay him $3,000 a year, for, by a careful omission of the words "and pay," after "rank and duty," in the sentence, his salary is not interfered with. Refined and cultivated minds will of course see in the conviction and sentence the disgrace and punishment intended, but we very much doubt if such men as Captain Semmes, and others in the navy like him, will regard a three years' vacation on full pay as anything but a stroke of good fortune, attainable only through the medium of the sweat-box and a sympathizing court-martial.

No Bones in the Ocean.

[Educational Monthly.]

Mr. Jeffrey has established the fact that bones disappear in the ocean. By dredging it is common to bring up teeth, but rarely ever a bone of any kind; these, however compact, dissolve if exposed to the action of the water but a little time. On the contrary, teeth—which are not bones any more than whales are fish—resist the destroying action of the seawater indefinitely. It is therefore, a powerful solvent. Still the popular opinion is that it is a brine. If such were the case, the bottom of all the seas would, long ago, have been shallowed by immense accumulation of carcases and products of the vegetable kingdom constantly floating into them.

Dentine, the peculiar material of which teeth are formed, and the enamel covering them, offer extraordinary resistance to these chemical agencies, which resolve other animal remains into nothingness. Mounds in the West, tumuli in Europe and Asia, which are believed to antedate sacred history for thousands of years, yeilded up perfectly sound teeth, on which time appears to have made no impression whatever.

SUSPENDED ANIMATION.

Remarkable Case at Dayton, Ohio.

[Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.]

The all-absorbing topic for the past few days in Dayton is the suspended animation of Mrs. Agnes Mohr, a German lady, who resided on Zeigler street. She died last Sunday night of congestion of the brain. After the funeral service at the church, Tuesday afternoon, and when the coffin was opened for the friends to take a farewell look, such a lifelike appearance was presented by the corpse, her lips and ears being flushed, and there being great warmth of body, that her mother and relatives refused to allow interment, and in consequence the body was placed in a vault at St. Henry's cemetery, where hundreds of people flocked to see the corpse. By the earnest solicitations of relatives, last evening, the body was removed to the office of the cemetery, which was warmed up for the occasion, and a careful watch kept all night, when it was plainly noticeable that the cheeks retained their life-like appearance, but were not so warm. As the heat of the room was increased, it is said that perspiration was plainly visible on the face and neck, and remained so during the night and next day. The body will be retained in this room and receive constant and proper attention until either life is restored or mortification sets in. It is the opinion of those who have seen the body that life will be restored.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, Harry Stanwood, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon. 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Bumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SECRET COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the special treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he has determined to retire from his profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, has finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment adopted in this celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for the past previous his practice as a SPECIALIST has been unparalleled in the cure of all cases brought under his treatment. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Lottery of Life" was played last night with Charles Wheatleigh in his capital impersonation of Terry the Swell, and the other parts appropriately distributed. J. O. Williamson caused much fun as Bob Mawley, the pugilist, though every now and then he forgot he was a "Vote chapel bird," and dropped into the New York Bowery boy's accent. Charles Vivian gained great applause for the song of "Coal Oil Tommy," though he didn't "throw himself" quite enough and should have been more noisy: Miss Ellie Wilton made a pretty little Polly and the play went well. It will be repeated this evening. All shou'd remember that Charles Wheatleigh takes his benefit to-morrow evening. He deserves a bumper.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The play of "Bagshot Abroad" went off last night without any contretemps save those properly belonging to its plot. The train moved well: there was no painfully sensational fall on the stage though the mimic sensation is quite sufficient to uncomfortably excite ladies of weak nerves. Bagshot will demand the sympathy of the public for his troubles again to-night. The new play of "The Winning Hand" is undergoing careful rehearsal and will be produced on Monday evening.

Alhambra Theatre.

We recommend the following pleasing experiment to those who are fond of encountering difficulties. Go to the Alhambra Theatre after 8 o'clock and try to get in. The rush to see the new artistes from the East continues unabated, and each one of them is a favorite in his line of business. The first part goes off capitally with Billy Emerson on one end and Fayette Welch on the other, and the position of middle-man is well filled by J. Robinson.

Bella Union.

The novelties introduced in the programme to-night will be the act of "A Night's Lodging," by Mat Kelly, H. Thompson and Tommy Bree, and original banjo solos by Miss Ella La Rue. A large audience enjoyed M'lle Gaugain's dancing, Maggie Knight's character singing, and the other attractive features of the performance last night.

Theatre Comique.

A varied and interesting performance will be given to-night. There will be an entire new first part, in which Eva Silva, Sallie Thayer, Nellie Leonard, Mike Quinn and others will appear, and an interlude of amusing acts, songs and dances specified on our first page.

Italian Opera.

The sale of tickets for the performance of the opera of "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan Theatre to-morrow night, when Signorina Adelina Speranza will make her first appearance, progresses rapidly, and there is every promise of an immense house.

Oakland Theatre.

The second dramitic performance at this house which was so successfully opened on Monday evening under the management of J. Maguire, will take place this evening. The entertainment will commence with the capital play entitled "A Wonderful Woman. The farce of "The Quiet Family," will conclude the performance. The full cast of both pieces appears on our first page.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Causes of Death.

Methuselah died of liver complaint. Lot's wife of salt rheum. Absalom fell a wig-time to hairysipelas. Goliah died of the stone. Haman of the drop-sy. Nebuchadnezzar of too much vegetable diet, leaving Mrs. N. a grass widow. John Bunyan, troubled by corns, took his pill grimly and progressed. Desdemona also took a pill-ow. Samson was also killed by a pillar. Montgolfier was (s)pilled out of a balloon. Julius Cæsar was (s)killed in war. John Rogers died of an overdone steak. Romeo died of heart disease. Governor Hoffman dyed his moustache. Artemus Ward was joked to death.

Take Counsel.

If you wish to invest in real estate, it will be wise to take counsel of men of experience, such as King & Hart, business agents and real estate brokers, 121 Montgomery street, opposite Occidental Hotel. Persons of limited means will be found favorable opportunities for investment. Purchasers and sellers of real estate are not charged for advertising. This firm also undertake the collection of rents. BI

TO THE POOR AND RICH.—Any one in need of a truss, shoulder-brace, etc., can find such at cost price at 626 Sacramento street, on account of retiring from this branch of business. Also a Nelson & Doble's trilling machine, below cost. BI

To the Theatrical Profession.

Life-size pictures taken at $5 each, by the Patent Solar Prismal process. A quantity will be taken at much reduced prices. Bush & Still, photographers, junction of Geary and Market, entrance on Market streets. G

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to F. S. Reilly, Agents. H

Lever Buckle Suspenders,

THE WIFE OF JAMES FISK, JR.

How and Where She Lived.

[Boston Correspondence Providence Press.

The excitement attending the Fisk murder has nearly died out. It was nearly as great here, where the deceased was so well known, as in New York. Mrs. Fisk has resided in a stylish house in Chester Square for some years, and thither her husband generally come once a week, arriving by the Fall River Line Sunday morning, and returning to New York Sunday night. It became a matter of inquiry, a year or two since, whether Fisk himself lived in Boston or New York, the inquiry being instituted by the Internal Revenue officials, and it was finally ciphered down that his legal residence was in New York, and in that city he was called upon to make his income returns. When he was in the dry goods firm of Jordan, Marsh & Co., he and his wife boarded at the Fremont House. Subsequently, or perhaps it was while he was still connected with that firm, he bought the house in Chester Square. He and Mrs. Fisk visited Europe some years since, and Mrs. Fisk, accompanied by her friend Miss Fanny Harrod (who was a former school-teacher in this city) and A. J. Pollard, Fisk's express agent here, made a second European tour last summer. There was no estrangement whatever between Mr. and Mrs. Fisk, as would have seemed natural. The latter has lived in expensive style, her husband furnishing the money. Her stylish carriage is well known in our streets, and it is the same in which the Colonel was wont to ride when he was here. In the course of his Sunday visits he transacted an immense amount of business, after holding a continuous levee at the house in Chester Square. It was currently reported years ago that the deceased had placed in trust for his wife a considerable sum of money to guard either one or both against a "rainy day." This sum was variously estimated from two to three hundred thousand to a million dollars. The Trustees were said to be well-known Boston gentlemen. When Mrs. Fisk was recently in Europe, a most extravagant article appeared in an American journal published in Paris, describing the extensive wardrobe she was said to have purchased abroad. No queen was ever arrayed half so gorgeously as the fanciful writer sought to array Mrs. Fisk. How much truth there was in the article, which was extensively copied in this country, Bostonians have no means of knowing, for the lady dresses no more extravagantly than scores of our fashionable ladies, although she has always been remarkable for her taste and elegance of dress.

A Puzzle.

The following puzzle is said to have been composed by the Bishop of Oxford:

I have a trunk with two locks, two caps, two musical instruments, two established measures, and a great number of articles a carpenter can not dispense with; that I have always about me two fine fish and a great number of smaller ones, two lofty trees, two flowers and the fruit of an indigestible plant, two playful animals, and a number of a smaller and less tame breed, a fine stag, some whips without handles, some weapons of warfare and a number of weathercocks, the steps of a hotel, the House of Commons on the eve of a division, two students or scholars, and some Spanish grandees to wait upon me. Answer—The human body, eyelids, knee-caps, drums of the ear, feet, nails, soles, muscles, palms, tulips, hips, calves, hairs, heart, lashes, arms and blades, veins, instep, eyes and nose, pupils and tendons.

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 427 Bush street above the Alhambra.

Canine Ravages on the Sheep-Fold.

Official reports show in Ohio an annual loss of $3,000,000 in sheep killed by dogs, and nearly $1,000,000 in injuries—a loss equivalent to 6,000,000 pounds of wool, or a tax of two per cent. upon the total sum invested in sheep in this State. It is said that in two years, from 1868 to 1870, Illinois sank from the sixth to the ninth rank among the States in the number and value of its sheep, and this great falling off is attributed to a proportionate increase in the number of dogs, and the lack of proper legislation to prevent their ravages among the sheep. The Legislature of Maryland is considering the same subject. The returns from five counties report over 1,100 sheep killed in one year by dogs.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, Harry Stanwood, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon, 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Baumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUT

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs. Look Hospital spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST result to the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "Honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

Still in 'Em.

"One-eyed Winston" was (and probably is now) a negro preacher in Virginia, and his ideas of theology and human nature are often very original, as the following anecdote may prove. A gentleman thus accosted the old gentleman one Sunday: "Winston, I understand you believe every woman has seven devils. Now, how can you prove it?" "Well, sah, did you never read in de Bible how de seben debbels were cast out'er Mary Magdalene?" "Oh! yes; I've read that." "Did you ebber hear of 'em bein' cast out of any odder woman, sah?" "No, I never did." "Well, den, all de odder got 'em yet!"

Puzzled.

An ignorant, conceited fellow got aboard a steamer on Lake Huron. After standing on deck awhile among the crowd, and seeing the captain approach, he inquired: "What is the name of this lake?" "The Lake Huron," answered the captain. "I want to know what lake I'm on. What's its name?" "Well, sir," said the captain, "the lake you're on is the Lake Huron. Does that satisfy you?" The crowd were now smiling quite audibly, and the man walked on muttering low to himself: "The lake I'm on is the lake I'm on! That's a polite captain, that is!"

Lost a Chance.

An elderly gentleman, returning home one Sunday, began to extol the merits of the sermon to his son. The following dialogue tells the story: "I have heard, Walter," said the old gentleman, "one of the most delightful sermons ever delivered before a Christian society. It carried me to the gates of Heaven." "Well, I think," replied Master Walter, "you'd better have dodged in, for you never will have another such chance."

E Jump.

Wild Oats, an illustrated New York paper, says of E. Jump, whilom of San Francisco:

This celebrated caricaturist has been engaged to draw for Wild Oats, and we propose using him as our big gun to move upon the works of nature in the persons of our prominent men, not exactly holding the mirror up to nature, but holding it up to fancy. Mr. Jump has no living equal in his particular line.

A Whole Volume.

Speaking of pages, a few years ago a fat drunkard accosted Sol. Sharp, then a Senator, for some position, saying, "Don't you remember me—I used to be a page?" "Well," responded Sol, "you have grown into a volume."

Sale of Blooded Stock.

Some fine blooded stock will be sold at California Tattersalls sale, corner of Sansome and Halleck streets, on Saturday, also a general assortment of vehicles.

Elegant Millinery Establishment.

The elegance and taste displayed in fitting up Mrs. E. Shoss's new millinery establishment, 406 Kearny street, near Pine, is the talk of the town. The extent and variety of the stock, and the beauty of the new style of hats just received overland, are the admiration of the ladies, who know that the best styles and lowest prices are to be found at 406 Kearny street. BI

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "The" Hat Store is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

Dr. Barlow J. Smith

Gives free lectures (to Gentlemen only) every Friday evening, commencing at 7½, at his Hygeian Hall, 637 California st., and examines patients phrenologically as to health. The best and cheapest place in California for a sick person to get well. Q

Watches.

The finest assortment of Gold and Silver Watches ever offered for sale in this city is offered by J. W. Tucker & Co. Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

Horatio Sparkles happening to meet a young lady friend in Kearney street, the other day, was struck by the beauty of design of a lovely set of jewelry she was wearing, which she told him she had lately purchased at Hirchman's jewelry store, 133 Kearny street.

Twelfth-Night Revels.

They do some things exceedingly well in New Orleans. For instance, on Twelfth-Night one of the mystic societies of the Crescent City celebrated its third annual representation by a procession through the streets, which were ablaze with light and crowded with people. The subject illustrated was English humor, Don Quixote and Sancho Panza, followed by sixteen cars, on each of which was a tableau. The pictures were from the following authors:

Chaucer—The Canterbury Pilgrims.
Shakespeare—Touchstone, Audrey.
Falstaff—Dogberry and the Merry Wives of Windsor.
Johnson—The Three Graces, the Lion, tiger and ballad singer.
Butler—Scenes from Hudibras.
John Gay—Scenes from the Beggar's Opera.
Swift—Gulliver and the Lilliputians.
Sterne—Uncle Toby, Widow and Dr. Slop.
Goldsmith—Scene from the Vicar of Wakfield.
Burns—Tam O'Shanter and the Witches.
Scott—The Monument and Meg Merriles.
Irving—Rip Van Winkle and Ichabob Crane.
Dickens—Captain Cuttle, Pickwick, Bumble, the Two Wellers and the fat Boy.
Bret Harte—The Heathen Chinee, Bill Nye, and Stumpy and the Baby.

The merry-making was appropriately concluded by a grand ball at the Opera House.

New Nursery Rhymes.

Here are the latest political nursery rhymes published in England:

See-saw Bradlaugh,
England must have a new master;
No one the better a penny a day,
All go to ruin the faster.

Dilke, Dilke, Dilver,
Grudged the Queen her silver
Call Goldstick
To beat him, quick!
Dilke, Dilke, Dilver.

Sing a song of Tichborne:
Twitching of the eye,
Ever so many witnesses
With fingers in the pie.
The case has long been opened,
To an end it can't be brought.
Isn't this a dreary thing
To set before a court!

Worked Backward.

A worthy Scotch couple, when asked how their son had broken down so early in life, gave the following explanation: "When we begun life together we worked hard, and lived upon porridge and such like, gradually adding to our comforts as our means improved, until we were able to dine off a bit of roast meat, and sometimes a boilt chickie; but Jack, our son, he worked backward, and began with the chickie first."

Horse Exercise.

Nothing is more likely to give a lady a graceful carriage than excercise on horseback. Every lady should learn to ride. This accomplishment can be gained by taking lessons at the California Riding Academy on Howard street, between Fourth and Fifth, where gentle, trained horses are kept. The proprietors have had long experience in managing riding academies in New York.

Sick Ghosts.

At a recent spiritual circle, the spirits being asked if sickness was known in the other world, promptly rapped in reply, "Cholera-in-phantom."

Sharp.

A Western editor speaks of his rival as "Mean enough to steal the swill from a blind hog!" The rival retorts by saying, "He knows he lies; I never stole his swill!"

Good Advice, Free of Charge.

Do you want a good and well-fitting shirt, or good flannel and merino underwear? For everything in the line of gents' furnishing goods, go to the Pioneer Shirt Manufactory, 320 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush. Shirts ready-made in every style, and made to order. H

Bridal Tours Denounced.

[Carl Benson in New York Times.]

Looking at the custom from an æsthetic and sentimental point of view, nothing can be more repulsive.

AN AMERICAN MARRIAGE

is, in theory, a love-match; and it is generally so in practice. Now two persons in love want to see as much as possible of each other, and as little as possible of other people. It is true that we find exceptions; there are individuals whose diseased vanity desires to give publicity to every act of their life. But these vulgarians are, happily, rare in any class. An instinct of seclusion and modesty is the general rule. Yet this absurd custom forces a newly married couple either to put on an unnatural restraint on legitimate affection, or to make themselves ridiculous before the public. All this, however, it may be suggested, is matter of taste. But what follows is not a questionable point of taste or comfort; it is a matter of downright fact, as certain as if it could be mathematically demonstrated.

THE CONSUMMATION OF MARRIAGE

is, with one exception, the most critical period, physically, of woman's life. After the moral and physical excitement which attends it, her system demands absolute rest, repose, quiet, regular and good living, a supporting and restorative way of life. If these can be secured for some weeks, so much the better, but at any rate they are necessary for some days. Not only her health for the rest of her mortal existence but the health and strength of her offspring may be, and often are, materially affected by the want of proper care at this time. Instead of which the bridal tour piles on additional excitement and fatigue, makes regularity of life impossible—in short involves the exact reverse of all that the rules of health and physiology require. At peril of being thought effeminate, I will go further and say that for the man, too, at this time, repose and calm, though not so necessary, are highly desirable.

IT CONSTANTLY HAPPENS

in the case of both sexes, that a slight indisposition, which passed unnoticed in the hurry of preparation, is aggravated to a serious and fatal extent by the excitement and exposure and neglect consequent on the wedding tour. No man, for instance, would think of postponing his marriage on account of a slight cold. If he staid quietly at home, afterward, and took care of himself, it would pass away like other slight colds; he goes on a bridal tour in the depth of winter and the malady develops into a chronic pulmonary complaint. Nor would a young woman put off her marriage because she felt a little extra lassitude and want of appetite, with an occasional headache, which, however, may be premonitory symptoms of typhoid fever. If you take typhoid in time, there is nothing specially dangerous about it; care and patience only are necessary, and it runs its course. But if neglected at first it is almost inevitably fatal. Last year came under my observation, the one of a bride, the other of a bridegroom, dying of typhoid just after a wedding trip, which had caused the early symptoms to be misunderstood and neglected. And I have known things worse than death to happen—insanity, temporary or permanent, brought on by the extra fatigue and excitement of the wedding journey.

TWO CASES

CHALLENCE
Emollient Ferruginous Soap!
This is a new family soap—a true Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.
Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.
The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

CHALLENGE
Emollient Ferruginous Soap!
THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.
Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.
The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

True Friends.

Give us sincere friends, or none. This hollow glitter of smiles and words, compliments that mean nothing, protestations of affection as solid as the froth from champagne, invitations that are pretty sentences, uttered because such things are customary, are all worthless. There is no need of them. It is proper to be civil and courteous to the most indifferent stranger; but why assume friendship's outward show when no reality underlies it? When one feels friendship, the object of that sentiment cannot suffer, and leave our hearts untroubled: cannot be slandered, leaving us unharmed.

What Boston Does.

An Eastern exchange says: Boston elects a temperance Governor, and with a prohibitory law in force, the Boston Cadets escort him to hear the election sermon, and then, at the expense of the State, all hands partake of a supper at the Parker House, with champagne and hot punch—the feast costing $10 per plate. "Now," says a newspaper critic of this affair, "if John Smith gets up a one-dollar supper, including hot whisky, for his friends, he is seized, fined and imprisoned. Our good friends in Boston always understand a practical joke, particularly if the State or city pay for it.

Very Mortifying.

A clergyman on exchange found a note in the Bible to the effect that Brother A., requested the prayers of the church, that the loss of his wife might be blessed to him, etc. The preacher prayed most fervently. To his amazement and mortification he found that the note had lain in the pulpit a year, while the bereaved gentleman was on this Sabbath sitting with a new wife in the congregation.

A Promising Boy.

A farmer's wife, speaking of the smartness, aptness and intelligence of her son, a lad of six years, to a lady acquaintance, said: "He can read fluently any part of the Bible, repeat the whole catechism, and weed onions as well as his father." "Yes, mother," added the young hopeful, "and yesterday I licked Ned Rawson, throwed the cat down the well, and stole old Hickley's gimlet."

Unpleasant Hairdressing.

A young man insulted a citizen in a saloon yesterday and had his hair dressed in the most unpleasant manner. The citizen shampooed his head with four tumblers.

Too Bad.

We all have our trials. Mrs. Fair is to have another. We are sorry for it.

An unpopular "Ism" with everybody—the rheumatism.

Elegant Millinery Establishment.

The elegance and taste displayed in fitting up Mrs. E. Shoss's new millinery establishment, 406 Kearny street, near Pine, is the talk of the town. The extent and variety of the stock, and the beauty of the new style of hats just received overland, are the admiration of the ladies, who know that the best styles and lowest prices are to be found at 406 Kearny street. The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. The Good-Natured Flirt.

The woman who lays plans to captivate men's hearts in order to have a wicked delight in breaking them, is only a "dummy" used by novelists. But the girl who flirts indiscriminately for the mere pleasure of flirting, and who does so with very little regard to the possible pain and harm she may be occasioning, is not at all uncommon. Of her let all men beware. She generally comes in the most innocent guise—generally that of a little, soft, blue-eyed girl, who has nothing of the imposing or empress-like style of beauty about her. She is never grand, imperious, commanding, as the fictional flirt is. She looks wonderfully timid and sly, has affectionate little ways with her, and when she looks at you with her big, earnest, child-like eyes, how is it possible to suspect her? And, speaking literally, there is no harm in the girl. She does not purpose to do any wrong. She cannot help flirting, as she cannot help looking pretty, and engaging, and timid. She is possessed of these two dangerous qualities—exceeding warmth of affection and absolute fickleness of disposition. If a man could only secure the permanent love of a flirt who is a flirt by nature, he would be the happiest of husbands. She would never lose those coy little tendernesses and affections which make the temporary flirting with her so dangerously charming. Sometimes it actually does happen that the professional flirt is caught and domesticated. But, as a rule, she loses the delicious freshness of her manner, its piquancy and point. She may develop into a very sensible, loving and lovable sort of woman; she may become one of the hard and angular race of wives who are penurious, calculating, taciturn, and severe upon their daughters; or she may make a burlesque of her married life by attempting to grace it with the tricks and playfulness of her earlier years. In any case, however, she is sure to lose that quaint naturalness which rendered her juvenile efforts at love-making interesting; and she never makes so "secure" a wife as a girl who has lived her girl-life under less exciting and perilous circumstances.

Pavy's Arctic Expedition.

The Bulletin the other night told us all about the contemplated expedition of Mr. Octave Pavy, a native of New Orleans, who proposes to start from this city some time in August next to seek the open Polar sea, via the North Pacific and Behring's Straits. The project is a feasible one, and it may be that San Francisco will have the credit of establishing intercourse with the most exclusive circle in the world—the Arctic circle, which no one has ever succeeded in getting into, not even a Chronicle reporter.

Very Fine.

An exchange says:

Lawrence, capital of Kansas, is enthused by a grand religious revival. They are holding prayer meetings in liquor saloons.

It omits to mention that the members of the choir take drinks between hymns, and that the parson has a bottle of whisky in the vestry.

"The Bivalve."

Seven years ago W. Spreen started THE BIVALVE oyster saloon and chop house, 640 Market street, three doors below Kearny street, and under his management it speedily became THE FASHIONABLE OYSTER HOUSE of San Francisco. It has undergone several changes of proprietors since then, but now W. SPREEN is sole proprietor. The private rooms up stairs are the best furnished and most comfortable in the city for supper and wedding parties. THE BIVALVE is famous for oysters in every style. A

FRIDAY.....MARCH 1, 1872

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan—Italian Opera.

This theatre will present a brilliant spectacle to-night, crowded with the beauty and fashion of the city. No ordinary occasion will bring them together, for one of the most popular operas in existence—"La Traviata"—will be performed, a new prima donna, Signorina Adelina Speranza, will make her debut, and the favorite baritone, Signor G. Mancusi, will make his re-appearance. The chorus and orchestra, which have both been carefully drilled, will be under the direction of Signor G. Speranza. The box office will be open to-day for the sale of the seats still remaining undisposed of.

California Theatre.

To-night the talented actor, worthy manager, and old Californian, Charles Wheatleigh, will take a benefit. Boucicault's sensation drama of "The Colleen Bawn," will be presented with Charles Wheatleigh as Myles na Coppaleen, and Miss Rose Evans as Eily O'Connor. Miss May Howard will make her first appearance since her illness, and play the role of Anne Chute. The full cast appears on our first page. An original local comedietta entitled "Stocks," by "one who knows what it is himself," is underlined as in rehearsal. The usual matinee performance will be given to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

The same story at this theatre, "no standing room after 8 o'clock." Billy Emerson holds his own bravely and the new artistes increase in public favor nightly. Each one of them possesses sterling merit. Milburn is the most original of character vocalists; Fayette Welch, an end-man of the Billy Birch style; Harry Stanwood the driest of humorists, and Heywood the most charming of male soprano singers. The full programme which has delighted thousands during the week will be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Bagshot Abroad" with its thrilling railway bridge sensation will be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

All should see the real "hen convention" presented in the play of "Man's Wrongs vs. Woman's Rights," which is to be performed to-night for the last time, as the most extravagant of extravaganzas is in rehearsal, and will probably be produced to-morrow night. A capital first part and amusing interlude precede the piece.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Mortimer is a great favorite in his character sketches; Johnny Kelly and Henri Stuart are very good in song and dance; Eva Silva's ballads are very pleasing, and a variety of amusing acts make up a performance which suits all tastes.

Oakland Theatre.

A large audience attended the second dramatic entertainment given by J. Maguire's company. The drama entitled "A Wonderful Woman" and he farce of "The Quiet Family," were well performed. A matinee performance will be given tomorrow.

Author and Actor.

To-morrow afternoon and evening Paul J. Robert, joint author with Joseph C. Ford, of "Bagshot Abroad" will appear in the character of Bagshot.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Very True.

A Canada paper says: "The largest papers in the United States are not the most largely circulated. Size and circulation have no necessary connection."

Sunday Out.

Betsy: "Shall you be a-goin' out this a'ternoon, mem?" Mistress: "I think not Betsy?" Betsy: "Cos yer can if yer like, I don't want to go out."

Book-keepers and chickens have to scratch for a living.

Take Counsel.

If you wish to invest in real estate, it will be wise to take counsel of men of experience, such as King & Hart, business agents and real estate brokers, 121 Montgomery street, opposite Occidental Hotel. Persons of limited means will be found favorable opportunities for investment. Purchasers and sellers of real estate are not charged for advertising. This firm also undertake the collection of rents. BI

TO THE POOR AND RICH.—Any one in need of a truss, shoulder-brace, etc., can find such at cost price at 626 Sacramento street, on account of retiring from this branch of business. Also a Nelson & Doble's trilling machine, below cost. BI

To the Theatrical Profession.

Life-size pictures taken at $5 each, by the Patent Solar Prismal process. A quantity will be taken at much reduced prices. Bush & Still, photographers, junction of Geary and Market, entrance on Market streets. G

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to F. J. Reilly Agents. N

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

McDowell, Show Card Writer,

Ready made and made to order, No. 7 Geary street, corner Kearny. U

Don't Whine.

Josh Billings says: I hev allurs observed that a whining dog is sure to get lickt in a fight. No cur of well-reggerlated morals kan resist the temptation to bite a cowardly purp that tries to sneak off with his tale between his legs The whinin bizness man is just so. A good ringing bark is wuth more to put greenbax in a man's pocket than forty-two years of whinin.

Nilsson's "Physic."

The musical "cricket" of a Western paper says of Nilsson's appearance in "Lucia" that she was "too robust to correctly personate the gentle Lucy Ashton." "It was well done," he adds plaintively—"yes, it was nobly done—but her physic was against her."

Charitable Man.

A man arriving at a late hour a little the worse for too much supper, hatless and coatless, was asked by his indignant spouse: "Where's your hat and coat?" "Sent 'em, my dear (hic), to the Chicago suffer-ers."

Pretty Talk.

The Advertiser lately made this grand statement: "The dental diagnosis of elemosynary steeds is ever an ungracious office;" which is very fine for the country rudeness of "'Twon't de to look a gift horse in the mouth."

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon. 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Bumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches form a most appropriate present. The egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff. and is presided over by A. Bona, his worthy successor. U

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, i not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant. and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon. at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon. I KISSED YOU.

I kissed you, and oh! how sweet was the thrill,
That sped from my lips to the heart;
The pleasure I felt was purer by far,
Than language can ever impart;
No tongue can find words, sweet girl, to express
The bliss that pervaded my soul,
As I clasped your delicate form to my breast,
With a rapture I could not controll.

I kissed you, and oh! how pure was the joy,
That filled my passionate breast,
Not a nerve but thrilled with exquisite bliss.
As fondly those sweet lips I prest;
How the blushes o'er-mantled your beautiful face,
With a glow that would roses eclipse,
But sweeter than roses when fragant with dew,
Was the nectar I stole from your lips.

I kissed you, and oh! how my bosom did swell,
As warmly I pressed yours to mine,
How fondly my lips did linger in bliss,
As they clung more closely to thine;
Your breath was sweeter than any perfume,
And stole like a balm o'er my brain,
While fainting with bliss I clung to the kiss,
And sighed but for kisses again.

I kissed you, and oh! I felt that my life,
For bliss such as this would be given,
I dreamed that my spirit had left its abode
For with you, my soul was in heaven;
I kissed you and all the sweets of the world,
Were melted in passionate bliss,
And memory will bear to my last dying breath
The thoughts of that first loving kiss. S.

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

THE ALHAMBRA. — Thousands of people have during the week expressed their delight at the splendid entertainment presented by the Emerson Minstrels now, with the addition of Milburn, Welch, Stanwood, and Haywood, the strongest and most versatile troupe in the country. This afternoon and evening these favorite performers and the ever pleasing Billy Emerson will appear in a great programme. The Alhambra is not large enough to contain half those who wish to enjoy these entertainments.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE. — In spite of last night being an opera night, there was a fashionable audience present at the California Theatre, to do honor to the occasion of the benefit of Charles Wheatleigh, the favorite actor. "The Colleen Bawn" was presented in good style; the beneficiary personate the breezy, devil-may-care Miles na Coppaleen, bewitched by love, to the life. Miss Rose Evans made a charming Colleen Bawn, and Miss May Howard fully represented the beautiful and vivacious Anne Chute. J. C. Williamson gave a fine bit of quietly intense acting in the part of Danny Mann; Henry Edwards though rather heavy for Kyrle Daly, played the part in a jolly, hearty manner which was very pleasing, and Fred Franks was capital as Corrigan. The same popular play will be performed this afternoon and evening. On Monday evening "The Octoroon" will be played with Charles Wheatleigh in his great character of Salem Scudder.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—This afternoon and evening "Bagshot Abroad" will be presented with Paul J. Robert, one of the authors of the play, in the character of Bagshot. It will be played to-morrow evening for the last time. The sensation scene of the railway-bridge is now presented with thrilling effect. On Monday "The Winning Hand," which we hope will prove worthy of its name.

ITALIAN OPERA.—The operatic entertainment given at the Metropolitan Theatre last night was a brilliant success in every particular. The house was crowded, every seat in the dress circle and many in the orchestra having been secured in advance and many ladies being forced to find seats down stairs. Signora Adelina Speranza, the new prima donna, at once established herself as a favorite; the whole opera was well performed. Signora Speranza is a true artiste, has a good school and is 'clever" in the use of her voice, which is sweet, sympathetic and flexible; while she succeeded in making a most favorable impression by her singing of the principal airs, she did full justice to the recitative, which she rendered in an intelligent and artistic style. Signor Bianchi was in capital voice and gained his full share of the applause from the audience, far more liberal than usual in that particular; Signor Mancusi never sang better than he did last night and proved that his voice had not suffered from disuse; he received a most enthusiastic welcome on making his appearance. The choruses were generally well rendered and the orchestra kept well in hand by Signor Speranza. Altogether the opera, considering the small price which our otherwise liberal public are willing to pay for an entertainment which costs so much to produce, was miraculously good, and we are sure gave general satisfaction.

BELLA UNION.—A great entertainment has been prepared for to-night. After a capital first part an interlude will be given, in which Samwells and Montague will appear in aerial gymnastics, M'lle Marie Gaugain in her very pretty pas seul, "Vivian's Melodies," Maggie Knight in character songs, Ella La Rue in banjo solos, Clara Starr in ballads, and other members of the company in amusing acts. After this will be produced for the first time an original burlesque extravaganza entitled "Ulf the Minstrel and the Princess Dismonducks." In this Carrie Chapman will play the title role, and the other members of the company appear in about a score of other funny characters.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—This lively place of amusement is always crowded on Saturday night, when the management present extra attractions. There is immense variety in the programme prepared for this evening and those who expend the small sum of 25 cents charged for admission will be fully satisfied with the entertainment.

STILL MORE STARS.—"Novelty, increasing novelty," is the motto adopted by the spirited managers of the Alhambra Theatre. The next stars will be Miss Milburn, who is said to be as clever in her specialties as J. H. is in his, and Add Ryman, of whom our Eastern exchanges speak most highly.

FRENCH DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE.—The artistes of the French Dramatic Company intend giving a performance shortly for the benefit of the Exchequer of France; they met to make arrangements at Lafayette Hall on Thursday.

"THE THESPIAN."—This is the name of a neat little paper publishing the programme of the Academy of Music, Oakland, and circulated gratuitously.

"THE WINNING HAND."—A sensation play with the above title written by W. S. Johnson of this city, will be produced on Monday at the Metropolitan Theatre. It has been in rehearsal every day of the present week and will be placed on the stage with every adjunct to assure its success. The management of the Metropolitan Theatre are doing their very best to encourage the dramatic authors of San Francisco and deserve credit for their efforts.

MISS ETTIE HENDERSON.—This actress, who was to have appeared at the Metropolitan Theatre, got as far as Omaha, didn't like the look of the road and turned back.

ROBERT CRAIG.—This eccentric comedian of whom the Boston papers speak in terms of the highest praise, will commence an engagement at the Metropolitan Theatre, on the 18th.

ANOTHER NEW PLAY.—A play entitled "The Fatal Talisman," by Dr. Hayne, will follow "The Winning Hand" at the Metropolitan Theatre.

CLIFF HOUSE.—A drive to the Cliff House is the greatest treat that can be offered to visitors from the East. Capt. Foster keeps a model hotel; his dinners and wines are unexceptionably good.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

SAN FRANCISCO STALL.—Nos. 60 and 61 California Market, sell fine meats at cash less than any other place in the city. W

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

OAKLAND.—The Academy of Music having been fitted up with a convenient stage, necessary scenery and comfortable seats, was opened on Monday evening, under the management of J. Maguire, to a very large house. The entertainment consisted of an opening address by the manager, "All is Not Gold that Glitters," and the farce of "A Quiet Family." On Thursday evening a second entertainment was given to another large audience, proving that the press were right in crying out "Oakland wants a theatre," and that the Oakland people are willing to afford the drama a home among them. "A Wonderful Woman" and the farce of "A Quiet Family" were performed. There will be a matinee to-day, when "All That Glitters is not Gold" and a roaring farce will be played. The evening's entertainment will conclude with SACRAMENTO.—"The Red Pocket Book" has been played every night during the past week at the Metropolitan Theatre by Proctor's Dramatic company. Manager Proctor has made arrangements for the production of "Early California," which will be presented during the coming week with the original scenery, effects, etc., from the Metropolitan Theatre of this city.

MARYSVILLE.—The Dramatic Association will give a benefit to Prof. Mansfeldt on next Wednesday evening..... Grace Greenwood will lecture at the theatre on Monday.

RED BLUFF.—The Red Bluff Dramatic Troupe gave a performance last week. Mrs. Jones, her daughter, and Miss Wellington, are spoken of as the stars of the troupe.

STOCKTON.—Edwards's new panorama of "The Great Rebellion" was exhibited at Hickman's Hall on Thursday evening.

GRASS VALLEY.—A concert will be given by local talent at Hamilton Hall, on the 9th, for the benefit of the Grass Valley Literary Association.

BLACK HAWK, COL.—By the Black Hawk Daily Bugle, a new exchange, we learn that the Alhambra Varieties s open there, under the management of T. R. Davis, with Miss Carrie Daval as star, and a variety troupe.

STOCKTON.—Grace Greenwood lectured at Mozart Hall on Tuesday evening to a small audience

DENVER, COL.—Miss Fanny Morgan Phelps was succeeded by Miss Major Pauline Cushman at the Denver Theatre, and on Feb. 22d the Nathan Troupe commenced an engagement.

SALT LAKE.—Pardy, Scott & Fostelle's Minstrels were playing to good houses at the theatre up to the 21st.

PIOCHE, NEV.—A new hall for theatrical companies, designed to seat 800, is nearly completed, and will be inaugurated by the Salt Lake Minstrels.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—The company now playing at the Oxford, San Francisco, have been engaged by Manager Piper, of Piper's Opera House, and will open there next week.

PORTLAND,—Our correspondent, Cornucopia, writing under date of Feb. 23th, says: The great feature of the season at the Oro Fino Theatre has been the production in a style somewhat magnificent of "Rosedale: or, the Rifle Ball." Portland has been in ecstacies. Everyone pronounces the play superior to anything of the kind heretofore gotten up here. The attendance is yet very large, now nearly the eighth night of its run, which is something unprecedented in the theatricals of this city. Twenty minutes after the opening of the matinee on Saturday, placards were hung in the entrance informing the public that standing room only remained. The wardrobes used in "Rosedale" are decidedly elegant; the ladies and toilets and dresses are particularly au fait, no less a bill than $330 dollars having been paid for the dresses of Mrs. Waldron, Miss Annie Pixley and Miss Kate Pelt. The heroine is most admirably rendered, red and other fires lending throughout the play most invaluable aid to the impressive and very picturesque tableaux terminating each act. The dell scene in act fourth is something grand, and is very favorably commented on by the entire press of this city.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York some changes have taken place since our last summary: At Wallack's, "The Veteran;" St. James, "Marriage;" Wood's Museum "Darling;" and at Niblo's, a reconstruction of "The Black Crook," have been the principal attractions.

Lawrence Barrett, having accepted the management of the New Varieties, New Orleans, closed his engagement at Booth's Theatre on the 24th ult. Junius Brutus Booth, manager of the Boston Theatre, was engaged to succeed him in the part of Cassius.

J. H. O'Neil appears in a new jig at the Thirty fourth street Theatre, and Serjeant Bark presents his lightning drill....The Bowery Theatre has a new drama called "Buffalo Bill," by Fred. G. Maeder, with J. B. Studley in the title role.... Bryant's has a new burlesque on "The Veteran" Sophie and Irene Werrell appear with their sister Jennie at Theatre Comique...."Divorce" is still running at the Fifth-avenue Theatre. Miss Kate Newton now plays the role formerly played by Miss Fanny Davenport....Miss Kitty Asheroft, serio-comic vocalist and the play of "Jeff; or, Plantation Life as it Was," were the attractions at Tony Pastor's....The fresh attractions announced at the Union Square Theatre are the burlesque of "Bad Dickey," with Mr. Fisk as the Duke of Gloster, and E. D. Davies, the popular ventriloquist, Hughy Dougherty also discourses on the Alabama claims....San Francisco Minstrels draw good houses...."Humpty Dumpty" still runs at the Olympic.

The New York Atlas speaking of the performance at Theatre Comique, says:

Jenny Benson is a wonderfully agile clog dancer. La Petite Benson is a lively, pretty and intelligent infant (she is about three years old and thirty inches high) who sings comic ditties with appropriate action, who toddles in excellent time to the tune of a popular walk-around and who is immensely popular with the T. O. spectators.

Miss Elise Holt (Mrs. Harry Wall) became the mother of a bouncing baby on the day that Col. T. Allston Brown left England.

Miss Charlotte Cushman was offered $1000 per night for three or more dramatic performances in Chicago, which she declined accepting.

A Philadelphia correspondent speaking of the performance at Fox's American Theatre, says:

Harry Raynor's solo on the Japanese fiddle is wonderful, and under his fingers the harsh sounding instrument is made a dispenser of charming melody.

Harry must have improved very much in his performance on that diabolical instrument since he left San Francisco.

The Chicago Republican says that "When Alice Dunning discarded silken tights and the undress burlesque, and descended to long clothes, the leg theatricals lost a good figure, and the legitimate drama gained a charming actress."

It is rumored that the Globe in Broadway will be shortly opened under the management of Miss Laura Keene and Miss Matilda Heron, with Chas H. Day as Business Manager.

Henri Drayton, Mrs. Bishings-Bernard and P Bernard will appear at the St. James Theatre, Boston, on March 4th, in the opera of "The Enchantress."

Dupree and Benedict's Minstrels were at Buffalo on the 28th and 29th ult. Louis Gumepert, orchestra leader, left the troupe on the 16th for New York, thence to Germany, where somebody has left him some money. Report places the amount at $100,000.

Alex. Henderson, manager of the Lydia Thompson troupe, it is said, through the death of his mother, has come into possession of the family estates in England, valued at over $500,000.

Miss Maggie Mitchell's starring season includes engagements beginning at Booth's Theatre, New York, March 18th to April 27th; Boston Theatre, April 29th to May 18th; at the Metropolitan Theatre, San Francisco, and through the interior of the State, from May 27th to July 5th.

Miss Fanny B. Price, supported by a dramatic company, is announced to perform at East Saginaw, Mich., March 4th.

Mrs. John Wood and her English company will appear at Niblo's Garden, New York March 4th when the "Black Crook" will be transported to [illegible].

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau has appeared at a St. Louis theatre in a new play entitled "Befiled," the joint production of Mr. C. W. Taylcure and Mr. Edward Spencer. The heroine is a Fifth Avenue belle and is named Mabel Buckley.

The Boston Courier of the 18th ult. says: "Mr. Robert Craig presents an exceedingly attractive bill for his farewell benefit next Saturday evening at the Museum consisting of "The Widow's Victim," with the famous imitations, "Box and Cox," in which Mr. Warren will play the eccentric printer and Mr. Craig the irascible hatter, and the Irish Emigrant" with the beneficiary as Tim O'Brien. Mr. Craig is engaged to appear shortly at the Metropolitan Theatre in this city.

Mr. Fechter's theatre in New York will have a fountain in the parquette; the stage will have no footlights but will be lighted by a calcium reflector in the ceiling of the auditorium, and the orchestra will be placed under the stage out of the sight. It is stated that $90,000 have been spent in refitting this house, which was formerly known as the French or Fourteenth Street Theatre.

The New York correspondent of the Missouri Republican makes the following comments on the acting of Mr. James McKaye: The expounder of Delsarte, let me say, has improved. He finds the words of his part and his legs quite enough to occupy his attention, and we in consequence see less of the 27 motions of the eye-lid and the manœuvre of the nostril. Mr. McKaye still clings to the 340 movements of the eye-brow, and the way those hairy bits of artist travel around his marbel brow is a miracle. Now McKaye is not so bad. He is a handsome, intellectual-looking man, madly in love with acting. He wears some magnificent costumes, and if he could disabuse his mind of some belief concerning his legs, and not persistently stand on one, with the other poised a little behind like a flying Mercury, he'd not be so ungraceful.

Annie Hindle was at Cincinnati on the 19th ult.

The Martinetti Family vs. John Stetson lawsuit was decided in the Boston courts on the 14th. John Stetson, manager of the Howard Athenæum Boston, engaged, through Colonel T. Allston Brown, dramatic agent, the Martinetti Family, then playing at Wood's Museum, in New York, at $500 per week. This was in July, 1870. When the party reached Boston, they were two less in number than when engaged. The consequence was they were weak, and gave unsatisfactory performances, Paul was also taken sick during the first week, and Stetson was compelled to call in the assistance of his company in order to give the Martinetti pantomimes. At the end of the first week Stetson refused to allow them to continue their performances in consequence of their inability to give satisfaction. The company was not as he had engaged them. The Martinetti Family sued Stetson for breach of contract, and to recover four weeks' salary. The jury decided in favor of Stetson, giving the Martinetti Family $250, being one-half of the salary for the one week that they performed.

Ella Wesner opened in Baltimore on the 26th ult., for two weeks.

Tony Pastor and troupe will start from Providence, May 6th, on their annual summer tour. Those engaged thus far are Jenny Engel, Ella Wesner, Emma Alford, Kitty O'Neil, Sydney Franks Harrigan and Hart, Frank Kerns, Sam Devere Johnny Queen, and Frank Gerard.

Santley, Miss Kellogg, and Anna Mehlig concertize at Boston, March 19 and 20.

At Cincinnati Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau opened 12th in Dora, to fair business. At one of the halls Johnny Allen, Alice Harrison, and Little Mac opened on that date in "Schneider" for four nights.

Charles Mathews, St. Charles, New Orleans, 19th.

J. K. Emmett, Chicago, 19th; Troy, 26th; thence New Orleans.

Joe Jefferson, Boston, March 4; Louisville, April 2, four nights, under R. E. Mills.

In Boston the Nilsson Opera Troupe have the Boston Theatre and Cresswick appears in drama on the off nights. Little Nell, the California diamond, is at the St. James. Miss Leclercq and a dramatic company were at the Globe....The Howard Athenæum announces new stars: Sheridan and Mack; the musical artists, Myers and Canslaud; the gymnastic Arabian Brothers; the little wonder, Sapphe; Herr Willio, the contortionists; and Mr. George Clair. The performance concludes with the celebrated drama, "Nick of the Woods," in which Mr. William Walley will appear as the Jibbenainosay, and George Clair as Wanango, the Indian chief. Bob Hart, Harry Bloodgood, and the other old favorites will add their attractions to this long list of novelties,

Theatrical Costumes.

For the best Masquerade or Theatrical Costumes everyone goes to Mrs. S. F. Paulin's, professional costumer for the theatres, 803 Montgomery street, N. W. corner of Jackson. Fancy, Historical, and Classical costumes made to order at lowest rates. B

The San Francisco Beau Brummel.

There is a gentleman in San Francisco who is known as Beau Brummel from his taste in dress. He procures his shirt, underwear and elegant cravats of the latest style of P. Beamish, late of Beamish & Gibson, corner of Market and Third streets, Nucleus Building (Ward's Shirt Store). x

The Ladie's Tonic,

Ladies find the safest and most agreeable tonic, old Dr. Abernethy's Green Ginger Brandy. Chenery, Souther & Co. sole agents for San Francisco. BG

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. c

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

Thawed Out.

Fayette Welsh, J. H. Milburn, and the other artistes newly engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, were delighted when they were thawed out on the plains. It is pleasant to be thawed out. Everyone thaws out at McMahon's Saloon. 318 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra. Old Cutter whisky, Bumgardner whisky and Chicken Cock, are splendid to thaw out on. P. J. McMahon, formerly proprietor of the Russ House Saloon, is a connoisseur in whiskies. Q

FOR FINELY FLAVORED SAUSAGES, HAMS, Bacon, etc., all made of the best grain fed pork, go to E. P. Bunker's Stall, 74 and 75 California Market. Mr. Bunker's club sausages, for flavor and delicacy, equal any ever made east of the Sierras, and he cuts up nothing but first-class meats. Y

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 137 Bush street above the Alhambra.

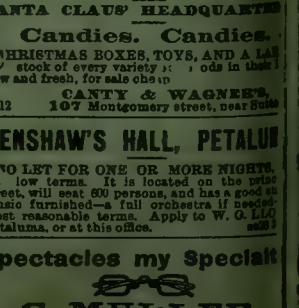
DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE



N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIFIC COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the special treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he has determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life retirement; but the constant applications from those suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs. Look Honor, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 18 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST was unparalleled in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and speedy treatment and moderate charges to all."

Emollient Ferruginous Soap!
THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and specially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.
Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.
The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from Chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from hi own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

WHO'S YOUR FRIEND!

[A DEDICATION FROM A DEAR FRIEND.]

Why, Nolan, the Boot and Shoe man of great renown.
Whose Boots and Shoes are the best in all this town.
A wonderful impression he has made,
Since he began to push along his trade.
Once on a time he used to wait for a chance,
But finding that the world approves of spirit.
As well as character, worth, and merit,
He pushes his trade along with Grant's zeal,
Makes Boots and Shoes that wear like steel.
His unremitting efforts have at length increased
His means and his commercial strength.
His Boots and Shoes the best that can be bought,
And very cheanly sold, and so they ought.
He sells them for cash, the only plan,
That ever can make the rising man.
You have asked us who's your friend,
And we have told you all:
His motto, Large Returns and Profits Small.
At his establishment, we wish to mention,
You'll meet with civility and strict attention,
Besides a saving which ought to please
All lovers of good Boots and Shoes in times like these.
But where to find him, through the week,
Is at his well-known place, No. 11 Third street.

Alhambra Theatre.

The same story at this house, "no standing room after 8 o'clock." To-night an entirely new programme will be presented—new first part, interludes and olio. Harry Stanwood has a few remarks to make to-night and if they are received in the right spirit, he will play a banjo solo, and then another banjo solo and then another banjo solo and then another. J. H. Milburn will make a new draft on his repertoire and present some original characters; Fayette Welch will appear in first part, interlude and afterpiece; Heywood will sing at least three sweet ballads; Billy Emerson will appear in the first part and present his ever-popular "Drum Major" in the interlude; the Reynolds Brothers will give their act entitled "Plantation Pastime," and the performance will conclude with "Julius, the Mischievous Nigger," in which Fayette Welch, the great Heywood, Harry Stanwood and J. Robinson will appear.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Paul J. Robert, joint author with Jos. C. Ford of the comedy of "Bagshot Abroad," made his first appearance on any stage on Saturday evening, in the character of Bagshot, and acquitted himself admirably for an amateur. He was remarkably self-possessed, read well and acted gracefully; Mr. Robert would make a good actor if he were to study for the profession. To-night a sensational drama in five acts, by W. S. Johnson of this city, entitled "The Winning Hand," will be produced with new and appropriate scenery by J. R. Wilkins, and sensational effects by Geo. H. Ockley and E. Bishop. This piece has been carefully rehearsed, and will have full justice done it by the company engaged in its representation. There will be a grand matinee on Wednesday.

California Theatre.

To-night, one of the very best sensational dramas ever written—"The Octoroon"—will be performed with Charles Wheatleigh in his inimitable impersonation of Salem Scudder, Miss Rose Evans as Zoe, Henry Edwards as the big Injun Wah-no-tee, J. C. Williamson as Uncle Pete, W. A. Mestayer as Jacob McClosky, and the other parts judiciously distributed. This play will be performed to-morrow night, and on Wednesday evening, the three act comedy of "A Victim of Circumstances" and the new local sketch entitled "Stocks," by "one who knows what it is himself," will be presented.

Bella Union.

A very varied and attractive performance was given last evening and will be repeated again to-night. Among many pleasing features may be mentioned the very pretty pas seul by M'lle Marie Gaugain entitled "Vivian's Melodies," and a double clog dance by Marie Zoel and Miss Josephine, which drew shouts of applause and a small shower of half dollars which reminded one of "old times." Maggie Knight appeared in new songs; Ella La Rue in banjo solos, and the extravaganza of "Ulf the Minstrel," full of pleasing melodies and clever puns concluded the evening's amusement.

Theatre Comique.

A well pleased audience was present at this place of amusement on Saturday night and again last night. The same excellent programme will be presented this evening. It comprises character sketches by Frank Mortimer; banjo solos by Mike Quinn; comic songs by Sally Thayer; song and dance by Johnny Diamond; a variety of acts and dances by Johnny Kelly and Henri Stewart, and other performances particularized on our first page. In addition to all this Ned Ward, the eccentric and Dutch comedian and variety performer, is announced to make his first appearance to-night.

Italian Opera.

The next opera night will be Friday, March 8th. Signorina Franchei will appear in the opera of "Lucrezia Borgia," and will, we are confident, make a success in the title role, which is better adapted to her style than Leonora in "Il Trovatore," in which she made her first appearance.

Another Debutante.

On Thursday evening Signor Mancusi will take a benefit at the Metropolitan Theatre, and will produce "Crispino e la Comare," and Miss Wadsworth of Sacramento will make her debut in the role of Annetta.

Complimentary Concert.

To-morrow evening a concert under the patronage of our best citizens will be given as a complimentary benefit to Louis Schmidt and Oscar Weil, directors of the San Francisco Musical Institute.

Death of a Pioneer Musician.

H. H. Oldfield, a pioneer musican, leader of the orchestra at the Lyceum, San Francisco, in 1858, connected in same capacity with the Olympic, and and for some time musical director of Max Walter and Sutliff's Music Hall, in Virginia City, died on Saturday night in this city. His funeral will take place at 1 o'clock to-day from 908 Jackson street, between Powell and Mason.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Theatrical Costumes.

For the best Masquerade or Theatrical Costumes everyone goes to Mrs. S. F. Paulin's, professional costumer for the theatres, 803 Montgomery street, N. W. corner of Jackson. Fancy, Historical, and Classical costumes made to order at lowest rates.

Make Your Home Beautiful

By adorning its walls with pleasant pictures in beautiful frames. W. A. KOLLMYER, dealer in pictures, and mirror and picture frame maker, 640 Washington street, just below Kearny, will, at a wonderfully small cost, transform the dullest looking room into a bright, cheerful budoir. A

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. Robert Heller seems to have met with prodigious success in India, which is rather remarkable, considering that India is the land of conjuration, where magic must be uncommonly clever in order to attract attention at all. He is accompanied by Miss Haidee Heller, whose "clairvoyance" proves effective. We read that Mr. Heller will proceed to Java and China, and will receive $30,000 for fifteen months' services.

M'lle Cerito, the celebrated danseuse, is coming to America.

There are no hopes of recovery entertained for Henry Blagrove, violinist.

Mapleson has taken Drury Lane, and Her Majesty's Theatre is not likely to be opened at present for Italian opera. Nilsson and Capoul will sing there during the London season, before going to Madrid in July.

Little Louise Holt took a recent benefit at Bath under the patronage of the Duke of Beaufort. In her bills she stated that money might be thrown on the stage, but watches, jewelry, pianos, sewing machines and other bulky presents must be left at the stage door.

Jenny Long, the young actress personating Little Red Hood, in the pantomime of that name, at Hanley, was a niece of the late Charles Dickens. Her younger sister, Bessie, is also in the piece. Their mother was Dicken's sister.

"King Carrot" continued going splendidly at the Gaiete, Paris, after an outlay of 245,000 francs..... At the Opera Comique, "Fantasio," a new opera by Offenbach, taken from De Musset's comedy of that name, had met with good success.....Frederick Lemaitre, seemingly as young and fresh as ever, was starring at the little Theatre Rossini, at Passy.

The theatre recently built in Rome, and constructed entirely of wood, will hold 15,000.

Berlin possesses no less than twenty-six theatres, and all are constructed to hold extremely large audiences. Prussia now enjoys an unfettered stage. Personages may be caricatured without a warning from any censor. Bismarck is strong enough to endure dramatic allusions, and his toleration has set the example to other ministers. They sometimes sit in the stalls and laugh at their own portraits. Bismarck himself, with little time for amusement, exclusively patronizes the opera. At a popular theatre, "An Hour with Prince Bismarck" is being played.

Mr. H. B. Farnie has brought out successfully at a Liverpool theatre an adaptation of Dickens's "Our Mutual Friend," under the title of "Boffin's Legacy."

A drama by Mr. J. H. Byron, called "Good News," in which Mr. Toole will appear, is in rehearsal at the Gaiety Theatre, London.

Boucicault is to take the direction of Covent Garden Theatre for a dramatic and spectacular season in September next. The season is to extend over a period of seven months, and the performance is to begin with a fairy spectacle, written by Boucicault, and musically illustrated by Offenbach.

Mr. Fechter has been paying a visit to London. Mr. Hermann Vezin is to appear at the Royal Alfred, London.

Mr. Byron's "Partners for Life" attained its one hundredth night, February 1st, at the Globe, London.

Mr. Gye has secured for the Royal Italian Opera M'lle Alboni, now singing at Florence with great success.

A unique and rather sensational performance is that of Herr Holtum, the "Prussian Hercules," at the Holborn Amphitheatre. A siege gun, drawn into the arena by two horses, is loaded by an artilleryman, in sight of the audience, with a twenty-pound ball. Holtum faces the muzzle, gives the word "fire," and after a flash and boom which shakes the building, the cannon ball is caught by him. On one occasion the cannon ball passed over his head instead of into his hands, and as if to prove "that there was really no deception," carried away a portion of one of the pilasters. Herr Holtum before he commenced training for a Hercules was employed in the bar at the Bella Union Theatre in this city.

Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

The Bon vivant's Resort.

Gourmets have a wonderful knack of finding out a place where their cultivated tastes are sure to be gratified. It is not long ago that Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre, was started, yet it is the favorite resort of epicures who there enjoy delicious suppers and oysters in style. The handsomely furnished private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are generally admired. Frank Dumont, Jones' first lieutenant, is celebrated as a manager. C

THE OLD STORY.

"The sails are set the breeze is up
And the prow is turned for a northern sea;
Kiss my cheek and vow me a vow
That you will ever be true to me!"

"I kiss your cheek and I kiss your lips;
Never a change this heart shall know:
Whatever betide—come life, come death—
Darling, darling, I love you so!"

Oh, but the northern nights are keen!
The sailor clings to the frozen shrouds;
A kiss burns hot through his dreams of home
And his heart goes through the flying clouds.

The maiden laughs by the garden gate—
Dreams of love are soonest o'er!
Kisses fall on her lips and hair,
And the world goes on as it went before!

Horrible, Most Horrible.

The management of the new Oakland Theatre announces in an Oakland paper that he has effected an engegement with the great Vivian, "Who will have the horor of making his appearance, etc." Now the Oakland people have a nice little theatre and are waking up, no artiste need have a horror of appearing berore them though there was a time when this might have been the case.

A Theatrical Wardrobe.

Lady Don's theatrical wardrobe was sold by auction at Nottingham, England, at the instance of a vigilant creditor, on the 22d of December. It fetched $1,250. Among its contents were upward of 50 silk and satin dresses, of all colors. One of the articles was the skin of a goat, made to fit on the human body—which was considered to be worth $4. The sale lasted seven hours, Lady Don herself bought several lots.

Gallant.

The most gallant men we know of is one who refrained from kicking a dog that had bitten him, because it was a female dog. "Con found you!" said he; "if it wasn't for your sex I'd kick your head off?"

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Two very remarkable cases of spine complaint have come under our observation. The parties referred to—Mrs. E. A. Pereau and daughter, of Seventh street, Oakland. The former being afflicted with spinal complaint and dyspepsia, and the daughter with a weakness of the spinal column to wasting away of the system. Both are now enjoying very good health after a few months treatment by Dr. Darrin, the great magnetic healer, at 128 Kearny street. Bd

"Tell Me, Where Is Fancy Bred?"

The poet who asked the above question, would have been delighted with the fancy displayed in the beautiful stock of A. Kline, 60 Third street, "A small store well filled, quick returns and small profits," are his two leading mottoes. All the ladies of the Southern portion of the city, go their for their fancy goods and trimmings.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, nine years in Sacramento, and the last ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and devote the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from the suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in this celebrated institution, and then give a few more years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for 10 years previous his practice as a SPECIALIST resulted in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "Honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

CHALLENCE
Emollient Ferruginous Soap!

THIS IS A NEW FAMILY SOAP—A TRUE Soap of Health—which has been carefully prepared according to the recipe of the celebrated DR. NELATON, of Paris. The homogeneous and sanitary substances that compose this Soap render it invaluable for general family use, and especially for children troubled with any Eruption of the Skin.

Its soothing properties make it indispensable for Ladies; in warm weather it allays the baneful effects of perspiration, and imparts a delightful softness and coolness to the skin.

The Ferruginous properties of this Soap of Health will strengthen the pores and remove Freckles and Pimples, and prevent in winter the face and hands from chapping. It will do all that we claim for it, and has only to be tried to be appreciated. Sole Agents and Manufacturers,
Challenge Soap Co.,
416 Sacramento st., bet. Sansome and Battery.
Sold by all Wholesale Druggists in the city and country. fe16 3m
